Human life is a spirit-form that has Emerged from the Eternal Creational Spirit and has developed its own consciousness. It is still connected to the Creational Source and progresses through a series of material lives in order to evolve. [The Pleiadian Mission: A Time Of Awareness, Randolph Winters, 1994.]

One Step At A Time For The SPECTRUM

It's a miracle of sorts, but we're still alive and kicking. This happy (though very stressful) state of affairs is partly the result of an expanded generosity from some of you readers, and partly because we "robbed Peter to pay Paul"—though that's not a particularly technical accounting term for the actual situation. Let me explain a bit:

Remember last month I said: "While many generous souls help out the best they can within their means, sometimes faithfully every month, that total amounts to about 5% of our bare-bones monthly operating expenses. That means 'someone' is helping to the tune of 95% of the total load."

Well, the good news is that this month the amount of your thoughtful generosity rose from 5% to nearly 50%. Responding to my plea, you regular donors were even more generous, while a number of new donors likewise helped.

The bad news is that we still had to make up the remaining 50% from "someone". As you can imagine, a lot of time and energy had to be diverted from the newspaper to address this "ticking bomb" kind of time-sensitive challenge. The result was, as I said at the top, a matter of "robbing Peter to pay Paul".

That is, we are grateful to America East Publishers, who are responsible for producing the WISDOM OF THE RAYS: The Masters Teach volumes, for coming to our rescue. But, in order to help us with a loan, they had to indefinitely suspend publication of the French version of Volume I of WOTR. (This was scheduled to go to press later this month. The French version of WOTR has been a several-year labor-of-love project to address the great hunger for spiritual Truth in all of French-speaking Canada and non-English-speaking Europe.) As well, this emergency generosity from America East puts "on hold" any further work on the much anticipated, latest WOTR Volume III in English, until America East's financial resources can be replenished.

But, as Dr. P. C. of America East explained their position to me recently: "If it weren't for your newspaper, there would be no beloved spiritual messages to collect together in the WOTR books. So, first things first, as far as where to direct even our small financial resources. What you do is too important; you MUST stay alive or we all lose!"

So, that's the story behind why you have this paper to read this month. It's a bittersweet accomplishment at best. Next month is another arduous challenge; maybe others of you readers who have been financially blessed would be willing to help at this critical time?

A practical analogy for understanding our situation is to picture a small (but good!) airline, say with a single airplane. You need a reliable mechanic, a pilot, a copilot, a few other staff, a dry hangar, etc. These are FIXED costs, just to get off the ground. You can't "turn down" the "cost knob" any further than that—except, of course, to the "off" position.

These bare-bones fixed costs are then offset by how many passengers come on board for each, say, monthly flight. Due to the fixed costs, it costs almost the same to launch the airplane empty as full. But—there's a certain number of PAYING passengers who get you to the "break-even" point; and beyond that, you are self-sustaining and maybe even profitable.

The challenge—with either the airline analogy or this newspaper—is to have the financial resources to stay operational WHILE the "passenger" list continues to build up to, and past, that "break-even" point. Every successful business person I know counsels, from their own personal experience, about how you have to "be patient and persistent" while a business builds over at least several years (like, say, a peach orchard, which takes five years before the first peaches are ready to sell). And that's surely good advice—IF you happen to have the resources to exercise that patience!

You longtime readers know all too well how and why we came into existence in the first place. I won't repeat that sad and shameful story. It's no less than a miracle that we're alive at all—much less growing in respect and visibility and "passengers" every month! Yet we seem to still carry a heavy, heavy load of misplaced "bad vibes" with some of you longtime readers who otherwise would enthusiastically help us financially—as if it is somehow our fault for risking everything by standing up to and exposing a very corrupt situation. Too bad if we burst a bubble of seeming comfort—The Truth is THE TRUTH!

That is what The SPECTRUM stands for—The Truth—and each month, when our "flight" takes off, we have aboard more and more passengers who express sincere appreciation for the integrity of our "airline" and the unique value it provides as a Quality product of wide range that does not economize on "going the extra mile" to deliver the expected goods.

This reputation of Quality likewise holds very, very true with those who, more and more now, actively SEEK US OUT to provide us with The Truth they know from personal experience—so we can share that with you.

Along with our other unique features, Rick Martin has a very special interview scheduled for next month's issue of The SPECTRUM. But will there BE a next month's issue? I honestly don't know at this point.

However, on behalf of all of us here, I want to sincerely thank those of you who helped to make this month's SPECTRUM possible. We feel deeply blessed by such a vote of support!

Leading Doctors' Group Votes To Oppose Mandatory Vaccinations

Editor's note: The following awesome report just came in at the last moment. With all the push going on in the controlled print and broadcast media to encourage flu shots and other vaccinations, you probably aren't going to hear about this decision there! Regular readers of The SPECTRUM are well aware of the dangers of vaccinations—both unintentional and intentional—and so this Resolution is a major victory for our health and safety. This group should be applauded for taking such a moral stand on such a volatile issue. It's about time an important group of people found the courage to stand up and speak The Truth.

Now, who's next? Maybe the good guys at NASA are ready to get together and speak out about longtime ongoing extraterrestrial encounters? Or maybe some of the pilots who are flying the chemtrail jets would like to get together and clear their consciences by speaking out on what nasty stuff they are spraying down upon us? Or...?

From the INTERNET, <<http://sightings.com>>, 11/3/00: [quoting]

Dr. James Hirsen <hirsen@earthlink.net>

A leading national physician organization is calling for a moratorium on all government mandated vaccines and has passed a resolution to that end at their annual meeting.

Members of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons (AAPS) voted this week at their 57th Annual Meeting in St. Louis to pass a resolution calling for an end to mandatory childhood vaccines. The resolution passed without a single "no" vote. [Text of Resolution and mandatory vaccine fact sheet posted at <www.aapsonline.org> and following this news story.]

"Our children face the possibility of death or serious long-term adverse effects from mandated vaccines that aren't necessary or that have very limited benefits" said Jane M. Orient, MD, AAPS Executive Director.

"This is not a vote against vaccines" said Dr. Orient. "This resolution only attempts to halt blanket vaccine mandates by government agencies and school districts that give no consideration for the rights of the parents or the individual medical condition of the child."

Forty-two states have mandatory vaccine policies, and many children are required to have 22 shots before first grade. On top of that, as a condition for school attendance, many school districts require vaccination for diseases such as Hepatitis B—primarily an adult disease, usually spread by multiple sex partners, drug abuse, or an occupation with exposure to blood.

And yet, children under the age of 14 are three times more likely to suffer adverse effects—including death—following the Hepatitis B vaccine than to catch the disease itself.

Just last week, students in Utica, NY were sent home from school, and told they could not return until they had been forced to receive Hep B vaccinations. Further, parents were threatened by Child Protective Services with possible seizure of their children based on "education neglect".

"It's obscene to threaten to seize a child just because his parents refuse medical treatment that is obviously unnecessary and perhaps even dangerous" said Dr. Orient. "AAPS believes that parents, with the advice of their doctors, should make decisions about their children's medical care—not government bureaucrats. This Resolution affirms that position."

(Note: AAPS is a professional association of physicians dedicated since 1943 to the sanctity of the patient-physician relationship. Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, Inc., 1601 N. AAPS RESOLUTION CONCERNING MANDATORY VACCINES

"Ethical Medicine" AAPS Annual Meeting October 25-28, 2000 in St. Louis, MO.

Submitted for member approval:

WHEREAS: The statement of Patients' Freedoms adopted by the Assembly at the 47th annual meeting of AAPS in 1990 provides that "Patients have the freedom to refuse medical treatment even if it is recommended by their physician and to be informed about their medical condition, the risks and benefits of treatment, and appropriate alternatives"; and

WHEREAS: There are increasing numbers of mandatory childhood vaccines, to which children are often subjected without meaningful informed consent, including information about potential adverse side effects; and

WHEREAS: Parents who exercise their freedom to refuse one or more vaccines may be subjected to penalties ranging from deprivation of the right to enroll their child in school, to threats of removing the child from parental custody and forcible vaccination; and

WHEREAS: Safety testing of many vaccines is limited and the data are unavailable for independent scrutiny, so that mass vaccination is equivalent to human experimentation and subject to the Nuremberg Code, which requires voluntary informed consent; and

WHEREAS: The process of approving and "recommending" vaccines is tainted with conflicts of interest;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED: That AAPS calls for a moratorium on vaccine mandates and for physicians to insist upon truly informed consent for the use of vaccines.

FACT SHEET ON MANDATORY VACCINES

AAPS does not oppose vaccines. AAPS has never taken an anti-vaccine position, although opponents have tried to paint that picture. AAPS has only attempted to halt government or school districts from blanket vaccine mandates that violate parental informed consent.

42 states have mandatory vaccine policies, and many children are required 22 shots by first grade.

According to government statistics, children under the age of 14 are three times more likely to suffer adverse effects, including death following the Hepatitis B vaccine than to catch the disease itself.

The Centers for Disease Control admits that the reported number of adverse effects of vaccines is probably only 10% of actual adverse effects.

The Physician's Desk Reference cites adverse reactions to the Hepatitis B at less than 1 percent. However, if more than 70 million American children receive the vaccine, that means more than 700,000 children are likely to suffer adverse reactions.

Children are a very low risk group for Hepatitis B. Primary risk factors are dependent on lifestyle, i.e. multiple sex partners, drug abuse, or an occupation with exposure to blood.

Rampant conflicts of interest in the approval process has been the subject of several Congressional hearings, and a recent Congressional report concluded that the pharmaceutical industry has indeed exerted undue influence on mandatory vaccine legislation toward its own financial interests.

The vaccine approval process has also been contaminated by flawed or incomplete clinical trials, and government officials have chosen to ignore negative results. For example, the CDC was forced to withdraw its recommendation of the rotavirus vaccine within one year of approval. Yet public documents obtained by AAPS show that the CDC was aware of alarmingly high intussusception rates months before the vaccine was approved and recommended.

Mandatory vaccines violate the medical ethic of informed consent. A case could also be made that mandates for vaccines by school districts and legislatures is the de facto practice of medicine without a license.

The CDC's own Guide To Contraindications To Childhood Vaccination warns that when assessing children's common symptoms: "if any one of them is a contraindication, DO NOT VACCINATE" [caps added]. And yet, under legislated mandates, the vaccines are still required.

[End quoting]

Of course it is purely "accidental" that, rather than reporting the above news, the Montreal Gazette for Friday, November 3, 2000 carries a front-and-center prominent Front-Page story subliminally attempting to embarrass doctors and nurses because so many are refusing to take flu shots like good little New World Order sheep should.

The screaming headline reads: "Flu Shot: Doctors, Nurses Just Don't Get It" and on the continuation inside: "Unvaccinated Staff A Threat To Patients".

The article begins: "Haven't got your flu shot yet? You're not alone.

"Most doctors, nurses, and other medical staff who work in the infectious environments of hospitals, clinics, and nursing homes don't get vaccinated for the influenza virus either.

"Either they think they're too healthy to catch the flu in the first place. Or they share the fear of a lot of their patients—that the shot will actually give them the flu.

"It's a common superstition, disproved by science...." Oh yeah? Disproved by WHAT science? Maybe these prostituted newspaper writers should study the AAPS Resolution very carefully! These Canadian medical professionals know more than they are talking about—and it shows in their ACTIONS, if not in their courage to voice legitimate concerns.

PEOPLE KILLED BY PLANE
SPRAYING OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL GAME AND ELSEWHERE

From the INTERNET,
<StopNWO@aol.com>, 10/13/00: [quoting]

Please distribute far and wide, and as updates arrive we will mail.

In Columbus, Ohio on September 2, over 90,000 people were at Buckeye Stadium (Ohio State University) to attend, I believe, the opening game of the season. The stadium was newly renovated to the tune of several million dollars, and for the love of money (as usual) this following story was to be kept quiet.

A well-known patriot and his wife were attending the game. During the game planes were flying overhead displaying banners. In the midst of the banner-flying planes was one or more other planes. This "other" plane/planes was identified as an "agricultural" spray plane. The spray was noticed by some of the fans attending the game. These fans were told, of course, that the spray was "just condensation".

Several weeks later, over 16,000 fans were ill. I was told that eight people had died as of last Sunday night. Apparently the pathogen is a very rare gram-positive rod bacteria. Symptoms are extreme fatigue, pain in the lungs, and were described by several as "the absolute worst I have ever felt in my life". There appears to be an incubation period of around ten days. Other gram-positive rod pathogens include anthrax, diphtheria and tuberculosis.

The plane that was seen spraying at the stadium was later discovered in a hangar in Delaware, Ohio. The plane had been stolen before the game and it is unknown at this time who stole or flew that plane which dispersed the poison over the Ohio State fans.

A nurse at a local hospital told Larry that they had been told to add antibiotics to the football players' Gatorade BEFORE THE GAME. Obviously they wanted to keep their money-making football team relatively healthy to insure their newly renovated multi-million-dollar stadium would be packed to capacity for future season games.

Apparently fans in a healthy state did not become ill, while health-compromised fans either did not recover or have had a REAL hard time attempting to recover.

A phone call from Oregon this afternoon stated that they had been sprayed several weeks ago, became deathly ill with something that ALSO appeared to attack the lungs. The entire family—and I am sure others in the area—were very sick.

The method used by the Oregonians to recover was Echinacea, Olive Leaf Extract, and Grapefruit Extract. They were told not to utilize "normal" methods for recovery or they WOULD NOT MAKE IT! We are not attempting to prescribe, of course, but if it were me, I would either take the above or add colloidal/ionic silver to the protocol, among other items. In fact, I would make sure that my immune system was intact now or start building very quickly—because who knows—the next spraying could be in your area. And if you want to know the truth about it, it probably already was!

The person who is very ill and is presently hospitalized is Larry Harris. Larry is a microbiologist and is very familiar with gram-positive bacilli or pathogens. He was initially taken to a hospital and treated with "shotgun" antibiotics. They are presently attempting to treat Larry with an antibiotic found in Siberia and made from the spores of reindeer antlers. He is on morphine and oxygen. There appears to be very severe pain in his lungs and back.

Larry's wife says that he is now being treated for pneumonia. Test results from the hospital only stated "a rare gram-positive rod". Larry would appreciate help in determining WHICH rare gram-positive rod!

Please take a moment and say a prayer for Larry. People like Larry are very needed in our fight for freedom in this country. He has given more than most of you will ever know, and I pray that he does not give his life in this way at this time. We need him. [End quoting]

I haven't had any update on Larry's condition, but do keep him—and the others so assaulted—in your prayers.

This is "just" an example how blatant these criminals are getting. Are we going to continue to allow them to murder or maim us at their pleasure? Take a look at the article elsewhere in this issue of The SPECTRUM listing the modern historical chronology of human biological experimentation.

The unconscionable twist to this story is that Ohio State officials apparently were aware, ahead of time, of what was going to happen. Does this mean that they were "bought" into silence or told it was a matter of "national security" or what?

LAW AND ORDER TYRANNY

From the INTERNET, <illusions@beyond-the-illusion.com>, 10/16/00: [quoting]

(Note: We archive hundreds of similar "Liberty Issues" posts at <<http://www.msen.com/~lloyd/oldprojects/>

If you live in Albuquerque, and you have teenagers who might be inclined to raid your wine, beer, or whiskey cupboard while you are away, then rent your housing, don't buy. The city council has recently passed a law that lets the city seize your home if it is used for underage drinking. If you think it is cruel and unusual punishment to wreck a family financially, to poison parent-sibling relationships, and to load teenagers with the guilt of losing the family home, you are correct. This Albuquerque law is the latest manifestation of the forfeiture laws brought in by the conservatives' war against drugs in the 1980s.

Conservatives did not realize that the main result of their efforts would be the routine confiscation of the assets of the innocent. Frustrated by the difficulty of deterring drug trafficking, conservatives decided that suppressing the drug trade was more important than the U.S. Constitution.

The result was the federal Comprehensive Forfeiture Act of 1984. This law permits the confiscation of assets that in any way "facilitated" a drug crime.

The confiscation is permitted regardless of whether the owner participated in illegal drug activity or was aware that others had brought drugs to his property. Moreover, no proof is needed. To seize property, law-enforcement officials need only claim "probable cause" for their discretionary actions.

People have lost homes, cars, boats, airplanes, motels, rental property, cash, land and other assets simply because police had "probable cause" to believe that a third party smoked a joint on leased, borrowed, visited, or rented property. In 80 percent of asset forfeitures, no charges are filed against the confiscated owners.

The asset forfeiture powers were expanded in 1988, 1990, and 1992. The forfeiture provision now covers 140 other federal offenses, and a large number of state and local forfeiture laws have been added to the books.

Forfeiture has proved to be a boon for law-enforcement agencies, as they are permitted to keep the money. House Judiciary Committee Chairman Henry Hyde has noted that agents conducting drug stings chose valuable sites for their sting operations because the presence of drugs at those sites permits them to be seized for facilitating a drug crime.

Look at it from the standpoint of the police. Their budgets are squeezed to pay for welfare entitlements and political payoffs. Asset forfeitures are a way of augmenting their funding.

Lawmakers show scant signs of learning from their mistakes. Rep Jim Leach, R-Iowa, and Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., want to plow up our financial privacy in order to pursue money-laundering. They have introduced a bill that would, in effect, place each of us under constant criminal investigation of our financial behavior. Financial institutions would be required to maintain profiles of their customers' finances without a warrant, evidence, or reasonable suspicion of wrongdoing.

Moreover, Leach and Kerry want this done on an international level. Their legislation presumes that any "tax haven"—that is, a country with lower taxes than Western welfare states—is ipso facto engaged in money laundering.

In 1998, federal bureaucrats tried to bring in similar rules, but public outcry defeated that effort to require banks to "profile" their customers.

Two years later, elected representatives—Jim Leach and John Kerry—are proposing more abusive rules than those dreamed up by unaccountable bureaucrats.

If Americans paid attention, Leach and Kerry would be defeated at the ballot box. But Americans are so badly educated that they do not understand that the Bill Of Rights is more important than apprehending drug dealers.

In A Man For All Seasons, (Saint) Sir Thomas More is asked: "Why should the guilty have the benefit of law?" He answers that when rights are disregarded in order to pursue the guilty, the rights of the innocent are also lost. If law is designed to facilitate chasing after criminals, the innocent are denied the protection of law.

In his Commentaries On The Laws Of England, William Blackstone developed the concept of law as a shield for the innocent rather than a weapon in the hands of government. In the United States, Blackstone's vision of law—the protection of the innocent from arbitrary power—has given way to Jeremy Bentham's vision of law as a device for apprehending the guilty.

Blackstone's vision gave us the Constitution and the Bill Of Rights. Bentham has afflicted us with asset forfeiture and financial profiling. Unless Blackstone makes a comeback in the law schools, the United States will become a tyranny. [End quoting]

And some think we still have any semblance of freedom in this country? It depends on your definition of freedom!

Forced Genital Exams Of Children—
Nothing Strange Or Unusual Here?

Asheville Tribune

By John W. Whitehead

Strangers entered two different elementary schools in Tulsa, Oklahoma on two separate occasions. They forcibly removed the clothes from numerous children between the ages of three and five—over their cries of fear and desperate attempts to resist—and proceeded to probe the genitals of the now-nude children.

Most schools now have elaborate procedures to screen and account for visitors. However, this sounds like a situation where school safety precautions failed horribly. What happened to these children is much worse than mere negligence because authorities at both schools actually arranged for and supported these outrageous events.

The strangers who entered the elementary schools were LPN nurses assigned to the schools to take blood samples and perform genital exams on behalf of the Head Start program that is associated with the schools. The great majority of the children were of African-American or Hispanic descent.

Ostensibly, the nurses were looking for signs of child abuse or other health problems among the youngsters.

The nurses conducted their exams over the protests of the children, with some crying for their mothers. Still others, intimidated and filled with fear, even attempted to resist physically. Their parents did not know that the exams were scheduled and had not given their consent. So there was no way they could have known the terror their children were enduring during their school day.

The nurses stretched the children out on a floor mat, on top of a school desk, and forcibly removed their clothes. Although the nurses were not even wearing hygienic gloves, they pressed and probed the children's genitals and took blood samples. The exams were conducted en masse—the children endured these humiliations in front of one other, amidst the panic, crying, and fear.

When confronted about the situation, the Head Start director responsible for the exams said that he didn't think there was anything strange or unusual about the physicals. The tragic thing is that the director may be partially right—horror trips like this may become less and less unusual. A similar situation has already occurred to middle school girls at a public school in Pennsylvania.

But the director is definitely wrong about there being nothing strange here. First, standard medical practices seem to have been abandoned. There was no notice or parental consent, and the absence of hygienic gloves may indicate an even broader lack of good medical procedures.

More important, though, is the effect these exams had on the children. Imagine the terror they endured as strangers stripped them and invaded their most private parts, ignoring their resistance and cries. The strangers wouldn't even allow the children's teachers to come in and help calm them down.

These children were traumatized and humiliated and, as a result, suffered psychological and emotional distress. They continue to suffer after-effects such as fear, anger, and guilt. Medical and psychological experts say that it will take a minimum of five years for the children to recover from this event, if they ever do so fully. And their parents are undoubtedly suffering, as well.

This kind of action cannot be justified. Thirteen families have now filed a lawsuit against Head Start, the nurses involved, the county health department, and the school district. The parents allege violations of their privacy, emotional and mental distress of their children, and other constitutional claims. But no matter what the outcome of this case is, these young people will probably never be made whole again.

There is no doubt that sexual abuse is a serious problem and children must be protected from it. But there is no evidence that sexual abuse is so widespread that it justifies activities such as these that, in truth, amount to government-sponsored sexual abuse.

[End quoting]

Go back and re-read the feature article on this subject in the last issue of The SPECTRUM for more disturbing news. Parents have to be a lot more vigilant about what goes on at schools than most feel they have time for.

On a larger scale, the above three articles show all too vividly what the so-called "elite" controllers think about us as being their property, their cattle. Could it really have been any worse when we battled for our freedom from England centuries ago?

For those of you who missed my earlier post: The Columbine Scam: Government Knew BEFORE IT HAPPENED!

DENVER, COLORADO (September 22)—On the talk show Freedom Forum, on the American Freedom Network, an investigative reporter, William Zabel, tells how he has the records of a government agent calling into St. Luke Presbyterian emergency room on the government emergency phone line.

The agent called one hour and thirty-five minutes BEFORE the shooting started at the Columbine High School warning the emergency room to prepare for bodies coming because a bomb would be going off and shooting would take place at Columbine High School.

Before two teens launched their deadly attack on Columbine High, bullying was rampant, the Trench Coat Mafia was menacing and the killers gave off repeated warning signs of their intentions—victims' parents and a former staff member charged Monday.

WORST-EVER MASSIVE COAL WASTE SPILL POURS INTO OHIO RIVER

From the INTERNET, <<http://sightings.com>>, 10/21/00: [quoting]

By Lee Mueller—Eastern Kentucky Bureau, Lexington Herald-Leader

INEZ—The enormity of last week's massive coal-waste spill in Martin County began to sink in yesterday as cleanup crews struggled to wrap their arms around a disaster as difficult to grasp as the foamy sludge itself.

While Ashland officials watched the Big Sandy River for the arrival of a 75-mile streak of black water hovering just upstream from their water plant on the Ohio River, others began to quantify the impact of the spill.

Among the observations:

State officials said it is worse than May's bourbon spill in Anderson County, when Wild Turkey flowed into the Kentucky River from a burning warehouse that had held more than 500,000 gallons. The contamination killed hundreds of thousands of fish in what was called the worst fish kill in state history.

Last week's spill contained measurable amounts of metals, including arsenic, mercury, lead, copper, and chromium, a federal official said yesterday, but not enough to pose health problems in treated water.

A spokeswoman for the Cincinnati-based Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission, which monitors pollution in the Ohio River watershed, said the coal-waste spill could rival the worst recorded inland-waterway spill. That was in 1988, when a diesel-fuel tank exploded in Pennsylvania, dumping a million gallons of the fuel into the Monongahela River.

Wayne Davis, chief of the Department for Fish and Wildlife Resources' environmental section, said: "We have instances of black water every year, but this is the worst one I've seen or heard of."

A federal Environmental Protection Agency official in Atlanta said his agency does not rank disasters, but he estimated that in terms of area affected, the Eastern Kentucky spill probably rates among the 10 worst such cases in the South.

EPA cleanup coordinator Fred Stroud said a coal-company consultant has estimated it will cost $50 million to $60 million to clean up the streams.

About 250 million gallons of water, mixed with 155,000 cubic yards of coal wastes, poured into streams October 11 after a 72-acre slurry pond failed at Martin County Coal Corporation's preparation plant on a hilltop near Inez.

Detecting hazardous metals in the sludge automatically made the disaster eligible for EPA's Superfund assistance. But Stroud said the coal company, owned by A.T. Massey Coal Inc., is insured and has been working hard to limit the damage with its own money.

Among other things, the company is paying for temporary waterlines for Martin County and Louisa in Kentucky, and Kermit and Kenova in West Virginia. That work is expected to be completed this week.

The company has also been dredging the drier sludge from Coldwater and Wolf creeks, the streams that were hit the hardest. Vacuum trucks are being used to remove material from the streams and deposit it in holding pits on company property.

"They seem to want to do the right thing" Stroud said. He said Martin County Coal President Dennis Hatfield "is taking responsibility for what happened and that's a good thing. We've had people run off before."

No injuries have been reported, but so far about 100 miles of waterways have been affected, state officials said.

In Ashland, public services director Steve Corbitt was waiting to measure any additional impact after the sludge reaches the Ohio.

Corbitt oversees the Ashland water plant, which produces 9 million gallons of water a day. He was uncertain what to expect.

"We haven't seen the big nasty stuff yet" he said.

Water treatment plants measure the solids in untreated water in terms of "turbidity" he said.

"Our river water is usually 1 in turbidity" Corbitt said. "We have treated 750 before, during floods. That's dirty."

Yesterday morning, however, Corbitt said he received reports that turbidity at the peak of the sludge, 10 miles away and flowing slowly toward him, was 6,000.

"When it gets up into the thousands, I can't even visualize how heavy that is" he said. "This is a totally different animal than we've ever seen before."

Corbitt said the Big Sandy River's current traditionally carries oil spills and other pollution out into the Ohio River, away from Ashland's water plant, which is 2 miles downstream on the Ohio.

Corbitt said he hopes the river of sludge will loop around his plant, too. If it doesn't, the city intends to send 18 barges, with half-million-gallon capacities, upstream to obtain fresh water for its plant.

Area health officials estimate that the spill has affected 4,500 people in 1,500 residences along the river, said Maleva Chamberlain, a spokeswoman for the state Division of Water.

Gil Lawson of the state Cabinet for Health Services said 27,623 people were without water in two water systems in Louisa and Martin County. That figure does not include people served by wells and smaller systems, he said.

So far, only a few dead fish have been sighted, Davis said, mostly when people stirred water and sludge behind logjams.

On the Tug Fork at Warfield, ducks swam on the black surface yesterday while fisheries biologist Dan Michaelson tried to determine what was happening beneath. He worked from a boat to try to shock fish to the surface.

"Suckers seem to be the hardest-hit fish" Michaelson said. "In some that we've looked at, the gills seem to be coated over. We've found evidence of live fish. Carp seem to be doing fine. But we're only beginning to see the severity of this fish kill."

Michaelson said ducks and other water birds seem unaffected by the spill. Frogs and salamanders, he said, were killed along with fish in Coldwater and Wolf creeks.

"We are not sure how long this black water will last" Davis said. "Fish can stand some conditions like this, but it's already been a week. Can they last a week? Can they last two weeks?"

But We Don't Need A War

The June 10, 2000 issue of the British Medical Journal reports that on March 9, 2000, doctors in the Israel Medical Association went on strike to protest a new four-year wage contract for doctors. Since going on strike, the death rate in Israel has dropped considerably according to a survey of Israeli burial societies.

"The number of funerals we have performed has fallen drastically" said Hananya Shahor, director of Jerusalem's Kehilat Yerushalayim burial society. "This month, there were only 93 funerals, compared with 153 in May 1999, 133 in the same months in 1998, and 139 in May 1997."

Meir Adler, who manages the Shamgar Funeral Parlour says: "There definitely is a connection between the doctors' sanctions and fewer deaths. We saw the same thing in 1983 (when the doctors applied sanctions for four and a half months)." There is one town in Israel where the death rate has remained constant, the town of Netanya. Netanya has only one hospital and the doctors there signed a no-strike clause with their contract and did not participate in the country-wide sanctions.

How many lives do you think would be saved in the U.S. if the doctors would go on strike here? Does anyone remember the study, from about ten years ago now, which dramatically showed how much longer (almost double) people lived who elected to do NOTHING about their cancer diagnosis as opposed to those who went the usual chemo/radiation routes?

DRUG AWARENESS: NEW SUICIDE WARNING IN GREAT BRITAIN

From the INTERNET, e-mail, 11/14/00: [quoting]

Here's an email that Circare, a health rights

In response to increasing public concern over suicides among people taking Prozac and other SSRI anti-depressants, the British Medicines Control Agency (MCA), which is the equivalent to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, now requires the manufacturers of Prozac and the other anti-depressants to add the following warning to physicians and patients: "People may feel suicidal in the first few weeks of taking Prozac and similar antidepressants."

Why has the FDA failed to issue similar warnings to protect the American public?

In the U.S. these drugs, though associated with an array of severe adverse reactions in some patients, are widely and haphazardly prescribed, not only for adults, but for children—even toddlers and infants. Contrary to industry claims that these drugs are safe—based on short-term (usually 6 week) clinical trials before they were approved by the FDA—their long-term effects have not been studied, nor is it known whether they are safe for children.

According to FDA-compiled data, in 1994 Prozac was prescribed 349,000 times in pediatric patients under 16 years; Zoloft was prescribed 248,000 times. Furthermore, Prozac was prescribed 3,000 times for infants under one year old! (See Psychiatric Times, March 1998, p.69)

Instead of protecting the public by warning physicians and patients about the risks associated with the drugs, the FDA is protecting the profit-margins of drug manufacturers.

PROVED: 14HZ SIGNAL
SUPPRESSES RAINFALL, INDUCES VIOLENT WINDS

From the INTERNET, <para-discuss@tje.net>, 10/25/00: [quoting]

Now this is very disturbing! Got this from another list. —Billie

Within the past 24 hours, our ongoing monitoring of low-frequency HAARP transmissions has yielded some surprising and distressing information.

Correlating our data with official weather records, we found that when the 14 Hertz signal was being broadcast at the highest output levels, wind speeds went BALLISTIC—topping out at nearly 70 miles an hour.

But that's in accordance with the effects we've been seeing from this signal the whole time we've been doing this research.

However, what we ALSO realized was that, at the same time, a large, very noticeable weather front approaching the northern California coast yesterday afternoon (stretching all the way to British Columbia) and originally expected to drop some hefty precipitation along the northwest coast yesterday and today, began shredding apart on satellite photos as the 14 Hertz transmissions were turned WAY up.

By cross-referencing our data on the 14 Hertz signal last night beginning around 11 PM (when the front finally came ashore) EXACTLY in chronological terms with the times that measurable precipitation fell or did NOT fall on specific areas in the northern California area, we came to the firm conclusion that these transmissions NOT ONLY amplify/intensify higher-elevation wind velocities and exacerbate atmospheric instability, but they will ALSO severely deteriorate, disperse, and disintegrate moisture-laden weather fronts. POSITIVELY! These are the weather systems which bring GREATLY-NEEDED rainfall to the western U.S. (and beyond)!

The front that was supposed to bring rain to California by this morning HAS BEEN DESTROYED! Check the satellite photos yourself, starting last night!

So: Now we have clear evidence that the vicious, homicidal psychos masterminding the New World Order's global weather modification operations have the clear intention of disturbing, even destroying, the fundamental atmospheric patterns and conditions which enable the development of rain. Their project operators are DELIBERATELY and INTENTIONALLY destroying weather fronts and preventing rain from falling in this targeted region.

Apparently their intention here is to desiccate the very Earth itself, inducing widespread desertification and inconceivable decimation of the Earth's myriad life forms.

That includes HUMAN BEINGS!

We must destroy these satanic monsters and everything they represent, somehow or other, if WE are to survive. —NewsHawk Inc.

[End quoting]

It looks like someone has just now awakened to an example of the kind of weather modification that has been going on since at least the mid 1970s. It is true that the HAARP system—as we've reported many times in past issues of The SPECTRUM—can be a formidable tool for weather modification, but it is by no means the only tool, or HAARP's only goal.

Moreover, the weather effects observed and reported above may have been “incidental” to what was actually intended to be accomplished toward some other, non-weather-related goal. In other words, getting your driveway wet is incidental to washing your car, but it still gets wet—even though your agenda/goal was to wash the car, not water the driveway. Much of the intended use of the HAARP system is far more disruptive than “merely” weather modification.

Curriculum To Make Kindergartners Comfortable With 'Gay And Lesbian Families'

By Allyson Smith

CHICAGO—Members of the Gay, Lesbian, and Straight Education Network, GLSEN, discussed plans to campaign against the Boy Scouts and to introduce positive discussions about homosexuality into elementary school classrooms—including kindergarten—during their annual conference Oct. 6-8 in the Chicago suburb of Arlington Heights.

This year's conference theme, “Ending The Hate Beginning In School”, highlights GLSEN's contention that teaching pro-homosexual lessons to young schoolchildren is an appropriate way to combat “homophobia” and “hatred” directed at homosexuals. But critics like Peter LaBarbera of the Americans for Truth Project, who led a pro-family coalition protesting the conference, said GLSEN's elementary school agenda “manipulates the minds of impressionable children”.

GLSEN chose the Windy City for its conference to celebrate the opening of its third regional office here (the organization is based in New York City). Organizers said around 800 people, including teenage students, some of whom received financial scholarships, attended the event.

Scouts Out, Homosexual Clubs In

GLSEN announced plans to pressure schools to lobby school districts to stop sponsoring the Boy Scouts due to its ban on homosexual scoutmasters.

“The Boy Scouts can present in someone's homeroom, they can get the school lists of students, they can have posters in the halls.... It's a very unique, special access that most other clubs do not enjoy, and at the same time they are a discriminatory club” said GLSEN public policy director M.K. Cullen.

LaBarbera countered that homosexual student clubs advocated by GLSEN nationwide—called Gay-Straight Alliances—often receive much the same access. Recently, Newton North High School in the Boston suburb of Newton, Massachusetts (Rep. Barney Frank's hometown), celebrated “Bisexual Awareness Day”. A large banner with the slogan “Celebrate Bisexual Awareness Day” was hanging over the main entrance of the school until parents got wind of it and complained to school authorities.

Brian Camenker, president of the Parents Rights Coalition, and whose daughter attends Newton North, obtained posters detailing alleged “myths” and “truths” about bisexuality that were posted in the school's halls to promote “Bisexual Awareness”. One of the stated “myths” was: “Bisexual people are promiscuous.” A “truth” was that “Bisexual people may or may not be attracted to both sexes equally.”

At the anti-GLSEN rally Friday, LaBarbera said: “If you asked parents whose agenda—GLSEN's or the Boy Scouts—presents the real threat to schoolchildren, I think most would say that GLSEN does more harm than the Boy Scouts ever could.”

Gay Elementary Social Studies

At a workshop at the GLSEN conference titled “Appreciating A Broader Canvas: How Teachers Understand Gay And Lesbian Content Integration In Elementary Social Studies” participants were instructed on ways to incorporate pro-gay content into family studies for grades K-3 and into U.S. immigration history for grades 4-6.

The K-3 lesson plan advised educators to help students “recognize diverse family constellations” by encouraging discussion of individual family differences and similarities and by showing photographs from a book entitled Celebrating Families, which includes “lesbian mothers/adopted daughters”.

The lesson plan for grades 4-6 told teachers to integrate homosexual-affirming curricula into U.S. immigration studies by interspersing stories of homosexual migration from small towns to large cities amongst traditional immigration studies of other groups who came to America to escape persecution, such as the Pilgrims and Chinese and Hispanic immigrants.

In another session, the film That's A Family! was shown. The movie is the second by lesbian activists Debra Chasnoff and Helen Cohen, creators of the controversial film It's Elementary, which showed instructors giving pro-homosexual classroom lessons to young children. According to a promotional flyer,

That's A Family! is a highly entertaining half hour documentary for elementary school children, featuring kids from a wide variety of family structures. Family portraits include multi-racial families, grandparent-headed families, gay and lesbian families, single-parent families, and others.

In addition to segments depicting male and female homosexual families, the movie also includes a vignette of a family consisting of a mother and her live-in boyfriend. Traditional mother-and-father two-parent families are not shown—except in cases where the parents have widely divergent ethnic or religious backgrounds. GLSEN and other homosexual groups are lobbying to get That's A Family! shown in classrooms across the country.

Gay Geometry

At a GLSEN workshop entitled “LGBT [Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender] Inclusion—Not The Usual Suspects”, attendees received a handout telling of ways to include pro-homosexual content in geometry classes by using “known political symbols (a pink triangle, a yellow Star of David, a political flag, the purple teletubbie) to study shapes. While the geometry lesson is the goal, the history and political information surrounding the shape is also introduced”.

Although conference presenters talked about the importance of disseminating only “age-appropriate” material, all participants, including dozens of high school-aged kids, had the opportunity to receive a “Visitor’s Companion” that advertised Chicago’s homosexual “leather” bars, a sex club, and a homosexual bathhouse called “Steamworks”, which was advertised as a “24-hour men’s gym/sauna”.

LaBarbera questioned why GLSEN’s organizers—already bruising over the recent arrest of a Chicago GLSEN leader for soliciting sex with an underage boy (GLSEN expelled the man)—did not take the “simple step of keeping these gay sex club ads from reaching the teenagers in their care”.

“For years, GLSEN has claimed to protect ‘at-risk’ kids. But they are now helping put young teenage boys at risk by uncritically passing out a gay guide that hawks anonymous sex clubs and ‘leather’ bars in Chicago” he said. “This fits into a pattern of GLSEN failing to shield its young followers from a homosexual male sexual culture that not only tolerates, but often celebrates, promiscuity.” (At last year’s GLSEN conference in Atlanta, a similar sexually-laden booklet was passed out to attendees.)

Coming Out In The Classroom

During an all-day seminar Friday called “LGBT Educators Empowerment”, high school teacher Patricia Nicolari of GLSEN/Connecticut described ways in which educators can “come out” to students based on a five-stage continuum ranging from “In [the closet]” to “Out [of the closet]”. She described actions teachers might take during Stage 3, “Gradual Risks”, as follows:

“You wear the jewelry, maybe a little triangle or a little rainbow, something very subtle. You start with a little sticker on your car or maybe a few little subtle changes in your classroom that only you think that you know...maybe talking about your roommate and the things that you’ve done together, trips that you may have taken. You may bring up gay news...testing the waters, so to speak. When you test the waters, you’re trying to gauge the climate in your school. You could do that in the faculty room. When you bring up gay news, how do the other teachers react?”

During Stage 4, “Increased Risk-Taking”, Nicolari advised “taking your partner to school events”, “addressing gay jokes”, and getting the [school] administration and parents “into place”.

Co-moderator Michael Fiorello discussed the importance of enlisting “straight allies” such as members of Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays and religious leaders who defend homosexual teachers. He added: “I’m not trying to stifle minority religious views...but they should not be the controlling element of curriculum [or of] hiring policy, firing policy, [or] coaching....”

Quoting a 1977 textbook she uses in her junior-senior “Family Life” class, Nicolari said: “In this book, dating will refer to one male and one female spending time together. So I said [to my class]: ‘I feel I need to point this out. There can be exceptions to that. It can be two females dating, or two males dating.’”

Unisex Bathrooms

Much of the GLSEN conference dealt with assisting high school and middle school students in launching and improving “Gay-Straight Alliance” or GSA clubs. These in-school clubs promote the acceptance of “gay”, bisexual, and “transgender” students, and have been the subject of intense controversy all across the nation. Among the workshops offered at the GLSEN conference was one entitled “How To Run A Killer GSA.”

The high level of commitment among GLSEN activists to the “trans” cause was illustrated by the numerous seminars devoted to “transgender” issues.

GLSEN held two all-day seminars for youth activists only on Friday. Among the fliers available outside the seminars was one entitled “Transgender Issues And Resources”. This publication listed “tips and suggested activities that can be used to help your GSA become more gender-inclusive, begin talking about gender and transgender issues, and make your school more safe for transgender or gender-questioning students”. One suggested activity was for GSAs to “watch and discuss movies with gender nonconformist characters”, including Joan Of Arc, a film about a Catholic saint. Another suggestion urged GSA members to “campaign to create a unisex bathroom at

Combating The “Right Wing”

Another of the all-day seminars was one on “Responding to the Right Wing”. It was co-hosted by Barbara Miner, managing editor of an “urban educational journal” called Rethinking Schools. During the session, Miner said that the strategy of the “right wing” is “to engender distrust of public education [and] to batter down the separation of church and state”. “Right wingers”, she said, are “anti-immigrant” and “very virulent in their anti-government rhetoric”.

Miner expressed fear of school voucher initiatives, saying: “Vouchers and private schools will do an end-run around 20 to 30 years of rights gains.” She said the “right’s” use of the term “high standards” is a “code for edging out diverse values” and cited the banning of a book containing information about breast cancer as an “example of the obsessiveness of the religious right”.

Conference presenters and attendees repeatedly stressed the idea that “respect for others” must supersede private religious beliefs and that name-calling must be stopped. However, the prohibition on name-calling excluded such labels as “radical right”, “religious right” and “right wing” which were frequently used as pejorative labels for those who oppose homosexual activism in schools.

NEA Stands With GLSEN

National Education Association President Robert F. Chase gave the keynote address at the GLSEN conference on Saturday morning. Chase’s remarks were preceded by introductions from GLSEN director of public policy M.K. Cullen and GLSEN Executive Director Kevin Jennings, who said there are now over 700 GSAs “in high schools and middle schools today”.

Cullen criticized a ballot measure in Oregon called the Student Protection Act that would ban the promotion of homosexuality in schools. She derided the ballot initiative, led by Lon Mabon of the Oregon Citizens Alliance, as “anti-gay”. At the mention of Mabon’s name, several audience members hissed.

Jennings reminisced about the birth of the first GSA in 1989 and lauded Chase as “the voice in American education today”. Referring to a campaign launched earlier that week by the Family Research Council, urging members to write Chase to discourage him from attending the conference, Jennings said: “Bob Chase laughed and said, ‘I am happy they are coming after me.’” He added that Chase had approached GLSEN to be invited to speak and quoted him as saying: “I have a platform and I am going to send an unequivocal message.”

Chase began his speech by referring to the Family Research Council campaign and read several e-mails he had received from NEA members. He said the letters represent “the attitudes, fears, and misconceptions that some of our members have". Chase insisted: "I am here today precisely out of concern for the children our members teach. The NEA does not have what the right wing has branded a 'radical pro-homosexual agenda'. Rather, we have a radical civil rights agenda...a pro-human agenda.

"This is not some special interest or radical agenda I'm talking about" he said. "It's not about promoting unsafe and abhorrent lifestyles, but protecting [against] abhorrent behaviors. It's not a matter of recruiting gay or lesbian teachers, but of retaining them. It's simply a matter of protecting all children and all school employees."

Chase concluded: "It is an education issue, no matter what the e-mails say, or no matter what the Family Research Council says."

[End quoting]

Again, it would be useful to go back and re-read the feature article in last month's SPECTRUM to grasp the larger picture surrounding this high-impact subject. And it is well worth repeating, again, that those are YOUR schools and they require quite a bit of vigilant oversight if you—as parents, grandparents, and concerned citizens and taxpayers—wish for schools to move in a different direction than the one boldly being promoted here by this kind of "special interest" group. That the NEA has found a way to so unequivocally rationalize backing such a "special interest" group ought to be enough of a clue to the thinking person that the whole agenda is being orchestrated and FINANCED from a much higher level of direction. It would be VERY instructive for one of these serious investigative reporters to follow the money trail.

RADIO THAT BYTES

Excerpted from POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, November 2000: [quoting]

Holy Marconi! Digital radio services promise crystal-clear sound.

By next summer, your home and mobile radio reception will begin to sound as crystal clear as a compact disc. Say goodbye to the snap, crackle, and pop that are the calling cards of static, hiss, fade-out, and other interference that often plagues AM and FM listeners in large cities, distant suburbs, or on the road. That alone would be cause for joy, but with clarity also comes greater choice.

Don't like the local offerings on the broadcast dial? Does it all sound the same? The solution is arriving in bits and bytes. In the coming age of digital radio, you'll be able to hit a button on your tuner to access any of hundreds of digital satellite radio stations available nationwide.

And you'll be able to record radio programs much the same way you use a VCR to save TV shows for later viewing. Say you've just rolled into your parking spot at work. Before you leave the car, hit the record button and you'll find the remainder of your favorite morning drive-time talk show waiting for your return commute. (Don't worry: the radio could run off an auxiliary battery.)

These next-gen radios serve more than your ears. The radio's display will show far more than just a station's frequency and call letters. Think song information, traffic advisories, weather, stock quotes, and sports scores.

Eventually, web pages could be raining down from the airwaves for your receiver to grab and save for narration and display, e-commerce will soon creep into your car or kitchen: If you like an ad for a car wash or a local organic foods shop, your receiver could print out a discount coupon.

The medium of radio is reinventing itself, and it's going where its nimbler, flashier descendants have preceded it—digital. This assault via bitstream is coming from two different directions. Current terrestrial broadcasters are now working on technical standards that, in the next year or two, will enable their AM and FM stations to send out clear digital signals. Meanwhile, by the time you hit the road during vacation next summer, satellite radio operators will be blanketing the continental United States with a network of hundreds of new digital channels.

[End quoting]

Articles like this are fine, as far as they go, in announcing a new technology just around the corner. The problem is the potential MIS-USE of such a data transmission system in terms of, say, more cleverly imbedded subliminal messages and direct digital assaults upon our brains and nervous systems via broadcast signals. For them to work, all that is required is for the sleeping public to remain unaware of the mind-control aspects of these new technologies.

Which leads to this next item, which is an informed response to someone's email questions (suspicions) about some of the new, miniature "tracking" devices now being hyped for one set of reasons—while the TRUTH of the matter is, as usual, something quite different:

SUSPICIOUSLY SMART IMPLANTS

From the INTERNET, <illusions@beyond-the-illusion.com>, 8/22/00: [quoting]

I am an ex-Microsoft engineer and know a great deal about this technology.

It is a miniature transceiver that relays information to the equivalent of Mobile Telephone masts. The technology will be applied as follows:

These applications include locating lost or missing individuals or household pets; tracking endangered wildlife; managing livestock and other farm-related animals; pinpointing the location of valuable stolen property; finding lost airline baggage and postal packages; managing the commodity supply chain; preventing the unauthorized use of firearms; and providing a tamper-proof means of identification for enhanced e-commerce security.

Now, here is the important part: We have a device that can be implanted. It uses biosensory technology. Why?

If it was only to be used as a tracking system, why the need for technology which can "interpret" the body's signals. This sounds like an ID tagging system. This cannot be allowed to happen. "They" would know everything about you, at any time. You will have NO CONTROL.

The system can transmit and receive data. Why receive?

This "reception" plus the biosensors could be used as a form of manipulation. It could manipulate anything from limb movements to creating hallucinations.

This technology sounds incredibly similar to the "alien implants". I don't believe in aliens. So, the U.S. government has developed biosensory implants, lasers which can paralyze people, and are test flying on a daily basis "UFO"-like aircraft at Groom Lake in Nevada.

Also, an implant which can be used to manipulate the human body's senses. Could they create hallucinations such as "aliens". The answer is YES! We have the technology to enable blind people to see by connecting a camera to the brain via a direct "plug in". There is NO reason whatsoever that a TV image could not be broadcast to the implant, causing the user massive hallucinations.

I wonder who our "aliens" could be?

[End quoting]

Again, such new technologies are NEVER put on the market ONLY for the reasons that are hyped to the public. When more of the public awaken from their slumber enough to ask the kinds of questions (and reason the kinds of responses) as did this engineer, then we will be well on our way to slowing and reversing the present people-control agenda that is presently advancing at an alarming rate.

ULTRASOUND CLOT BUSTER

From POPULAR MECHANICS magazine, November 2000: [quoting]

Sound could be the key to dissolving dangerous blood clots.

"The technique would dissolve the clot, not break it up into chunks" says Dr. Evan Unger, the principal developer of sonothrombolysis.

At low intensity, ultrasound is currently used to image heart blockages. Its most familiar application is, of course, in sonograms taken to see if a fetus is developing normally.

Targeting cells with a more powerful blast of ultrasound can disrupt cells and, at high levels, shatter kidney stones.

Unger detailed his findings at the recent Acoustical Society of America annual meeting, which was held in Atlanta.

He said that variations of the technology could be used to deliver drugs to specific disease sites, by causing tiny fatty capsules filled with medicine to, for example, burst near tumors. [End quoting]

With the growing number of benefits available to the general public from Alternative Medicine, it looks like the so-called "elite" controllers (who own the medical industries) are having to start to make some less intrusive medical methods available to stay competitive. This is one area wherein the elite are beginning to bow to the pressures of the awakening public. Alternative Medicine is beginning to really hurt their business. Even medical school applications have shown a big drop, according to a report I read. More and more people are becoming disgusted with the so-called "health care" industry—and can you blame them?! Just go back and re-read the earlier item in this News Desk about death rates dropping when doctors went on strike!

HOME VISITATION LAWS

From THE IDAHO OBSERVER, September 2000: [quoting]

By Nev Moore

Like small brush fires across the land, we are hearing stories of parents who claim that Child Protective Services (CPS)—even though there had never been any type of abuse or neglect—abruptly seized their children.

The stories we hear are eerie in their similarity. Without incident, warning, or warrant, government agents from CPS, often accompanied by police officers, show up at a home or school and seize children, based on the most vague and frivolous of allegations.

The children are whisked away to strange foster homes. The parents are not allowed to know where their children are. The parents are not charged with any criminal act, therefore they are not entitled to due process.

In the United States, CPS seizes 3,000 children every single day. According to their own statistics, only 400 are for substantiated acts of abuse or neglect. To make matters worse, Department of Health and Human Services documents that 68 percent of substantiated cases "do not involve child maltreatment". One might ask: What do they involve? The majority are poverty-related issues, but due to several factors, almost anyone could lose their children. The factors that enable government child abduction are:

- anonymous reporting (meaning that anyone with an axe to grind or any mentally unstable busybody can anonymously file a report against you);
- social workers who are given absolute power and immunity, and do not have to account to anyone;
- an agency that receives massive state and federal funding—$12 billion a year and rising—and is rewarded based on the numbers of children they process; and
- an obsessive mentality of social "restructuring" and control that is every bit as unstable and dangerous as the Hitlers, Pol Pots, and Idi Amin's of our history.

Thirty years ago a plan was formed to nationalize our children and make them the property of the state. One of the original proponents of this plan was the late Dr. C. Henry Kempe of the University of Colorado.

Hillary Clinton praises the work of Kempe in her book It Takes A Village.

Kempe was an open and wholehearted supporter of communist educators, who stated: "We must remove the children from the crude influence of their families and, frankly, nationalize them."

Kempe's vision was to remove the children and have them raised in state orphanages. His model was the orphanages of Rumania. He, and all the other "child savers" who follow his vision, including Hillary, ignore the fact that mortality in the Rumanian orphanages is 72 percent—mostly due to starvation and medical neglect.

The plan involves placing a social worker in every American home to document "risk factors" that will be entered into an electronic portfolio kept on every citizen from birth. "Risk factors" may include not enough toys or too many toys, cigarette smoking, or birth of a sibling. The plan is clearly spelled out in President Clinton's Goals 2000, a 154-page bill, signed in 1994 and already in effect. Unknown to the majority of the American public, Goals 2000 was called "The Restructuring of American Society, from Cradle to Grave". Goals 2000 is the culmination of Kempe's original plan. Clinton is just the patsy who signed it. Why haven't we read about this Orwellian plan on the covers of Time and Newsweek? Kempe stated that the plan "must be initiated with stealth".

The Plan Implemented

The unholy trinity being used to implement the plan is CPS, the Home Visitation program, and outcome-based education.

The Home Visitation program, now active in 42 states, makes it compulsory for all parents of newborns to have social workers visit their homes regularly.

Rep. Henry Hyde (R-IL) wrote a letter to every member of Congress urging them to try to stop the program.

In his letter he stated: "This is 'big brother' intervention as we have never seen it before. It is a case of the 'village' mentality run wild. Americans have never experienced such intrusion into their family lives."

[End quoting]

Well, maybe not intrusions that they KNOW about, Henry, but Big Brother has been steadily increasing both the surveillance and covert management of we-the-people for many decades of mind control. How better to test if the sheep are docile enough yet than by taking baby lambs away from the herd and watching to see

ORGANIZED MEDICINE
PARTICIPATING IN SINISTER SOCIALIST PLOT TO NATIONALIZE CHILDREN?

Excerpted from THE IDAHO OBSERVER, September 2000: [quoting]

By Don Harkins

According to a midwife who asked to remain nameless, any person attending a live birth must fill out a Certificate of Live Birth that is filed with the Bureau of Vital Statistics. If the form is not filled out completely, it will be returned immediately to the noncompliant attendee who will be liable for a $250 fine. Fifty dollars per day will be added to the penalty until the form is returned in a manner that is satisfactory to the state.

Refusal to comply could mean a loss of state licensing, loss of insurance, and the possibility of serving time in jail.

Many midwives and other alternative healthcare practitioners are forced to comply with state live birth laws. Such professionals we have spoken to resent participating in this Orwellian intelligence gathering mechanism. Organized medicine's corporate hospitals (the fifth branch of government?) seem to experience no crises in conscience in submitting this data for entry into government databases.

Most people have no idea that, from the moment your innocent baby is born, the government has begun to keep detailed records of its little life and, by law, under threat of fines and imprisonment, hospitals, midwives, and family doctors must supply the state with the information.

Not one parent of a newborn, who has been asked, has ever seen the form. The highly personal and private record that is being supplied to the state and, therefore, the federal government, is being obtained without knowledge or consent of the parents.

The form (large in size) lists such information as the parents' education level, type and location of birth, how the birth was paid for, date of last menses and length of gestation. Note also in reverse print to the far left where the person attending the live birth must attest that all of the "personal information provided on this certificate is correct" in the capacity of an "INFORMANT".

"If that doesn't add insult to injury!" stated one midwife who has helped mothers bring hundreds of babies into the world. "We have to live with the fact that, under threat of fines and imprisonment, we must supply this information to the state, then to have us sign our names to the form as an 'informant' just makes me feel horrible inside."

Please excuse our not attaching names to the persons supplying information for this article. The state is so militant about obtaining the information that alternative healthcare practitioners feel that they may be stripped of their ability to openly assist live births should the state learn that they are philosophically opposed to state live-birth laws.

"The push is to make it impossible for alternative practitioners to assist in live births so that all children will be born in hospitals where records are more easily kept and controlled. We must stay in business for those who do not want their baby to be born in a hospital" a midwife said.

Information provided on the form is gathered through a variety of means that include lifting data from other sources such as insurance forms, driver's licenses, and checking accounts. Some of the information may also be picked up by the "informant" through seemingly casual conversation.

According to one midwife, the form pictured is a brand new form that has just been issued to all persons the state recognizes as being participatory in live births. The form is identical to the form that the state has been using for the last several years, except for one detail. In the lower right hand corner, in Box 45, it now says: "CONSENT OBTAINED FOR IMMUNIZATION REGISTRY ENROLLMENT".

Previous forms simply asked if the controversial Hepatitis B shot had been administered to the infant shortly after birth.

"Now that the 'voluntary' vaccination tracking registry is in operation, the state probably feels very confident that by determining whether or not the parents gave their 'consent' to be enrolled in the registry answers the hep B question. They were probably quite proud of themselves for saving the taxpayers' money by avoiding the expense of significantly altering the form" commented North Idaho Chapter of Vaccination Liberation President, Ingri Cassel.

TEACHER SAYS
PUBLIC EDUCATION HARMFUL

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 10/9/00: [quoting]

John Taylor Gatto, a veteran of 26 years in the New York City public schools and also a New York State Teacher of the Year, said that public education cannot be reorganized and should be abolished.

There you have it—an honest insider's assessment.

Gatto, in speeches and essays, said that public education everywhere teaches a covert curriculum whether teachers realize it or not.

This curriculum consists of confusion, class position, indifference, emotional dependency, intellectual dependency, provisional self-esteem, and the feeling that there is no escape from oversight.

Gatto says that public education has become such a giant bureaucracy, with so many vested interests, that reform has become impossible. Better to do away with public education and explore alternatives.

Here is how he describes his pupils: They cannot concentrate for very long; they have a poor sense of time past and time to come; they are mistrustful of intimacy; they hate solitude; they are cruel, materialistic, dependent, passive, violent, but timid in the face of the unexpected. And they are addicted to distraction.

This, Gatto says, is the result of the present system, which affects all children whether they attend so-called good schools or slum schools. He has taught in both.

People should remember that mass public education in this country dates back only to around 1850. It started in Massachusetts, and it was strenuously opposed. Prior to that, education was left to the private sector, and, consequently, education was tailored to the individual's interests and needs.

The Wright brothers did not have degrees in aeronautical engineering; the great car inventors had no degrees in automotive engineering; great builders of the past had no civil engineering degrees. So-called experts are an invention of a giant bureaucracy that consumes billions of dollars to indoctrinate children and turn them into creatures really not fit to be citizens of a free society.

Fortunately, some of the children resist the indoctrination and emerge able to think critically, independently, and creatively, but it seems that each year there are fewer who do so.

Gatto says, by the way, that reading, writing, and arithmetic easily can be taught in 100 hours—not in the six or seven years public education claims to require for today's school children.

It's insane, when you think about it, to institutionalize our children well past the best years of life. In the past, people by the age of 15 were doing productive work, and many had started families. We force our children to sit in industrial-style institutions for 12 or 18 years of secondary education, and another four for so-called higher education.

Even so, children finish secondary school for the most part totally unprepared to make a living. Most are unprepared for higher education. This is despite the fact that universities have themselves dumbed down to the point that few college graduates today could pass tests given to eighth graders in the early 1800s.

What is really needed is a genuine debate about education. Do not confuse education with the public-education industry. The oldest trick in the book used by those with a vested interest is to narrow the debate to tinkering with status quo. That's what politicians are doing today.

NATIONAL PUBLIC RADIO INTERVIEW

From the INTERNET, <para-discuss@tje.net>, 10/14/00: [quoting]

I think some of these kids could very well go to school shooting, if taught how to use a firearm, thanks to the Army! But I have to admit it had a funny ending.

National Public Radio (NPR) interview between a female broadcaster and US Army General Reinwald who was about to sponsor a Boy Scout Troop visiting his military installation:

FEMALE INTERVIEWER:

So, General Reinwald, what things are you going to teach these young boys when they visit your base?

GENERAL REINWALD:

We're going to teach them climbing, canoeing, archery, and shooting.

FEMALE INTERVIEWER:

Shooting!!! That's a bit irresponsible, isn't it?

GENERAL REINWALD:

I don't see why; they'll be properly supervised on the rifle range.

FEMALE INTERVIEWER:

Don't you admit that this is a terribly dangerous activity to be teaching children?

GENERAL REINWALD:

I don't see how; we will be teaching them proper rifle discipline before they even touch a firearm.

FEMALE INTERVIEWER:

But you're equipping them to become violent killers.

GENERAL REINWALD:

Well, you're equipped to be a prostitute, but you're not one, are you?

The radio went silent and the interview ended.

Also in the news:

Two former guards at a federal prison are accused of taking thousands of dollars in cash in return for smuggling sperm. The New York Post reports that as many as five New York mobsters fathered children in federal prison.

Authorities began investigating after a convicted Colombo family hit man was seen in a visitation room showing off a toddler he called "my son". The incident raised eyebrows because he had been in jail since 1988.

THE SCHEME TO MAKE JAY ROCKEFELLER "PRESIDENT"

From the INTERNET, by Sherman H. Skolnick, <<http://www.skolnicksreport.com>>, e-mail: <skolnick@ameritech.net>, 10/31/00: [quoting]

There has been a long-time scheme to put in a Rockefeller as "President", or King, in the U.S. WITHOUT AN ELECTION

1. Laying the groundwork for the orchestrated Watergate Affair, in the late 1960s, the Rockefellers pushed through the 25th Amendment, to cure the gap in the U.S. Constitution as to how, if a President is dead in office (or assassinated) or unfit to continue to serve, the Vice President takes over and becomes President and automatically removes the unfit President.

2. I was the first to go public with part of the scheme. Elected Vice President Spiro Agnew was removed by a bribery scandal known before he was elected on the Nixon/Agnew ticket in 1972. At the time one of the only ways I could be heard was at college lectures where I spelled out the scheme six months before it happened. "I did not read that today in the New York Times, Mr. Skolnick. Where the hell did you get those details?" Naive college students would shout at me during the question-and-answer period.

By October 1973, Agnew was forced to resign, and President Nixon appointed, under the newly-minted 25th Amendment, as the new Vice President, WITHOUT AN ELECTION, Gerald Ford. Ford previously sat on the Warren Commission fraudulently stating a "lone assassin" murdered President Kennedy. (Nixon had been part of the Dallas plot.)

3. When Nixon was forced to resign in 1974, former Warren Commission member, Gerald Ford, without an election, became President. Ford, in turn, WITHOUT AN ELECTION, under the Rockefeller-instigated 25th Amendment, appointed Nelson Rockefeller as Vice President.

Who remembers Nelson Rockefeller's testimony, upon being ratified by the U.S. Senate? Rockefeller stated that the key members of his family, including himself, had PAID NO INCOME TAXES IN THE PREVIOUS ELEVEN YEARS.

The oil-soaked, richest family in the world, does not and did not support the realm, the infrastructure of America, with the payment of taxes. (You see why this land is so heavily in debt?)

When candidates for election appear on my television show, I ask them, if elected, would they tax the ultra-rich who now, by corruption and malign influence, PAY NO TAXES. I never get a straight answer.

4. In 1975, there were three genuine plots to assassinate President Gerald Ford. A BATF undercover agent, supplied with a large-caliber gun by them, came within a hair of blowing away Ford. That was would-be assassin Sarah Jane Moore, missing her target only because a disabled vet hit her elbow as she was seeking to publicly execute Ford.

My sole publicity device, other than college speeches, at the time, was a recorded phone message. As best I could, with a series of phone lines, I tried to give out the details of the three plots. Without a legal formality, the U.S. Secret Service put false busy signals onto those lines to block my supposed First Amendment free-speech rights. When I threatened, in my wheelchair, to picket the phone company headquarters, a kind phone company bureaucrat explained to me: "Mr. Skolnick, we only follow orders of the Secret Service. They, not us, are blocking your phone recorded message." So, Nelson Rockefeller came within a would-be assassin's bullet of being President WITHOUT AN ELECTION. (I attempted as best I could to spell out the other two genuine 1975 plots against President Ford.)

5. For at least five years now—on the web, on the radio, wherever I was allowed to be heard—I have spelled out various plots to assassinate Vice President Albert Gore, Jr., install John D. Rockefeller 4th as Vice President, and then shove out Clinton, so Rockefeller, under the 25th Amendment instigated by his family, could be President, or King, WITHOUT AN ELECTION.

Are the sheep of America so dumbed down that they would VOTE a Rockefeller in as President, considering that family's infamous history? Just before this year-2000 presidential election, the Rockefeller-sponsored PBS ran a two-part series, more or less praising the Rockefeller family, or explaining away their long-time crimes against the American people. (How about the plot to run two commercial aircraft into Air Force Two, with Gore onboard, in July, 1999?)

founder of the infamous Standard Oil Trust, calls himself "Jay". I dare point out that all documents have been destroyed showing William ROCKEFELLER Clinton as the illegitimate great grandson of the criminal patriarch of the Rockefeller fortune. It is a simple reason why Clinton, despite his treason and crimes, has not been prosecuted and jailed.

Jay's wife, Sharon Percy Rockefeller, has been a kingpin in so-called "public" radio, which I call National Petroleum Radio. She reportedly is part of numerous secret joint accounts in the Harris Bank, Chicago, in the Midwest construction business, in the hundreds of millions of dollars, with Osama bin Laden. The White House said, if they could "find" bin Laden's accounts, they would freeze them since they describe him as the "world's leading 'terrorist'". In October, 1998, I and a TV show associate of mine confronted top dogs of Harris Bank with details. Don't heckle me with naive statements why you did not hear of this in the oil-soaked monopoly press.

6. I have strong reasons from profound sources to believe that a so-called "emergency" may follow the year-2000 presidential election. And that there is a further scheme to install Jay Rockefeller as the unelected "President" or "King" of the U.S., all without having him on the presidential election ballot. Prior to the year-2000 presidential election, so-called "pollsters" and "pundits" made quite an effort to unhinge the brain of the average American with a barrage of "polls". The only "poll" or pole I respect is the one firemen slide down from upstairs in the fire station when the bell rings.

Since my stories are often so far ahead of the "parade", they are often misunderstood by those without our benefit of some one million documents, records, tapes, and details. I do not reveal sources. I do not want to hear one of my sources later was in a plane that somehow blew up, or that his or her body was found floating in the canal. To protect my sources, I have, in 40 years as an activist, been eight times jailed for contempt of court for refusing to divulge sources or how exactly we investigate deep plots and corruption.

Will there be an orchestrated "constitutional crisis" favoring installing a Rockefeller as "President" or "King"? At least in Moscow, in the past, when there was a so-called "emergency", they would play somber, symphonic music on the radio for 24 hours. Just another story suppressed by the liars and whores of the press. You know, the ones with the $50 hairdoes and the nickel heads. Stay tuned. [End quoting]

We have found this man to have a credible reputation as an investigator and reporter. Regardless of whether or not such a plot might actually be carried out, its feasibility is what is worth some thought—especially considering the general "criminal" nature of typical high-level politics!

ANAGRAMS

An Anagram, as you all know, is a word or phrase made by transposing or rearranging the letters of another word or phrase. The following are exceptionally clever. Someone out there either has far too much time to waste or is deadly at Scrabble:

DORMITORY

(When you rearrange the letters=>)

DIRTY ROOM

EVANGELIST=>EVIL'S AGENT

DESPERATION=>A ROPE ENDS IT

THE MORSE CODE=>HERE COME DOTS

SLOT MACHINES=>CASH LOST IN 'EM

ANIMOSITY=>IS NO AMITY

MOTHER-IN-LAW=>WOMAN HITLER

BEWARE OF NEW EYE-SCANNING ID DEVICE

From WILL LOY'S NEWS BULLETIN, September 2000: [quoting]

(Burchette Brothers, P.O. Box 363, Lakeside, CA 92040-0363)

Maybe you saw in the news that they will soon be testing a new EYE-SCANNING DEVICE IDENTIFICATION at airports. What they did not tell us is that this "wonderful new development" uses a LASER BEAM to probe the eye's retina. Amazingly, there has been no public discussion whatsoever as to any possible dangers to the eye. An out-of-adjust laser could easily cause very serious eye problems, especially over time. And we all know that most of today's new computer technologies are always bug ridden. What is even worse, if today's imprudent public accept this "TEST" (and I anticipate them doing so), I foresee this type of identification being used everywhere and for everything (including a version for the Internet) and there will be no concern at all about possible hidden eye problems.

[End quoting]

One more example of Big Brother keeping track of us—and with our unassuming help. And while the laser is scanning our eye, just what sort of information/programming might be injected directly into our subconscious?

UNPAID CHILD SUPPORT

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, for 9/26/00: [quoting]

Despite numerous state and federal initiatives to force parents to pay overdue child support, new government figures show the amount owed to some 20 million children reached $71 billion last year, up from $50 billion in 1998.

Equally troubling, according to a national child support group, are federal figures that show states collected, but did not distribute, some $430 million in support payments last year, mainly because they couldn't find or identify who sent and who should receive the money.

The figures were released as a Senate Finance Committee subcommittee scheduled a hearing for Tuesday on a bipartisan bill that would transfer child support collection and enforcement responsibilities to the Internal Revenue Service from the states, which have handled it for more than two decades.

[End quoting]

So now it is a question of whether the "foxes" or the "wolves" should be guarding the henhouse.

MY THOUGHTS ON "SOMETHING GREATER" IN LIFE

From THE COSTCO CONNECTION, October 2000: [quoting]

By Wally Amos of "Famous Amos Chocolate Chip Cookies"

Be Positive

I am returning home to Hawaii from the mainland, looking out the window of the jet flying at 35,000 feet. There are clouds as far as I can see. They appear to be very still and serene, and yet this big plane is shaking so much that the pilot has turned on the "Fasten Seat Belt" sign and asked the flight attendants to suspend service.

The pilot said it was rough air. No kidding! How can something so powerful as air shake something so large and not be seen? It is often said that "seeing is believing". Not so! Manytimes you have to believe a thing into existence. And many times feeling is also believing.

How many times have you had a feeling that could not be substantiated? "Oh, it was just my gut reaction" you said, or maybe you credited it to your intuition. Whatever it was, you couldn't actually see it.

How many times have you met someone and developed a feeling to be cautious, trusting, etc.? How many times have you done extensive due diligence and it was still a bad decision? Then there were times you made a decision just because it felt right—and enjoyed great success.

More and more I am trusting the source of whatever it is that can shake a plane, toss a ship like a rubber duck, or uproot a giant tree. I believe that same source can make decisions to help me achieve my goals and realize my dreams.

I choose to call that source God. It's the source of many names. I don't believe it's important what you call it. However, I do believe it's important to believe in something greater than you are.

It's a powerful idea, believing in something that you can't touch, smell, or see. It works for me. Use it and see if it works for you.

INVOKING THE DHARMIC PATH

Extracted from the INTERNET, <AABCC@egroups.com>, 10/26/00: [quoting]

Krishna Invokes Dharmic Path

This is Krishna.

I am an ancient teacher from your past. And I will let you know that there are few who will hear these words who do not know me.

I am here to speak on a most ancient path—the Path of Dharma, the Path of Grace—through Service. When you give yourself in the fullest, the Universe blesses you beyond your imagination.

Many peoples are very fascinated with the Path of Karma: the path of "I do this, and boom, this happens to me."

Yet there are also many Masters and Teachers in the Realms of Light who enjoy much greater fantasies and adventures. This is because of their fascination with "I want to know how to give to my brother and sister today!"

The Dharmic Path is following the heart to its extreme joy! Learn to handle this energy within the body in a calm yet passionate way. The Dharmic Path is the Master's path. It is the path of Grace. As you grace others, the Universe graces you. Thus, this cycle, called the Law of Cause and Effect, spins to bless you, rather than to teach you some lesson you really wanted to learn!

Choose to give of your gifts. This is how gifts develop. This is how you achieve the freedom that you say you so desire. Claim this freedom through the use of one of your special gifts today. Know that another opportunity for your gift will soon show itself.

You need not go out searching for a place to put your gifts, because the Universe will provide you a time and place far more perfect than you could conceive. Simply be ready to give your gift when the Universe says "I'm ready!"

It is the holding back of the gifts and the holding back of the love that causes what we call Karma. If you give freely every day, you will soon cycle beyond the illusion. True abundance then becomes your Way. The wings of the Sacred Bird become your own, and lift you into Higher Planes.

This is how you ascend, O people of Mother Earth! Express your gifts and the beauty lifts you!

When you pray or meditate, this is using your gifts. Practice spiritual gifts—for they increase and empower those around you to employ their spiritual gifts. For when one person walks this Sacred Path known as Giveaway, known as Service, known as Love, it spreads and grows through that web of life.

Your family, friends, and community cannot resist the good that will then grow within them. Before they know what they are doing, they will be doing what you are doing: enjoying the gifts of Life.

This is why the path is known as the Path of Grace. It says "Step out there and do what you've been resisting. Give." Use your sacred talents! Use them when the Universe says "It's time!" Then the Power comes! And then, the Magic comes and the Spirit says "Hurray!"

Serve! Use your grounded talents and create within yourself. For it is you who creates and opens these talents.

If you believe that you can heal, then you will learn how to heal. If you believe that you can pray, you will learn how to pray! If you believe that you can strengthen another, then another will be strengthened!

This is all the Dharmic Path. It is the Spiritual Freedom of Man to walk the High Road of Spirit. This is claiming the sacred responsibility of the Giveaway and walking it with Pride and Strength and Love!

This Life is true. So live it, O people!

Claim your destiny! Dharma! Do what your heart really wants to do anyway! And, know that it is already so.

[End quoting]

Some food for thought (and action) for those of you who are open to these words of wisdom. The Great Teachers always seem to be able to speak in very simple terms, yet they address far-reaching concepts.

Box 1479, Carmel, NY 10512: [quoting]

By Bonnie Silver of Grant, Michigan

I hadn't been paying attention to the national news that July because it was haying time on our small Michigan farm. My husband, Ron, and I raised a dozen Hereford cattle, and I worried about Ron being stuck outside in the heat when I went to my cashier's job at our local grocery store that Saturday afternoon. As I lay down for a short rest before my shift, I started to pray that Ron wouldn't overdo it. Before I could finish, three words burst into my mind: hay...drought...south. It was the oddest thing. More like a command, really. And with it came such enormous pressure on my body that for a moment even breathing became difficult. Finally I sat up, tears in my eyes. Why was I crying?

I walked into the kitchen. Ron was having a cup of coffee. I asked: "What do the words hay...drought...south mean to you?" He told me there was a terrible drought in the South. Fields were parched and farmers were losing their cattle because the animals didn't have any hay or feed.

I knew how I'd feel if our cattle were dying. "Ron" I said, "that explains my message". I described the cryptic words and the urgency that had overcome me.

"So, what are you going to do about it?" Ron asked.

I had no idea. I didn't know anybody important. I was just a farmwife and a part-time cashier. God, I implored, find someone else to help those farmers.

But later that day when I was chatting with folks at my checkout counter, I kept thinking: hay...drought...south.

The words wouldn't leave my mind.

At church on Sunday, I reminded God that the drought in the South wasn't really something I could do anything about. Yes, we had some hay to spare, but how could we move it down south? By Monday morning when the urging just wouldn't go away, I made a few calls to put the matter to rest. I spoke to some other local farmers. Sure, they'd be glad to donate hay, but there was no way they could send it to the ravaged areas. As for our state's ag department, they hadn't organized a thing. "See, Father" I said, "if they aren't able to do anything, how can I? Please, find someone else."

Hay...drought...south.

By noon I did the only thing I could think of. On the highway I'd often seen trucks from Steelcase, a huge office furniture manufacturer in Grand Rapids.

Maybe they could ship hay. If I made this one call I could be done with it. After all, who'd take me seriously? I looked up Steelcase's number in the phone book and dialed. Almost immediately I was connected with a woman in public relations. To my amazement, she gave me the CEO's private number. Before I lost my nerve, I called and reached his secretary.

"What would you like to speak to him about?" she asked.

"If I told you, dear" I said, "you'd round-file me as a nut."

Minutes later, the CEO of Steelcase, a company with thousands of employees, called me back. I told my story, concluding by saying: "Michigan farmers want to donate hay to the South, but they can't get it there."

"How many trucks would you need, Mrs. Silver?" he asked.

"Twenty" I said, without a pause.

(Where did that number come from?)

"Expect a call from Mr. Marlotti. He should be able to help you."

Half an hour later, when Mr. Marlotti did call, telling me that he was instructed to give me whatever I needed, I hooted into the phone. At that moment I realized this was much bigger than me. All I could do was follow. Okay, God, I prayed, You win. I'll do what you want, but you have to help me along the way.

He did. That day I got a hold of Bill Penn, director of the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Department in Lansing. He promised to send a rep to our house to meet with the Steelcase people and folks from the state ag department, so we could coordinate shipments of hay to the South. Meanwhile, someone from Bill's office set up a 1-800 telephone number to our house. The "Michigan Haylift" was underway.

When the media got hold of the story, broadcasters and newspapers announced: "Call 1-800-Hay-Farm to donate or help ship hay." All those people ended up calling me. Twenty-four hours a day, the phone in our kitchen rang. We even had an extra line added. People would try to dump hay in our front yard. Reporters interviewed me at the checkout counter at work. Finally my supervisor suggested I take some time off: "I want you to devote yourself to the hay project" he said. Amen, I thought.

Sometimes I didn't know how I'd manage. One day I was sitting in my kitchen when the phone rang. "We've got five hundred bales of hay, over here in the Thumb." (Michigan is shaped like a mitten, and the eastern peninsula is referred to as the Thumb.)

"Hang on" I replied, checking the map. "We'll get to you." Then I prayed: God, send me someone who can pick up 500 bales of hay, 150 miles away, and get them to the first convoy of semis going south.

I hadn't even hung up when the other line rang. "I've got an empty truck" a man said. "How can I help?"

"I know just where you're needed!" Things like that kept happening.

On July 24, Bill Penn called from Lansing. "We need you here for a meeting with all the government departments who are involved. I want them to hear from you about what's happening."

I panicked. There was no way I could appear at a meeting in the capital. "I can't" I said. "I can't leave these phones. I can't drive in big cities, and I can't leave the farm."

"You have to be here" Bill insisted. "I'll send a driver to pick you up." How could I argue with that?

When I walked into that conference room in Lansing, I thought I was going to hyperventilate. The table seemed as long as a football field, and around it sat representatives of the state's ag and transportation departments, the governor's office, the state police. They all looked so official.

"Mrs. Silver" Bill Penn said to me, "would you tell these gentlemen about what you're doing?"

I looked at all those suits, said a quick prayer, and spoke. As clearly as I could, I explained about the thousands of farmers donating hay and people volunteering trucks, and how urgent it was to get the cattle feed to the drought-stricken farmers in the South. I told them that I had cattle and knew how terrible I'd feel if I couldn't feed them. At the end of my speech, a young man from our U.S. Senator's office stood up.

"Bonnie" he said, "we've talked to Conrail. You've got as many railcars as you need."

The Lord was working in so many people's lives. The Michigan Haylift was growing by leaps and bounds.

With the railroad involved, we had a more efficient way to ship hay to the South. Drivers picked up hay from farms and delivered them to the 16 rail sites that were set up. Then volunteers loaded the hay onto railcars for the trip south.

One August night, after I collapsed into bed, Ron asked me how much longer I could keep up my part of the organizing, answering phones, talking to reporters, giving out information.

"Until the job's finished" I said. "When will that be?"

"I don't know" I answered wearily.

In mid-August I went to Grand Rapids to see firsthand what was going on. High-school football teams, youth-corps volunteers, prisoners on work detail, all kinds of people were taking the hay from trucks and putting it into railcars. It was brutal work, especially in the heat, but no one slowed down. Good thing McDonald's, Burger King, and Pepsi donated massive amounts of food and beverages to keep everyone going.

We started getting reports from grateful farmers down south, whose cattle were getting fed again. We were delivering hay into seven states—over 10.5 million pounds—and not one dollar had exchanged hands. All the labor, fuel, transportation, and feed were donated.

Then one morning in September a TV reporter came to do an update on the story. I tried to answer her questions, but my words just wouldn't come out right. "Excuse me" I said, "you'll have to talk to my husband."

After the TV crew left, I smiled at Ron. "I guess it's time."

"What time?" he asked.

"You wondered how I'd know when I was finished. Well, all these months God's given me the strength to do things I would've never been able to do on my own. But today I can't. I think that's His way of telling me I'm done."

Drought conditions passed and the project did wind down after that. Our phones stopped ringing; we took out the extra line; people stopped bringing hay to our farm; and I returned to my job at the grocery store. Only one blessing remained, and that was meeting some of the folks who'd been on the receiving end.

On a rainy Thanksgiving weekend—how fitting that it rained—we joined hundreds of others under a big tent outside Greenville, SC. A choir sang, a minister led us in prayer, and a proclamation from the governor was read. "Thank you, Bonnie" people said, "we're so grateful for what you did."

The real thanks belonged to the Lord, for whom I was only a reluctant servant. But He gives us what we need to do His will. That's what I learned. He gave me willingness when I was unwilling, words when I was tongue-tied, stamina when I was weak. How else would a farmwife and part-time cashier ever have been able to help start the Great Michigan Haylift?

[End quoting]

After reading this story, how can any of us ever again say "What can little ol' me do to make a difference in this world?" It all starts with a willingness to Listen Within and then the courage to carry out what we are invited to do. This story is certainly a fitting complement to our Front Page feature article on angels and their interactions with us!

Breaking Loose From Those Limiting Beliefs

10/18/00 SOLTEC

Good afternoon, my friend. It is I, Ceres Anthonious "Toniose" Soltec, come in the Radiant One Light of Creator Source. Be at peace and be still.

Allow for the opportunities of the moment as they present themselves. There are no chance happenings—rather, a perfect orchestration of events. This is seldom realized by you ones there while still in the physical. Most times it is quite the opposite, wherein you ones tend to assume that all is more or less "chance" happenings.

ALL things happen for a reason, whether it be coming into great fortune or facing a tedious challenge of patience and persistence. Let not the daily existence "lull" you into a sense of mundane mediocrity, else you will surely become cynical at best and outright depressed at worst.

The physical life experience is to provide you with unique opportunities to grow. It is usually the seemingly "little" things which cause the greatest obstacles, for they tend to be tedious and somewhat monotonous as they tend to resurface time and time again.

Be persistent in the day-to-day experiences, and be quick to note the uniqueness of the day—especially wherein your path crosses with another, even if but for the briefest of a moment. There is much communicated between individuals as brief interactions occur, even if no words are spoken.

Learn to appreciate the subtleties in life. Then you will find that the once monotonous daily routine has become quite an enjoyable experience—wherein fantastic coincidences can be observed if you just put forth a little energy toward wanting to know WHY you have crossed paths at any particular time with another of Creator's unique expressions.

As we have stated in many prior messages, allow for the spontaneity of life to unfold all around you. There is great choreography taking place on the higher-dimensional levels, as ones' paths are drawn together and intersect.

Perhaps you are the first and only bright spot in another's day simply because you smile and tell the clerk behind the counter: "Take your time; I'm in no hurry."

Do you make it a point to always offer a positive (uplifting) gesture to another, regardless of the circumstances, or do you tend to walk with your head toward the ground, avoiding eye contact?

How do YOU feel when others acknowledge your presence with a smile, hand shake, or such?

Please know that your current circumstances will not likely change until you learn the lessons they have to offer. That is, the apparent "mundane drudgery" of living will continue to repeat itself over and over until you learn the lesson associated with the perception that you feel is "THE ONE GREAT OBSTACLE" in your life. There is no such thing, but for many, they believe there is, and therefore they continue to create situations that will seem to reinforce the said belief. All the while what is actually taking place is a deliberate chain of events designed to cause a focus of attention on the area of MISPERCEPTION.

For example, let us say you believe that ALL you need in order to truly be happy in life is a companion or mate, and other than this "one" thing, you are perfectly happy and content, and if it were fulfilled you would be "whole". Meanwhile, everywhere you turn you see couples holding hands, and you spot members of the opposite sex who seem to pass by you without hardly a glance. And this general scenario repeats over and over, and seems to consume you from within. (This general scenario is not at all uncommon in your "modern" society.)

In time, you begin to develop the belief that there is something "wrong" with you. It will usually be along the lines of "I'm too tall" or "I'm too short" or "I'm too fat" or "I'm too thin" and so forth. In actuality there is NOTHING wrong with you, and all of the outward physical parameters you try to blame your "problem" on have almost NO bearing on the actual nature of the real challenge you are faced with. This is to say that you recognize there is an unbalanced situation in your life which is causing discomfort within, and yet you tend to look at the situation from the outside in, rather than from the inside out.

All emotional situations that result in discomfort (anxiety, depression, anger, frustration and such) are a result of a belief held within as true that, in actuality, is NOT true. In short, when you buy into a lie (even a lie that is commonly held by the masses as truth), you will cause within you a great internal struggle between the Higher Self and the highly reactionary "ego" self.

The Higher Self generally uses inner emotional signals to communicate to the conscious mind, whereas the ego self tends to lean towards EXTERNAL "reasoning" as the cause for all things. The ego mind thus tends to develop programs or tapes that play over and over again—until such time as the conscious mind truly sees the actual cause that lies behind the perceived need for such self-programming and negates that need.

The program or tape then disintegrates as soon as the TRUTH of the matter is recognized.

In the above example, the belief that "The ONLY thing missing in life for me to feel fulfilled is a companion or a mate" is a LIE. Your Higher Self knows such a belief to be untrue, and many ones who are in a very unbalanced relationship with another will also testify to the fallacy of this assertion.

The REAL reason the restless person dwells upon the couples holding hands and laments the lack of attention from the opposite sex, and so forth, has NOTHING to do with physical appearance or such. Rather, it is in fact the Higher Self working to help you to overcome your own self-limiting beliefs by constantly bringing to your attention an area of focus

This is to say that you recognize there is an unbalanced situation in your life which is causing discomfort within, and yet you tend to look at the situation from the outside in, rather than from the inside out.

wherein a lie exists that, if left uncorrected, will inhibit further growth.

Some ones spend entire lifetimes wrestling with these “smaller” issues as the inner world goes against the seeming contradictions of the outer world. The “reality” of the outer world is reinforced by the perceptions of the masses which are typically focused upon that outer world and its external parameters, rather than upon the inner world which is truly at cause.

Remember, please, that the world you live in is a byproduct of thought projection coupled with an intense emotional desire which, according to the Laws of Creation, manifest what you ones call the physical. THE PHYSICAL IS A SUBSET OF THE NON-PHYSICAL (the so-called spirit world). ALL answers to ALL questions lie within, for within is where TRUE Knowledge, Understanding, and Strength come from.

Many times we witness ones who refuse to look within for the answers to the “ALL CONSUMING” questions, and as a result there is often a point of severe depression wherein ones will generally feel hopeless, useless, and even worthless. It is often in such moments of severe desperation that these ones will give up all hope of ever finding resolution to the “problem”—and as a result there is no need to “run the program/tape” any longer.

It is often in this spent state that the Higher

Self is able to reach through and help make sense out of the events which precipitate such a deep cry for help. In essence the person will have reached deep within, past the “obstacle” point, to some more basic foundational TRUTH wherein True Strength can be derived. And then there will come the “life-altering” event whereby a renewed outlook on life has been achieved.

The above is the hard, slow way of doing things, but on your world it seems to be the more common way of proceeding. The more simple way would be to assume that the answer to all of your concerns lies within, and develop, through discipline, a system of introspective study.

The above is the hard, slow way of doing things, but on your world it seems to be the more common way of proceeding. The more simple way would be to assume that the answer to all of your concerns lies within, and develop, through discipline, a system of introspective study. Many call this practice meditation, but even this word conveys preconceived erroneous beliefs and ideas, and some ones will never get past the negative reactionary impulses they associate with that term.

Simply take a few minutes each day to sit quietly and ask for Guidance (prayer), and then sit quietly and observe the thoughts that come to mind (meditation?—call it what you like). We advise that you keep paper and writing instrument handy so that you can, if you so choose to, write down ideas as they come. Many of you do this sort of activity already, and it will not seem like a new idea. Others will find this suggestion awkward and may even feel foolish attempting same. It can be done almost anywhere, even on a 10-minute bus commute. Please remember to first call upon The Light for protection, since the dark ones love to exploit every opportunity you allow them for interfering with your mind.

In time, with persistence, you can and will learn to consciously connect within for your Guidance and Knowledge. It is a prerequisite for graduating to the next level of conscious expression as a co-creator.

I am Ceres Anthonious “Toniose” Soltec. I come in Light and in Service to Creator God—The One Light.

May you each find within the answers to the questions and concerns that cause the stirrings and distractions of the lower-frequency emotional states. As you each learn how to grow in Strength and Wisdom, so does all of Creation grow.

Salu.

Our planet is entering a time of massive, turbulent change and renewal. To put it bluntly: we NEED help! And that’s where this book comes into the picture. Yes, eventually ‘the Phoenix will arise from the ashes’ after this Great Cleansing process, but the ride could be quite a bumpy one, especially for those ill-prepared for what is to happen.

“Just how we choose to deal with such change is THE question each of us must confront. Yet confusion swirls everywhere upon Earth at this time. And restless searchers cry out for that which may help them cope with these truly challenging times ahead. Thus these messages courtesy of our most loving Elder Brothers from the Higher Realms of Creation who are but further along the same spiritual path we all must eventually walk.”

If We But Ask Angels Stand Ready To Help

there is the more recent movie release titled City Of Angels, with Nicholas Cage and Meg Ryan (now available at video stores), which further activates the imagination on this subject. Angels aren't threatening—they're our Guides, our Helpers, our Rescuers in times of peril. Many who scoff at the notion of extraterrestrial involvement in our planet's evolution don't think twice about the existence of angels.

Angels are recognized and written about in most of the world's religions. But there is a certain mystique about them. We know about them, and yet we don't.

In preparing this story about angelic intervention—including God's Hosts—naturally I came across a lot of material (and, I must say, a lot of misinformation and poorly presented nonsense) on the subject. What I've tried to do, for this particular outlay, is to expand upon some conventional research with personal experiences and inspirational messages from and about these great and loving beings.

What emerges from the various "pieces of the puzzle" is quite an awesome picture of Growth—with a capital G—on a cosmic scale. But I don't want to give away the ending here at the beginning!

Let me just say that the personal angelic interventions we have all heard about (and/or experienced ourselves) take on a much deeper significance when viewed from the perspective of the Larger Picture in which the angelic realms play such an exquisite and active part. So, with that said, let's begin our intriguing journey into the subject of angels.

ABOUT ANGELS

I must preface this first excerpt by saying that it was downloaded from an Internet website, but the website was not noted on the documentation in front of me, and I have, subsequently, been unable to relocate the original source. What I am presenting here is only a portion of the material, but I would like to acknowledge that this information was not written by me:

[Quoting—with gratitude to the author,

The word angel appears over 250 times in the Bible. The word angel actually comes from the Greek word aggelos, which means messenger. The matching Hebrew word mal'ak has the same meaning. (Latin: angelus; Greek: aggelos; from the Hebrew for "one going" or "one sent"; messenger.) The word is used in Hebrew to denote indifferently either a divine or human messenger. The Latin version, however, distinguishes the divine or spirit-messenger from the human, rendering the original in the one case by angelus and in the other by legatus or more generally by nuntius.

We can not perceive them with our corporeal eyes. However, if God opens our eyes to see these angels, we can see them (II Kings 6:17). They may also appear to us, taking human forms (Heb 13:2). They are ministering spirits sent forth to serve those who will inherit salvation (Heb 1:14). The angels are represented throughout the Bible as a body of spiritual beings intermediate between God and men: "You have made him (man) a little less than the angels." (Psalms 8:6) They, equally with man, are created beings: "Praise ye Him, all His angels; praise ye Him, all His hosts...for He spoke, and they were made. He commanded, and they were created." (Psa., cxlviii, 2, 5: Co., i, 16, 17)

THE CREATION OF ANGELS

The Scripture speaks about the creation of angels, so it is clear that they have not existed from all eternity (Neh 9:6; Psa 148:2,5; 1 Tim 6:16). Colossians 1:16-17 indicates that all angels were created simultaneously: "For by Him all things were created, both in the Heavens and on Earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities—all things have been created by Him and for Him. And He is before all things, and in Him all things hold together." The time of their creation is never definitely specified, but it is most probable that it occurred in connection with the creation of the Heavens in Genesis 1:1. It may be that God created the angels immediately after He had created the Heavens and before He created the Earth—for according to Job 38:4-7 "the sons of God shouted for joy" when He laid the foundations of the Earth.

The Bible tells us that they are mighty and holy. It says they are mightier than we humans are. They are so swift as to defy the laws of physics. They are subject neither to decay nor to death. They can be visible or invisible to humans. In most biblically recorded cases of their appearance on Earth, the people who saw and heard them responded with terror.

The following account by Daniel illustrates an angel's impact:

"As I was standing on the bank of the great river, the Tigris, I looked up and there before me was a man dressed in linen, with a belt of the finest gold around his waist. His body was like chrysolite, his face like lightning, his eyes like flaming torches, his arms and legs like the gleam of burnished bronze, and his voice like the sound of a multitude. I, Daniel, was the only one who saw the vision; the men with me did not see it, but such terror overwhelmed them that they fled and hid themselves. So I was left alone, gazing at this great vision; I had no strength left; my face turned deathly pale and I was helpless." (Daniel 10:4-8)

Daniel then explains that when the angel started speaking, he (Daniel) passed out, and the angel had to help him to his feet.

The angel's purpose in coming to Daniel was to give him a message about the future, to let him know what is written in "the Book of Truth" as the angel called it. The angel also reported his intense conflict with a fallen angel, specifically with the demon who held some measure of authority over Persia. This demon had the power to detain the angel for twenty-one days. From these biblical accounts and others, we learn that angels' capacities reflect their existence in at least some of God's dimensions outside the four of the universe. Compared to God, however, angels are limited. The Bible indicates that God alone is omnipotent, omniscient, and omnipresent. Angels are not. Though they have access to more dimensions than we humans do, they occupy a limited dimensionality, as we do. Though they are able to exercise extraordinary power, they are created beings, as we.

THE ANGELIC KINGDOM

While this next presentation contains much information on the subject of angels, naturally, there is no way to confirm that this is "really the way it is", but at the very least, it provides some thought-provoking concepts and historical commentary which do provide a greater general awareness of the subject.

The following has been excerpted from the www.ascension.net/angelic.htm Internet website, with some rearranging of the presentation:

[Quoting]

The beings of the Angelic Kingdom have the function of administering to the spiritual needs and the emotional needs of both the Human Kingdom and the Elemental Kingdom. They "take care" of us. Angels work primarily on the emotional plane. Just as an electric heater radiates heat waves, angels radiate unique beneficial energies, with many different wonderful effects.

Each type of angel is a specialist in radiating one particular "quality" or "virtue", which typically has its own unique color, sound, fragrance, and focus.

The angels who work with Archangel Michael specialize in Faith and Protection.

The angels who work with Archangel Zadkiel focus on The Violet Flame of Transmutation.

The angels who work with Archangel Raphael specialize in Healing and Consecration.

Those with Chamuel focus on Divine Love and the Adoration Flame.

The angels under Jophiel specialize in Illumination and Enlightened Understanding.

And, of course, there are innumerable other qualities that angels specialize in: Divine Will, Happiness, Hope, Purity, Opulence, Stillness, Comfort, Ceremony, Divine Power, Peace, Science, Beauty, Ministration, Music—the list just keeps going!

Angels are like rechargeable batteries. Just by hanging out within the aura of their "leader", their auras "soak up" and absorb that quality for which their leader has become an expert. This master angel is like a fountain, producing a continuous stream of this particular quality, and consequently his or her force field is a powerful reservoir of this quality.

For example, the angels working with Archangel Uriel absorb by proximity his special quality of Peace, and then, like a rechargeable battery, when they become totally "full" with this quality, they get sent out somewhere to administer and radiate out this quality. They radiate their quality primarily through their feelings. Once they reach "empty", they return to their leader and once again "fill up" with that quality, to once again be sent out.

As angels evolve, they become continuously improving experts at holding more and more of this specialized quality, and holding it for a longer time, and holding it without contamination from adverse external conditions (usually generated by humans). As they continue to specialize in this quality, with time they too become a fountain-head of this quality, to which many lesser angels come to drink-in and absorb this essence.

Their role is to radiate the aura of God to humans and elementals, to help them and comfort them on their path, and to remind them of their celestial source and heritage. In doing their service to life of radiating energies, angels are typically experts at creating multi-angel force-fields, using sacred geometry and symmetric patterns to create force-fields much more powerful and effective than if they worked independently. Like a good football team, they know just the "play" to implement, to optimally nourish and nurture each situation.

Angels also function as an inter-dimensional conduit, carrying energies both up and down between dimensions. In the "up" direction, they gather all the hopes, aspirations, wishes, and prayers of humanity, and then deliver them up to the appropriate Beings on the higher subtler planes. In the "down" direction, when these higher Light Beings choose to send particular beneficial energies to particular places on the planet, it is the angels who ultimately deliver these celestial energies to their Earthly destinations.

There are, of course, also personal angels, or guardian angels, focusing on the spiritual and emotional well-being of one particular human. Every human has at least one of them. Many Lightworkers have a number of them. If you want your personal angels to work even more closely with you, you can, first of all, acknowledge them and thank them from your Heart, for their undying (and usually unappreciated) service to you.

Then you can do your best to make your personal aura as sweet, harmonious, and loving as you can. Remember—the sweeter your energies, the closer your angels will want to "hang-out" in your aura. Angels just LOVE environments that are harmonious, sweet, and peaceful. It gives them a momentary sanctuary amidst the imperfections on Earth that are continuously being generated by humanity-at-large.

Angels can grow weary from this, and so they just flock to a pleasant energy zone. Just like a hummingbird feeder attracts hummingbirds, a beautiful backyard, with flowers, streams, LOVE, and sweet peaceful energies, will attract angels from all around, as they come to bask in your angelic oasis on the physical dimension.

By the way, if you want your personal angels to work extra hard for you, you can bribe them! How? With their form of currency, of course! No, it's not dollars, it's not credit cards, but it is something that is as valuable to them as hundred dollar bills are to us—LOVE! Love is their form of currency. They value it, they cherish us, they even evolve through receiving more of it! So, whereas your personal angels may have already done an exquisite job of serving you, without receiving one drop of Love or Gratitude from you, if you turn up the throttle and flood them with your love and appreciation, then just hang on for the heavenly acceleration you are about to receive! Elementals can perceive angels, and so always send them love and gratitude.

But angels are not used to receiving very much appreciation from humans—so far!

There exists a Universal Law that Beings in one dimension cannot assist beings in another dimension UNLESS the request or invitation comes from the dimension wishing to receive the assistance. To a great extent, this leaves many angels with their “hands tied” with respect to helping humans. They live but to serve. They love to serve. They evolve by serving. It makes them happy to serve. But you have to invoke them. That means you have to invite and request their assistance. The instant you do, you’ve created an inter-dimensional doorway through which they can pour-in and literally flood you with their endless divine qualities.

As a matter of fact, from their point of view, humans are not really that good at receiving. Even the humans who consciously request and absorb these healing qualities from the angels are really only letting in just a tiny fraction of the benefits they really could absorb—like letting-in a tiny brook, when you could really let-in a Niagara Falls of “manna from heaven”.

So remember—the angels are always encouraging you: EXPAND how much you can receive and absorb beneficial radiations from them! Just know that they will always be there—eager and enthusiastic to give you as much as you can handle!

Why not test them right now, while you read this? Think of some divine quality that you really need or would like more of. Then silently, in the depths of your Heart, request and invite the appropriate angels to administer this quality to you. You can even make your request more specific: Ask for a “heart beam”—with one angel in front of you facing you, and another angel behind you, also facing you. Sense them create a pillar of Light connecting their Hearts, with this Light Beam passing directly through your Heart! Feel this for just a few moments; then you have a sense of the magical assistance that is always lovingly available to you—just a thought away.

When angels appear to humans so as not to scare them, they usually appear in the form that those humans expect angels to look like. But this may be nothing at all like the form they normally take (if any). Remember—the higher you go in dimensions, the more “optional” form becomes.

And, of course, angels are famous for their angelic choirs. It is not uncommon to have 50,000 angels singing in exquisite unison. Why do angels have such beautiful voices? Simple—because they have beautiful feelings.

When you pick up the phone, you can immediately tell how the other person is feeling from their tone of voice. The tone of the voice always has encoded within it the emotional state of that person in that instant. This is true of humans, elementals, and of course angels.

If you wish to have a more beautiful voice, rather than taking voice lessons, get to the source, the cause—just focus on cultivating more beautiful feelings! When angels greet each other, it is a triumphant and ecstatic symphony of gorgeous colors, music, fragrances, and feelings.

Angels want to serve you! They also want to play with you! They even want to worship with you! All of the kingdoms are streams of Life emanating from the same One Universal Source, and in this respect we truly all are brothers and sisters.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE ANGELIC HIERARCHY

All three major religions of the Western world—Christianity, Judaism, and Islam—as well as virtually all of the world’s other systems of religious belief, include celestials in their cosmologies. Their scriptures all contain references to angelic interventions.

Angels, like people, belong to families or clans. Many names have been given to them, but in the opinion of a number of angel historians, the most familiar can be arranged in three categories, or spheres, starting at the top with those closest to God, and moving down to those who are connected to the physical world.

The word “angel” itself is used both as a generic term to refer to all heavenly beings, and as a specific term to refer to the members of the third sphere, those closest to the physical. So, too, the word “archangel” is often used as a generic term to refer to all the higher orders of heavenly beings, although they are in fact but one of the higher orders.

While it looks like there is a higher and lower echelon, it’s more accurate to visualize all these orders in a great circle, with the “highest” and the “lowest” holding hands. For example, seraphim, who appear to be closest to the Creator, also serve the God in us.

In the New Testament, celestial beings are grouped into seven ranks: angels, archangels, principalities, powers, virtues, dominions, and thrones. Plus, the Old Testament adds cherubim and seraphim, which with the other seven ranks, comprise the nine choirs of angels in later Christian theology—although the number has generally been fixed at seven. The angels receiving the most attention and veneration were the four angels mentioned in the Old Testament and the Apocrypha.

THE SPIRITUAL HIERARCHY

The 9 Orders Of Angelic Beings (1 Being The Highest Order)

The First Sphere—angels who serve as heavenly counselors:

- 1 - SERAPHIM
- 2 - CHERUBIM
- 3 - THRONES

The Second Sphere—angels who work as heavenly governors:

- 4 - DOMINIONS
- 5 - VIRTUES
- 6 - POWERS

The Third Sphere—angels who function as heavenly messengers:

- 7 - PRINCIPALITIES
- 8 - ARCHANGELS
- 9 - ANGELS

SERAPHIM

The highest order of the highest hierarchy are the seraphim, the celestial beings said to surround the throne of God, singing the music of the spheres, and regulating the movement of the heavens as such emanates from God.

CHERUBIM

Beyond the thrones are the cherubim. They are the guardians of Light, and of the stars. Remote from your plane of reality, still their Light touches your lives, the Divine Light that they filter down from Heaven. Lucifer (Satan/Devil) is known as the “angel of Light, whom God’s Light shown through” before his “sin against God”.

THRONES

They are the companion angels of the planets. At this time in your history it is important for you to be aware of the particular throne, the Earth Angel, who is guardian of your world.

DOMINIONS

The dominions are the heavenly beings who govern the activities of all the angelic groups lower than they are. Divine bureaucrats, they also serve to integrate the spiritual and the material worlds. Although they take their orders from God, and rarely contact individuals, their work is connected to your reality.

VIRTUES

Beyond the powers are another group of beings, the virtues. They are of particular importance to you now because they are able to beam out massive levels of Divine Energy. As more groups of you learn to work with the virtues, there will be a greater infusion of spiritual energy available on your planet.

POWERS

They are the bearers of the conscience of all of humanity, the keepers of your collective history. The angels of birth and death are in this category. They are able to draw down and hold the energy of the Divine Plan the same way trees draw down the energy of the Sun. In this way, the powers can send all of you a vision of a world spiritual network.

PRINCIPALITIES

Beyond the group of archangels are the principalities. They are the guardian angels of all large groups, from cities and nations to recent human creations such as multi-national corporations. These might more accurately now be called integrating angels. There are many of these beings involved with your planet; one particular integrating angel carries the pattern of a unified global society in his heart.

ARCHANGELS

Beyond the angels are the beings you are used to calling the archangels. But we suggest that you call them over-Lighting angels, since they tend the larger arenas of human endeavor. These beings are from a different family from the angels. There are many different kinds of over-Lighting angels in this larger family. The four you are most familiar with are Gabriel, Michael, Raphael, and Uriel.

ANGELS

The angels who you're most familiar with are those in the last order. They are the ones who are closest to humanity, the ones most concerned with human affairs. Within the category of angels, there are many different kinds, with different functions.

The ones who you know best are the guardian angels. Because of shifts in their functions and your consciousness, it is useful to think of these celestial beings as companion angels. As you enter a time of increased Light and Love on the planet, they will not need to guard you, but rather will be your guides to greater and greater consciousness.

MICHAEL (Archangel): "Who is like God?"

The one whose name is a question—"Who is like God?"—is surely the best known of the over-Lighting archangels. Michael is acknowledged by all three Western sacred traditions. He is believed to have appeared to Moses as the fire in the burning bush, and to have rescued Daniel and his friends from the lions' den. To Christians, he's the angel who informed Mary of her approaching death. Islamic lore tells us that his wings are the color of "green emerald and are covered with saffron hairs, each of them containing a million faces and mouths and as many tongues which, in a million dialects, implore the pardon of Allah." The Koran also paints the touching image of the cherubim being formed from the tears of Michael.

In the Dead Sea Scrolls Michael emerges as the "Prince of Light" fighting a war against the "Sons of Darkness" in which he leads the angelic battle against the legion of the fallen angel, Belial. Most recently, in 1950, Pope Pius XII declared Michael to be the patron of all policemen.

Michael is the commander-in-chief of God's angel armies. He led them during a war in heaven in which Satan and his fallen angels were driven out of that sphere. In Moslem lore, Michael is described as having hairs of saffron, wings of green topaz, and a million faces, each face with a million eyes, each eye shedding 70,000 tears.

Christian art and iconography show Michael with a sword or with a scale weighing the souls of the dead.

GABRIEL (Archangel): "God is my strength"

The one whose name means "God is my strength" seems to be most frequent from the higher realms. He astonished Mary, and her cousin Elizabeth, mother of John the Baptist, with the pronouncements concerning the births of their respective sons. To the followers of Islam, Gabriel is the Spirit of Truth who dictated the Koran to Mohammed. In Jewish legend it was Gabriel who parted the waters of the Red Sea so that the Hebrews could escape from the Pharaoh's soldiers.

According to court testimony of the time, it was Gabriel who came to Joan of Arc and inspired her to go to the aid of the dauphin (the eldest son of the king of France). Gabriel's apparent ongoing interest in this planet is most probably due to his function as heavenly awakener, the angel of vibratory transformation.

Sitting at God's left hand, Gabriel is said to be the angel who destroyed perverted Sodom.

Gabriel in Hebrew means "man of God" and is seen as God's messenger. Described as a human figure with long hair and multi-colored wings, and often seen holding a scepter or lily, Gabriel's feast day is March 24. He was declared, on January 12, 1951, by Pope Pius XII, the patron of those involved in electronic communications—which emphasizes Gabriel's function as a messenger.

RAPHAEL (Archangel): "God has healed"

Raphael is perhaps the most endearing of all the angels, and the one most frequently depicted in Western art. His image is featured on the canvases of such masters as Botticelli, Titian, and Rembrandt. His name means "God has healed". Not only does he appear to be the high archangel charged with healing the Earth, but, according to the Zohar, "the Earth furnishes an abode for man, whom Raphael also heals of his maladies".

Raphael is the traveler's guide and guardian of youth. The ruler of the second heaven shows up in Christian paintings carrying a pilgrim's stick, a wallet, and a fish. The poet Milton has Raphael eating supper with Adam and Eve in Eden.

Indeed, Raphael's career seems to be peppered with medical missions. He healed the pain of circumcision for Abraham as the old man had not had the procedure done when he was young. Raphael was then sent by God to cure poor Jacob's thigh after he'd been roughed up by Samael. And it's also claimed that Raphael gave Noah a much-prized "medical book" after the flood.

There's a legend that when Solomon prayed to God for aid in building the great temple in Jerusalem, Raphael personally delivered the gift of a magic ring with the power to subdue all demons. It was with this "slave labor" that the Hebrew king completed the construction.

Raphael has also been called "a guide in hell" which, after all, is where healing is needed the most.

URIEL (Archangel): "Fire of God"

Uriel's name means "Fire of God" and he is ranked variously as a seraph, cherub, regent of the Sun, flame of God, presider over Hades and, in his best-known role, as the Archangel of Salvation. Like Metatron, Uriel is said to be one of the angels of the Presence, a most high posting since only the most accomplished angels can sustain the presence of God.

Uriel is thought to have been "the spirit who stood at the gate of the lost Eden with the fiery sword". The Book of Enoch tells us that it was Uriel who was sent by God to warn Noah of the impending flood; and elsewhere it is written that he disclosed the mysteries of the heavenly arcana to Ezra, and that he also led Abraham out of Ur in the Chaldean region.

Some have claimed that the divine art of alchemy was brought down to Earth by Uriel, and that it was also this angel who gave the Kabbalah, the Hebrew mystic tradition, to humankind. John Milton describes Uriel as the "sharpest sighted spirit of all in Heaven".

Uriel is associated by legend with earthquakes, storms, erupting volcanos and such, and has a big part in Milton's Paradise Lost. There, as governor of the Sun, he is tricked by Satan, disguised as a young angel, into giving directions to Earth, and from there to Eden. Once there, tempting Satan sought out Eve's ear.

METATRON (Cherubim): One who occupies the throne next to the Divine throne

In the world of Jewish mystics, this one came to hold the rank of the highest of the angels, despite his not being mentioned in the Scriptures. The meaning of his name has never been satisfactorily explained, although one interpretation of it is “one who occupies the throne next to the Divine throne”. It could also be derived from the Latin “metator”, a guide or measurer.

In a number of traditional sources, Metatron is said to have been the prophet Enoch, who was taken up to Heaven and transformed into an angel of fire, with thirty-six pairs of wings, to continue his days as a celestial scribe. Metatron has also been identified as the Liberating Angel and the one who wrestled with Jacob, the one who stayed Abraham’s hand from sacrificing his son Isaac, and the one who led the Hebrews through the forty years in the wilderness. In certain schools of mysticism, Metatron, said to be the tallest of all the heavenly beings, became known as Lesser YHWH. In Hebrew, the letters “YHWH” stand for the most sacred and unpronounceable name of God.

As God has many names, so, too, Metatron was thought to have many names, the use of which was believed to offer the user protection and access to this great angel’s powers. Yahoel, Yofiel, Surya, and Lad are just a few of his other names.

MORONI: Giver of the Book of Mormon

Moroni is the angel of the Latter-day Saints. While there seems to be a dearth of indigenous American angels, in 1823 legend has it that Moroni appeared to Joseph Smith in upstate New York and led him to discover buried golden tablets inscribed with dense lettering. When translated by Smith, again with Moroni’s help, this text became the Book Of Mormon, which tells us that in about 600 BC, prior to the destruction of Jerusalem, a Jewish family fled the city and made its way by ship to what is now North America. Their descendants became two nations—one the ancestors of the Native Americans, the other lost and gone. However, records kept by one of the elders of that vanished people tell that Jesus appeared to them after His death on the cross. The elder’s name was Mormon, and it was his son, Moroni, who buried the tablets his father had kept, in about 400 A.D. According to the story, Moroni thus joins the ranks of Enoch and Elijah who were transformed into angels, and follows in the tradition of Gabriel in being the angelic giver of a book of revelation.

There is a forty-foot-high statue of Moroni that stands on top of a hill near Palmyra, New York, where Smith discovered the buried tablets. The angel is shown as he appeared to Smith, without wings and clothed in a long robe. Smith, who went on to found the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, described Moroni as a “being of Light with a face like lightning”.

MELCHIZEDEK: Lived and taught 2000 years before the Christ

Melchizedek, the Sage of Salem, is another of the few known cases of a high angel taking a human male body. According to The Urantia Book, he appeared fully formed, some two thousand years before Christ, announcing that he was a servant of El El yon, the Most High. He then set up a teaching center over which he personally presided for ninety-four years.

It was Melchizedek who delivered God’s Covenant to Abraham and introduced the revolutionary concept of salvation through pure faith to the thinking of the planet. He established an extraordinary wide-flung missionary program, centered in Salem, the ancient site of Jerusalem, sending out thousands of missionaries who literally circled the globe.

Called Sydik in Phoenician mythology, Melchizedek was believed to be the father of the seven Elohim—more angels of the Divine Presence. In the third century A.D., a group of “heretics”, calling themselves Melchisedans, claimed to be in touch with “a great power named Melchizedek, who was greater than Christ”. His sojourn here as the Sage of Salem was said to have been a concerted effort on behalf of the celestials to bring some much-needed Light to a dark and chaotic time, and to sow the seeds for the coming of the Christ.

From the Book Of Alma 13:14-18, within the Book Of Mormon, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints:

“14: Yea, humble yourselves even as the people in the days of Melchizedek, who was also a high priest after this same order which I have spoken, who also took upon him the high priesthood forever.

“15: And it was this same Melchizedek to whom Abraham paid tithes; yea, even our father Abraham paid tithes of one-tenth part of all he possessed.

“16: Now these ordinance were given after this manner, that thereby the people might look forward on the Son of God, it being a type of his order, or it being his order, and this that they might look forward to him for remission of their sins, that they might enter into the rest of the Lord.

“17: Now this Melchizedek was a king over the land of Salem; and his people had waxed strong in iniquity and abomination; yea, they had all gone astray; they were full of all manner of wickedness;

“18: But Melchizedek, having exercised mighty faith, and received the high office of priesthood according to the holy order of God, did preach the repentance unto his people. And behold they did repent; and Melchizedek did establish peace in the land in his days; therefore he was called the prince of peace, for he was the king of Salem; and he did reign under his father.”

ARIEL (Throne): “Lion of God”

Ariel means “Lion of God”. However, some confusion exists as to exactly whose side Ariel is on. He’s ranked as one of the seven princes who rule the waters and is also known as Earth’s Great Lord. To the poet John Milton, however, Ariel is a rebel angel who is overcome by the seraph Abdiel on the first day of the great war in Heaven.

Jewish mystics used Ariel as a poetic name for Jerusalem. In Gnostic lore, that first- and second-century melting pot of revelation, Ariel is the angel who controls the demons. Ariel has also been associated with the order of angels called the thrones and is known to have assisted the archangel Raphael in the curing of disease.

John Dee, magician, occultist, and court astrologer to Queen Elizabeth I, reckoned Ariel to be a conglomerate of Aneal and Uriel, which sets him among the over-Lighting archangels!

Ariel makes an appearance in William Shakespeare’s The Tempest, which may well have been the source of why Percy Bysshe Shelley, the nineteenth-century poet, liked to refer to himself as the angel Ariel.

ISRAFEL: “The Burning One”

Israfel, whose name in Arabic folklore means “The Burning One”, is both an angel of resurrection and of song. By these same accounts, Israfel paved the way for Gabriel by serving three years as a companion to Mohammed, whom he’d originally initiated into the work of being a prophet.

In an Islamic variant of the Genesis account of Adam’s creation, Allah sends Israfel, Gabriel, Michael, and Azrael—the Angel of Death—out on a mission to fetch the seven handfuls of dust needed to make humanity’s progenitor. According to legend, only Azrael returned unsuccessful.

Edgar Allan Poe, writer of mystery tales and verses, footnoted a poem with a cryptic reference to “the angel Israfel, whose heart strings are a lute, and who has the sweetest voice of all God’s creatures”. Elsewhere Israfel is described as a four-winged angel who “while his feet are under the seventh Earth, his head reaches to the pillars of the Divine throne”.

RAZIEL (Power): “Secret of God”

Raziel, which means “Secret of God”, is believed to be an “angel of the secret regions and Chief of the Supreme Mysteries”. There is a legend that Raziel is the author of a great book “wherein all celestial and Earthly knowledge is set down”. When the angel gave his tome to Adam, some envious angels stole it away and threw it in the ocean. After it had been recovered by the primordial angel/demon of the deep, Rahab, the book passed first to Enoch, who apparently claimed it as his own, then to Noah, who learned how to make his ark from it. Solomon, too, was thought to have possessed the book, which allowed him his unusual knowledge of magic and control over the demons.

The Zohar, the major work of Jewish mysticism, claims that set in the middle of Raziel’s book there is secret writing “explaining the fifteen hundred keys [to the mystery of the world], which were not revealed even to the angels”. Other Jewish mystics report that “each day the angel Raziel, standing on the mount of Horeb, proclaims the secrets of men to all mankind”.

What we didn’t know when we began writing this material, but what Abigrael, our recording angel, told us later, is that Raziel is its guide.

SANDALPHON

The sonorously named angel-prince, Sandalphon, is the one who some say Elijah became after his death.

ANGELS AND NATURE SPIRITS

Once you open to your angels, and in some cases perhaps even before, you may run into their cousins, the “Nature Spirits”. The Nature Spirits are themselves an angelic order, but they are literally on a different wavelength and serve a different purpose.

[End quoting]

Hopefully the above provides some food for thought about the endeavors within angelic realms. Keep in mind that even though the historical and literary descriptions of some of these angels may be highly symbolic, there is also likely some kernel of truth underneath each “legend”.

In any discussion of angels and their interactions with planet Earth, it would be a great oversight to not bring into this equation the Great Awakening and overall Planetary Transition that is occurring at this time. Remember that the frequency of planet Earth is steadily increasing in response to constant energy input from the Higher Realms, and along with that is the awakening of many long-dormant abilities within us which the angelic realms are helping us to discover and learn to utilize.

The following expansive message was channeled by C. J. Martes in November of 1996, and was received from the Angelic Council of Twelve:

[Quoting]

WELCOME FROM THE ANGELIC REALMS

You are entering a new age, dear brothers and sisters of Light. You are now at the crossroads—a time of self-discovery, transformation, and awakening of the spirit.

The world around you seems chaotic. However, there is a new peace emerging from within you. Recognize that you are all on a voyage through this universe of consciousness together. You are all struggling to evolve. It is within this collective struggle that you now see that you are not separate beings at all. Things that once divided you will exist no longer, as you realize that the separation from each other is merely an illusion created by fear.

The new era in the universe is now. There has never been another moment in time where so much activation is available to you. This is why we are calling to each of you with this message from our collective heart vibration. We are calling to all children of Light, asking that each of you begin to embrace the profound joy that awaits you.

There is great beauty within your spirits that you have already known to exist inside, even during your most difficult times. It is this Pure Essence of who you are that you have continued to hold fast to when darkness has threatened you from many sources. It is this Essence that we hope to assist you in claiming and bringing forward into your human existence. You all have the same gifts and abilities at your disposal. You have always had a choice whether or not to utilize them.

Many of you are finding it harder and harder to choose to ignore these gifts. This shift is occurring for people all over your world as the vibration of unconditional love is humming within your spirits to be reborn. Each of you who are feeling the call of your hearts must now embrace yourselves and others to set your true selves free. You can all become an example of this transformation and rebirth as this beautiful Light shines forth from your hearts. You have many beautiful things in your world to experience; however, they are of no comparison to the gift and infinite beauty of pure Light and Love that exist within each of you.

You are all one essence within the same beautiful spirit. We wish to welcome you to your journey, whether you are just embarking upon it or have already found your path of Truth. We excitedly applaud each of you because of your many accomplishments. Without your desire to grow and evolve, we would not be here working directly with you today through open channels. If you had not opened yourselves to our existence, it would not matter what information came through into your world because you would be unable to receive it. It is by your creation and desire to learn that the veils between our worlds are becoming thinner and we can assist you more directly within the loving vibration of the Creator.

We wish you Divine Light and Peace on the journey toward your enlightenment. Dance now and allow your hearts to sing with joy as you experience the freedom of your evolution.

[End quoting]

Notice the strongly supportive and uplifting undercurrents to this message. It reflects the sentiment of many similar messages flooding this planet at this time of the Great Awakening.

Another common theme is reflected in the following message, which represents a small portion of a chapter from the book (published by Portals of Light, 1987) called Talks With THE MASTERS, where the Master Teacher Theoaphylos, from the Higher Realms, is channeled by a person known as Tuieta:

[Quoting]

YOU—THE VOLUNTEERS

This school that you all now attend, know you that you are students? For it is so, you are. And you have come to learn many lessons. And the lessons are as varied as there are beings here, as there are brethren upon the face of Earth. And you have come to learn your lesson. But it is that there shall be a great and mighty graduation upon this plane. And you shall have your choice.

You ones, who would be the repeaters, shall again go to school. But ah, not of this place. For this beloved jewel is to be polished, and no longer shall it be marred. For only its beauty shall come forth. And you ones, who would choose not to graduate, but to dawdle a while longer with your studies, shall school of another place.

But you ones who would graduate, who would choose—and hear these words that I do say to you for I say, who would choose—shall be with this jewel, this emerald of the Father's Crown. And they shall be as ones who no longer are in the lower grades, the beginning grades—for I like not the word “lower”—but they shall be as ones to receive the higher lessons.

It would be, as you would say, your university students. For your mode of study shall be greatly different from that which you now experience. For you shall be as ones who will have learned of peace. And you will have learned of the manifestation of brother love. You will be filled with the joy, that is the joy of at-one-ment with your brethren and with all of the Creative Force. Is this not worth working for?

You see, I have achieved this state. And I assure you it is most delicious. For these eons of time, this beloved jewel has been your schoolhouse. Would you graduate with her? Do not look to a far distant day for this graduation process. For I say to you, it has begun. How great, how mighty is up to you. This you have been told before, I know. But it is up to you.

[End quoting]

It would naturally be expected that the angelic realms should figure prominently in the execution of this great sorting and graduation process in which we now find ourselves.

This next message, complementary to and expanding upon the one above, comes from Barbara Marciniak's 1999 volume called Family Of Light:

[Quoting]

YOU ARE MULTI-DIMENSIONAL BEINGS

Your tests today as human beings are not simply about meeting third-dimensional challenges, although there will be many. Your opportunity lies in understanding that, in the cycles of existence, you relive points in time to reach for and achieve something unique. It is time for you to acknowledge your powers and live in the Now.

Live for freedom—for the amount of free you have will depend upon your response-ability. If you cannot respond, then you will lock yourself into a cocoon, a web so tangled you will never wiggle out. As Family of Light, we address you: Look to what is inside yourself. The history of your world shows that people have been penalized for free thinking. You live in a world that at one time sold you a “truth”: “The Earth is the center of the universe. And anyone who disagrees will be burned at the stake!”

Today you face the same shift in perception. Will you expand your vision beyond what you think and have the courage to speak and live your truth?

Love from inside is essential to achieve this shift. Living begins to make sense when you realize you chose to be who you are. You are multi-dimensional beings, and there are many “yous” to get to know. There are versions of “yous” from a few thousand years ago and thirteen thousand years ago, who have jumped into this reality to gather experience. And if you find you did not live at that time, then perhaps your mind has traveled to the libraries in time where everything exists at once, a place where doorways open like videos on the screen of your mind, showing vignettes of what has been, so you can make sense of what you are now.

Your world may appear baffling. You may feel that there is so much to integrate, and wonder: “How can I make sense of it all?”

You can. You must.

You are here to chart foreign territory and to pioneer an unnamed opportunity. By doing so you can truly discover one of your greatest abilities: that you are creators.

You are not victims. You are not flawed. You do not need authorities. And no one needs to save you. You do not need to memorize anything from books. You must learn to use the power of your will and your intent to discover the great flowering and blossoming of life that is occurring in your Now.

[Continuing quoting from a different chapter of Family Of Light]

UNDERSTANDING FEAR

People of great power walked the land and taught the truth of the vibration of love; as well, they helped people recognize the tyranny they lived under. Tyranny uses the tool of fear to control you.

One of the ongoing tests you face from one age to another, from one season to another, and truly from one moment to the next, is understanding fear. When you buy into any version of fear, it can become your experience because your molecules are intelligent and your energy responds to the predominant feeling in your being. The focus of your mind is exactly what gives the orders to create what you experience. Even though your ancestors approached reality from a different point of view, they too had to pass the test of fear, just as you shall in the days ahead.

[End quoting]

If you are in a fearful situation, ask, petition for help—and you will get it. Remember: the call compels the answer. And that answer is typically facilitated from those busy angelic realms.

This next little gem of an angelic “pep talk” is also courtesy of Barbara Marciniak, from her 1992 book called Bringers Of The Dawn:

[Quoting]

BRINGERS OF THE DAWN

You are magnificent beings, members of the Family of Light, and you came to Earth at this time, on assignment, to create a shift, to make a change, to assist in the transition. Love is the key. Love is what makes up the universe.

The present technology on Earth will only develop to a certain extent because mankind does not yet understand that love is necessary. Energy can take all forms of creativity, but when one is dealing with greed or hatred or any emotion that is not working toward Light, one is only allowed to go so far. There is only so much information that is available to that sort of vibration.

Love is the basic building block. So, when one has love, all possibilities exist. Bringing back the concepts of Light, which are information and love—which is creativity—is the plan.

[End quoting]

This is a well planned and well orchestrated Awakening of mankind at this time. The massive role that the angelic helpers play in this project is further explained in the following excerpt from Ken Carey's 1991 book called Starseed, The Third Millennium—Living In The Posthistoric World:

[Quoting]

ROLE OF ANGELIC MESSENGERS

Our race of angelic messengers was ordained at the inception of the human project to awaken you when the time was right. Some of us awaken you from the outside, shaking you and reminding you of who you are. Some of us slide down into physicality, merging our biogravitational fields with yours, awakening within you, looking through your eyes, helping you to reprioritize your lives along the creative currents of Love.

Still others of our more distant kin assist entirely from the outside, by pouring into the fields of thought and emotion around the Earth powerful energies of Love, Joy, and Well-being. These are the spirits who will never incarnate in human form, those of truly extraterrestrial designation. They are not associated with biological processes and never will be. Yet for love of the Great Being who awakens within you, they come to this world as forces of stabilization, beacons of tranquility, to radiate peace and assurance into this sphere during your decades of Awakening.

Throughout these decades, those of us in all three capacities continuously wash the slumbering facets of human thought with the purifying currents of life information. We vitalize you with the renewing energies of eternal love. We help you to roll away the stony conceptions that have prevented the springs of perennial wisdom from bubbling up within you.

The beam of energy information that shines through the center of each of our spirit identities into our respective individualized human lives is the same information beam that emanates from the center of the Sun and, before that, from the center of the galactic core. Our essential spirit identity is one with our Creator, the Unnameable, the Source who sends but one primal identity beam through the galaxy, star, world, and soul, differentiating like light through crystal layers as it flows, taking ever more specific, focused form, yet remaining one light in essence, originating in one Source, one God, one Creator.

[End quoting]

A central role of the angelic messengers at this time is helping us to sense that inner connectedness to All That Is.

This next excerpt gives us further insights concerning the truly vast nature of the angelic role in assisting our awakening to Creator within us. The message is extracted from the 1954 (reprinted in 1986) book by Thomas Printz, titled The Seven Beloved Archangels Speak:

[Quoting]

TO THE MANKIND OF EARTH, GREETINGS

I, Michael, Lord of the Archangels, bring to you again the living Presence of the Archangels Who, in Their graciousness, have chosen to part the veil of silence, and describe the activities which engage Their energies and to which They have voluntarily devoted Their lives.

In the great Plan of Creation, the Archangels represent the feelings of The Father-Mother God, as the Elohim represent the mental qualities. The sustaining of these feelings in the atmosphere of Earth, where they are available to the souls of men, is the service of the Archangels.

The Age of Cosmic Ceremonial has dawned. With it comes the fiat of the Eternal to unite the Kingdoms of Angel, man, and elemental in conscious cooperative endeavor to fulfill the Divine Plan. In obedience to this fiat, We come, bringing with us the description of Our services to life, Our activities in connection with the development of mankind's spiritual maturity, and Our Flames and Rays which will nourish and intensify the qualities and activities We represent within the souls of all who choose to accept Our Presence.

It is many centuries since We have been invited into the world of men and given opportunity to speak to the outer consciousness wherein lies the motivating power of illumined and willing cooperation with the Divine Plan. We are grateful for the invitation, the welcome, and the comprehension in the minds, hearts, and feelings of the few who can believe We are! Through these few, who may find merit in Our words and comfort in Our radiation, We shall serve to bless the race.

[End quoting]

Note the mention, again, that all here on planet Earth at this time are not ready for the Awakening. And yet the great gift of the angelic presence in our lives is freely offered for the sake of those who truly are ready and searching.

More about the angelic role in this mandate of Awakening is found in Ken Carey's 1988 classic called Return Of The Bird Tribes:

[Quoting]

MESSAGE FROM THE BIRD TRIBES

Our task today is to help you remove the blinders that historically have distorted your perception. Realize that what you feel in your heart determines what you see. Perception rides upon the expressions of the heart like a canoe rides upon the waters. When your heart expresses fear, in any of its turbulent forms, your understanding becomes jumbled, confused, you perceive through the waves of illusion. But when you love, you understand, for then you share the vision, the very perception of God.

[End quoting]

Now, while this Big Picture is unfolding on our behalf, largely under the magnificent efforts of the angelic realms, let's not overlook the personal interactions which angels have with us on a daily basis, though such help often does go unrecognized and unacknowledged.

For example, our next item is excerpted from the www.intouchmag.com/Angels website:

[Quoting]

ANGEL ON FLIGHT 1641 (A story by Ilsa Troge)

Everything had happened so fast. The ad in the magazine detailing the weekend seminar in Sedona. The call to my travel agent. Flight reservations to Phoenix. Car rental arrangements for the hundred and twenty miles I'd have to drive. Motel accommodations. Getting time off work during our busiest season. And finding I had enough money to afford this spur-of-the-moment trip.

This was certainly out of character for me. I never did anything on the spur of the moment. I detested the monotony of car trips. My immediate "comfort zone" never takes me more than thirty-five miles in any one direction. But here I was, sitting in seat 25D on Northwest Flight 1641, waiting for take-off.

My thoughts were interrupted by a heated discussion in the seats next to me. The occupants, an elderly couple, were having a disagreement about seating. They wound up moving across the aisle to other seats, only to create more commotion when the "rightful" occupants of those seats showed up. One of the young men took the window seat in my row, leaving the middle seat between us vacant. I don't know where his companion ended up, as my thoughts were now focusing on something altogether different.

Were the walls of the plane really closing in on me? Why was it so difficult for me to catch my breath? I felt like screaming, but couldn't. My heart was beating so fast and loud I felt it would jump out of my chest at any moment! All I could think of was getting OFF THE PLANE! But my legs would not move. And the aisle was completely blocked by boarding passengers. What was I going to do? I just had to get off that plane.

I dug my fingernails into the armrests of my seat, as if this could somehow help me hold on to reality, but it only served to magnify the horror of the situation. How could I have been so incredibly stupid as to forget my fear of flying?

The last time I'd flown—seven years ago on a non-stop from Honolulu—the plane had taken a sudden drop in altitude too terrifying for words. Drinks, snacks, stewardesses, and unbuckled passengers were sent flying. Even though the pilot assured us it was "just a little bit of unexpected turbulence", I'd vowed never to fly again. But here I sat, trapped, on a plane still sitting at the gate, scared witless.

My racing thoughts were interrupted by a calm voice asking if the seat next to me was taken. Without looking up, I nodded and mumbled something about my being a white-knuckle flyer.

The voice responded "I know" as baggage was being stowed in the overhead compartment. Was it really that obvious, I wondered.

As he seated himself I noticed we were both wearing pale purple shirts. How synchronistic, I thought, but said nothing, as I was still very much absorbed by my fear-of-flying mode. The next thing I knew he was prying my nails away from the armrest and gently took my hand to rest it between his. Under other circumstances I would've protested this obvious infringement of "my space"—but somehow this was different.

At first his words seemed to be coming from somewhere far away, and I could barely make them out. But it didn't take me long to tune-in to what he was telling me. He gave me a detailed rundown of what was going on in the cockpit, assured me of the safety of the plane, alluded to his innumerable trips on just this type of aircraft, explained each creak, bump, grind, and shimmy the plane made—almost before it happened. I was still in no condition to respond verbally, so I just kept nodding, at once indicating I understood what he was saying as well as encouraging him to keep talking.

He ordered a glass of Chablis for each of us. I eagerly accepted and at last could feel myself relaxing. Once I got my wits about me, I noticed my rescuer was a very attractive man. He had a mischievous twinkle in his eye, and the most sincere smile I'd ever seen. Soon we were talking a mile-a-minute about practically every subject under the Sun, and in what seemed like no time at all, the pilot was giving us our landing instructions.

I thanked the helpful stranger for his kindness, and as we parted in the terminal, shared an embrace only friends of long-standing would find comfortable.

In a moment he was gone. Only then did it occur to me that I didn't even know his name. I returned to the plane and asked the stewardess what the name of the gentleman seated next to me was. She looked at her manifest and with a puzzled expression said: "But ma'am, there was no one seated next to you. The manifest shows that seat flew empty on this flight."

A chill ran down my spine, and I smiled knowingly. It didn't really matter if I didn't know his name. I'd seen Highway To Heaven and Touched By An Angel enough times to believe the TV characters just might have real-world counterparts. And besides, who else would know the intricacies of flying better than the ANGEL seated next to me on Northwest Flight 1641?

[End quoting]

Many of you reading this newspaper have no difficulty believing this story and probably have at least a few of your own to add! But just like this lady, do we recognize what is happening only AFTER the event?

CHRIST

While Christ is perhaps not traditionally thought of as an angel, he certainly was a divine messenger by any definition and, as you will see, the following message is very appropriate to "review" within the context of this article. This next gem, although you may have read it in Bible study over the years, differs from what appears in, say, the King James version of the Bible.

The following translation of the "Sermon On The Mount" is taken from the rare and astounding book called The Talmud Of Immanuel. This is the Clear Translation in English and German, published by Wild Flower Press, copyright 1992. The address listed (can't confirm if this is still good) in the book for Wild Flower Press is: P. O. Box 230893, Tigard, OR 97224.

This represents the translation of the Aramaic script written by Judas Iscariot, the close disciple of Immanuel (Jesus), discovered in 1963 in the burial cave of Immanuel by

Eduard Albert Meier, translated into German by Isa Rashid and Eduard Albert "Billy" Meier, and translated into English by Julie H. Ziegler and B.L. Greene. (Judas Iscariot remained a loyal friend and disciple of Immanuel, and did not betray him; the actual deed of betrayal was done by Judas Iscariot, the son of a Pharisee.) Although my original intent was to only quote the first portion of this talk here, after reading it, I've decided to include it in full magnificence of the message being conveyed:

[Quoting]

1. When Immanuel saw the people following him, he went up a hill and sat down; and his disciples came to him.

2. And he taught them, saying: (quoting:)

3. Blessed are those who are rich in spirit and recognize the truth, for life is theirs.

4. Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall thus recognize truth and be comforted.

5. Blessed are the spiritually balanced, for they shall possess knowledge.

6. Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for truth and knowledge, for they shall be satisfied.

7. Blessed are those who live according to the laws of Nature, for they live according to the plan of Creation.

8. Blessed are those who have a clear conscience, for they need not fear.

9. Blessed are those who know about Creation, for they do not follow false teachings.

10. Blessed are the righteous, for Nature is subject to them.

11. Blessed are you if, on my account, and because of our teachings, men revile and persecute you and falsely speak all manner of evil against you.

12. Thus those who belittle the truth have persecuted the prophets who were before you, so rejoice and be of good cheer; life and the next life will reward you.

13. You are the salt of the Earth, and if the salt loses its flavor, with what should one salt? It is henceforth useless, except to be thrown out and stepped on by the people.

14. You are the light of the world, and consider: the city that lies on top of a mountain cannot be hidden.

15. Nor does one light a candle and place it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; thus it illuminates all those who are in the house.

16. Likewise your light should shine before the people, so that they see your good works and recognize the truth of your knowledge.

17. Do not think that I have come to abolish the law or the prophets; I have come not to abolish, but to fulfill and to reveal knowledge.

18. Truly, I say to you: Until the Heavens and the Earth vanish, neither an iota nor a dot of the law of Creation and the laws of Nature will vanish, until all has been fulfilled.

19. Whoever violates one of the smallest of the laws or commandments and teaches the people falsely, will be called the smallest; but whoever spreads the teachings truthfully will be called great and will receive the thanks of the spirit.

20. I tell you: If your righteousness does not exceed that of the Scribes and Pharisees, you will not receive the thanks of the spirit and of life.

21. You have heard that it was said to the men of old: "You should not kill; but whoever kills shall be found guilty by the courts."

22. However, I say to you: Exercise justice according to the natural law of Creation, so that the judgment is found in logic.

23. Guilty are all who do not act in self-defense or according to a prescribed judgment of the law, if they kill or engage in evil speech and actions.

24. Justice according to the natural laws of Creation alone elevates a verdict in logic.

25. Do not accommodate your adversaries, if you are in the right, and the judge will probably have to decide in your favor.

26. Truly, I say to you: You will achieve justice only when you find it yourself and can make your fellow human understand it.

27. You have heard that it was said, you should not commit adultery.

28. But I say to you: Whoever cohabits with someone other than their spouse should be delivered up to the courts, because it is unworthy of humans, contemptible, and an offense to the laws of nature.

29. If, however, your right or left eye causes annoyance, tear it out and throw it away, because it is better for you that just one of your members be destroyed than your whole body.

30. If a thought causes you annoyance, eradicate it and ban it from your brain. It is better to destroy a thought that incites annoyance than to bring the whole world of thought into an uproar.

31. It has also been said, whoever divorces his spouse should hand over a certificate of divorce.

32. However, I say to you: Whoever separates from their spouse, except in case of adultery, causes the marriage to break; whoever marries a divorced person that is guilty also commits adultery.

33. You have further heard it said to the men of old, you shall take no false oath and keep your oath to God.

34. However, I say to you that you should not swear at all; swear not by the heavens, because they are infinite and immeasurable.

35. Neither swear by the Earth, because it is impermanent; nor swear by Jerusalem, because it is an impermanent city built by the hand of man.

36. You should also not swear by your head, because you cannot change the color of a single hair.

37. Also do not swear by the memory of a person or a thing, because all are impermanent.

38. Let your speech at all times simply be: Yes, yes or no, no. Anything beyond that goes against the laws.

39. You have heard that it was said, an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth.

40. But I say to you: Exercise justice according to the natural law of Creation, so that you find the verdict in logic.

41. Offer your love wherever it is warranted, and punish wherever the law of nature demands punishment.

42. Give to them who ask of you, if they make their requests in honesty, and turn away from them who want to borrow from you in a dishonest way.

43. You have heard that it was said, you shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.

44. However, I say to you: Exercise love and understanding according to the natural law of Creation, so that in logic you find the right behavior and feeling.

45. Offer your love where it is warranted, and despise where the law of nature demands it.

46. You should be wise and learn knowledge, because you will become perfect in spirit like Creation, which conceived you.

47. You should train your spirit and your consciousness in the course of incarnations and let them become perfect, so that you become one with Creation.

[End quoting]

Comparing the above with, say, the King James Bible version is a good example of how different can be the renderings of an event. This is a reminder that another of the projects being conducted by the angelic teachers at this time of Awakening is the correcting of errors and exposing of purposeful lies—such as the elimination of all references to reincarnation in the conventional scriptures, but which is clearly the good advice of the last point made above.

In other words, these are times of great and liberating changes—both without and within—and that leads to our next excerpt. This next sharing comes from the 1994-1997 manuscript Winds Of Change by Robert Ghost Wolf and the Mountain Brotherhood:

[Quoting]

DIVINE ATTITUDE

Change must start from within. In order for you to alter that which is outside of you, you must first go within and expand your abilities within the inner world. You must go beyond the Consciousness that created the problem and become more than those circumstances. You must accept your responsibility for its creation. Take from it its lesson to you and your life's path. Leave it behind you.

If at first you do not complete all the desired changes, this is ok. Go back through the process, ask the God force within to reveal to you what you choose not to release. Perhaps there is a situation that needs addressing before you will be free to continue on the path. Remember, to the true initiate, life is never a problem. Rather, life is a never ending opportunity to develop skills and to become the expanded self.

Everything is energy—sometimes high energy, sometimes not so high energy. Even the feeling of no energy is energy. It is like you are a magical fish swimming in a vast sea of e n d l e s s energy, going around asking all the other fish "Where is the ocean?"

Well, the ocean is all around you.

The reason you can't see it is simply because you are immersed in it. Your e x i s t e n c e within this field of Sacred Energy, the God Force, is no different.

It is endless and all around you at all times.

Your ability to perceive this endless field of Energy is determined by how much effort you have spent on centering yourself. Also by the effort you expend reconnecting your awareness to the Source. This is accomplished by using your will. At first you will learn like a small child, learning a little more each time. As you mature, or begin to connect, you will pick up speed with each experience.

This life-time, this experience upon the Earth plane, is yours. You created it by choice. You are involved in relationships and interactions with other people. But the experience is yours. No one is going to die for you, only you are going to do that. No one is going to live for you, only you can have the experience. This is your evolutionary experience.

[End quoting]

Indeed these matters of which Robert Ghost Wolf speaks are the truly fundamental evolutionary "sticking points" which many from the angelic realms help us with constantly—if we but ask from the heart. And that reminds me of a personal experience I would like to share with you at this point:

THE TEST ?

by Rick Martin

The year was 1986. It was a hot summer day. A lady friend and I were driving back from a beautiful day along the Illinois River in Southern Oregon, picnicking and swimming. We were about 15 miles back in the woods from the nearest Forest Service station, all dirt road, a road that very few cars traveled in the course of an average day.

As we were enjoying the breeze through the car windows, the way the sunlight danced on the river, and the light through the trees, all of a sudden a "crazy man" came out of nowhere and hailed us to stop. At first glance he looked a lot like a 35-year-old Charles Manson, wild hair, beard, very dirty and unkept. We looked at each other for a moment, reluctantly—after all, this was a very isolated area. After a moment we stopped and asked the man what was wrong. He said his car had died and he needed help to get it started.

We followed him a short distance down a side road, into some very thick, dense brush close to the river. His "camping" spot was not visible from the road. From the appearance of his camp, he had been there for what must have been months. His very old, big clunker of an automobile was filled with "stuff". We tried to jump his car, unsuccessfully. Rather, to be more accurate, this car looked like it was dead to the world, permanently.

All of sudden I noticed his eyes. They were an extremely clear, piercing blue color. As I looked at him there was "recognition", and he saw my look of recognition and was startled by it. As if to cover himself, he immediately started speaking in a crazy mumble-jumble of words.

Thinking how else we might help this guy, we pooled what little money we had and gave it to him, along with what food we had in the car. I stood right in front of him, very close, and said: "I would suggest you pray for a mechanic to drive down this road to help you."

His eyes opened wide and grew very bright, and then he said: "So, you DO believe in God?"

My friend and I both responded, simultaneously: "Oh, yes!"

We wished him well and went on our way. I said to my friend as we were leaving: "You never know who might cross your path. For all we know, that could have been Christ himself testing us. If it was, I believe we passed."

Not being able to get the incident out of my mind, I packed up a box of food, gathered some money, and drove back to where we had seen this man. His campsite was completely empty—as if no one had ever been there. To this day it remains a mystery.

ASK YOUR ANGELS

This next lesson is excerpted from a writing by Alma Daniel, co-author of the volume called Ask Your Angels, the best-selling how-to guide to communicating with these ever-present heavenly helpers. Her book has sold over half-a-million copies and has been translated into French, Spanish, German, and Portuguese:

[Quoting]

Since Ask Your Angels was published in 1992, I've received more than 3,000 letters from readers in Canada, the United States, South America, Germany, Switzerland, Spain, Ireland, Japan, Australia, and New Zealand. Many of these readers express appreciation for confirmation of what they knew to be true but had been afraid to speak about—that the angels are with us, every one, every day. So many people say "Thank you! I knew my angel was with me, even though my family thought I was nuts."

While this represents the majority of correspondents, there is another theme that surfaces—and it troubles me. These are letters and requests from people for me to contact my angel on their behalf with questions ranging from the sublime to the ridiculous. Some folks have written to me asking that I put in a good word with their angels, to help them get what they want. One man wanted to know how the angels could help him pick the winning numbers in a lottery!

This disturbs me on two counts: first, the angels have made it very clear that there is no person who has more of an "in" with them than another. My particular mission is not to connect with other people's angels, but to teach and empower people to make their own connections. So I always encourage people to "Ask Your Angels" yourself.

We spent a great deal of time creating guidelines in our book, to show you exactly how to do this. Second, although the angels are definitely here to help us, I'd like to dispel the notion that they are here to do it for us, or that they can be used to manipulate people or events. If that is where you are coming from, I suggest you forget about the angels. You're on the wrong track.

The angels are here to encourage and inspire us, to support and assist, as we do the enormous healing that is required. But it is we who must do the work, both on a personal and planetary level. Because we are all connected, all cherished children of our beloved Creator, when any one of us heals, it affects every other one, and raises the level of understanding and Light that is available to all.

Angels are not like genies in a lamp that you can rub for luck. They love us dearly, faults and all; in fact, they don't ever focus, as we do, on our "faults". But they are not here to interfere with our free will, which is a gift from our Creator. They answer to God and have only God's will to fulfill. To do this they "serve" us, but they are not our servants.

The angels work to awaken us to our divine selves. They awaken, as well, our intuitive knowing. They re-connect us to our Higher Self nature. When we align with their energies, we move into a far gentler realm than the one which we normally inhabit. As kindness and caring develop and grow within, we become gentler with ourselves and with others around us. We begin to exemplify sacred vows—those of truthfulness and compassion.

The truth about living a spiritual life is that it is not separate from the ordinary threads and weavings of a physical life. We're being required to "walk our talk" in our everyday dealings with friends, family, co-workers, and strangers, to begin to exemplify those qualities characteristic of the angels—nurturance, protection, guidance, unconditional love, and acceptance.

These qualities are ones traditionally associated with feminine energy. It is timely to return to these ways, to honor the divine mother within each of us, men as well as women. It is only by doing this, by embracing and embodying what has been called the feminine Christ, that we are able to be moving through this time of extraordinary transformation with courage and kindness.

We are all here to teach something, and although we may not all be teachers by conscious choice or avocation, each of us contributes something through the unique pattern of our personality, and often, through the work that we choose to do. What I teach is basic: Tell the Truth, Be Here Now, Let Go, Love God, Be True, Have Fun, Show Up, Hang In There, Do the Best You Can. These are all variations on the theme. Be good to yourself. Honor the Divine within. Develop compassion. Quiet the mind. Pay attention. Leave no tracks. Be grateful. And humble.

Working with the angels can help us to be mindful of these precepts and to remember to Lighten up! Whenever I fall into the trap of taking myself and my process too seriously, my angel pops in with a few well-chosen words. Once, when I was in a workaholic binge trying to complete too many projects before leaving for a vacation, she quipped: "Functioning starts with Fun".

It helped me to bring things back into perspective, to release the stress I'd imposed on myself. On another occasion, when my ego flared, she piped up: "It's always too early for self-congratulation." It's never too early to call on the angels for comfort and support. And, best of all, it's never too late.

(Alma has been teaching people how to connect with their angels since 1985, and now trains individuals to conduct the Ask Your Angels workshops that she developed. Alma's Angelic Meditations audio-cassette, with music by Gerald Jay Markoe, is at the top of the New Age charts in the U.S. For information about her other tapes and a video cassette, you can write to her at 300 Central Park West, Suite 25C, New York, NY 10024.

We should all strive for the fluent level of communicating with our own guardian angels that Alma Daniel demonstrates above. They are always present and waiting for the call.

This next insightful article was written by Doreen Virtue, author of twenty-two books on mind-body-spirit issues. Doreen has been a guest on Oprah, CNN, Good Morning America, The View with Barbara Walters, Donnie And Marie, Rossanne, and other national programs. Arrangements are being made at this time to interview Doreen for the December issue of The SPECTRUM—assuming we are able to remain financially afloat for that presentation. For now, enjoy the following from a gifted messenger in her own right:

[Quoting]

HEARING YOUR ANGEL'S MESSAGES

From the Angels: "We aren't that difficult to hear, if you will listen for us with an open heart. Most of the time, we are closer to you than you can imagine. A whisper, a thought, is the only signal we need from you to get a conversation started. We have enormous respect for what you're going through here on planet Earth at this time. We never seek to interfere with your lives, only to bring you blessings of insights and new ways of looking at yourselves."

Not everyone "hears" angelic voices as an audible sound. Many people receive divine messages through nonverbal means such as visions, feelings, or a knowingness.

Hearing the voice of an angel is called "clairaudience" which means "clear hearing". Their voice may sound like your own or it may sound different. The voice can emanate from within your body, within your mind, or sound as if it's outside your head. When an angel warned me that my car was about to be stolen, his voice sounded as if he were talking through a paper towel tube, just outside my right ear.

An hour later, when I found myself in the middle of a car-jacking, the same angel guided my life-saving actions by speaking to me through an inner voice. While receiving the angel messages in my book Angel Therapy, I heard the words both inside and outside my mind.

You might hear a faint voice and wonder what it said. In such cases, go ahead and ask your angels to repeat their message. Say to them: "A little louder, please." The angels appreciate your feedback, as they want to deliver clear and understandable guidance.

Angelic voices are consistently loving and supportive, even when they warn us of impending dangers or wrong turns. As a psychotherapist, I was trained to believe that hearing voices was a sign of insanity. Yet, the voice of the ego is the only source of "insanity".

Ego voice messages are always destructive, abusive, and impulsive. For example, the ego may try to convince you that you'll fail. The ego also changes its mind constantly, so it will tell you to do one thing Monday, another thing Tuesday, and a completely different thing Wednesday. If you listen to the voice of the ego, your life will be chaotic and fear-filled.

Angelic voices, in contrast, patiently repeat the guidance to us day after day, until we finally follow it. You may hear your angels tell you for years that you would be a great healer or author, for example. Or your angels may repeatedly ask you to take better care of your body. You know that guidance comes from angels when it is loving, focused, not hurtful to you or your family, and consistent.

Clairaudience is just one-fourth of the ways we receive angelic assistance, however. Your angels may speak to you in pictures and visual mental images. We call this "clairvoyance" or "clear seeing." Angelic messages may come to you as single snapshot images, either in your mind or outside your mind. Or, you may see miniature scenes, as if from a movie. The images may be black-and-white or full color. Angelic visual messages can be symbolic, such as seeing a stop sign as a signal that you should take a rest, slow, or stop what you are doing.

Intuitively, you might readily understand what the visual images mean. For instance, you might see an image of a trophy and, instinctively, you know this means that success is ahead for you. If you have trouble understanding your angelic visual guidance, be sure to ask for assistance. Ask your angels to clarify their message, and continue asking for clarification until you are completely certain of their meaning.

Sometimes we shut down our angelic channels of communication because of fear. You might see an image of your future that frightens you, and you turn off your clairvoyance by shutting the third eye's eyelid.

One of my clients shut down her clairvoyance when, as a young girl, she saw a visual image of her parents divorcing in the future. Another client closed her third eye because she foresaw herself having an affair with a married co-worker, and she wanted to continue her interactions with him while wearing blinders to the truth. One of my other clients was trying to ignore a steady angelic voice within which counseled: "It's time to look for work at a different place" because she didn't trust God to fulfill her material needs during the job transition.

You might also shut off your clairvoyance if you are afraid of what you might see. As much as you want to see your angels in person, you might harbor a deep-seated fear that seeing a "ghost" would be terrifying. Your angels honor such fears, and you won't see angelic apparitions until you feel confident that such a vision would comfort, not frighten, you.

The third way we receive angelic guidance is through our emotions and physical sensations. We call this "clairsentience" or "clear feeling". Clairsentients get divine guidance through bodily sensations, such as a tightening of the jaw, fists, stomach, or sex organs. They intuitively know the specific meaning of these tightening reactions. A clairsentient feels air pressure and room temperature changes that warn of negative situations.

Each of our five senses has a corresponding Clairsentients receive a lot of guidance through their intuition, gut feelings, and hunches. Much of our intuition comes from the stomach region; the stomach flutters, relaxes, and tightens according to the angelic guidance. Instinctively, the clairsentient interprets the meaning of these gut feelings, and a wise clairsentient follows these internal directives without hesitation.

Clairsentients get angelic messages through their heart and love emotions, as well. If a thought of doing something swells your chest with warm feelings of joy, this is a directive from God and the angels. You may think "Oh this is too good to be true; I am just dreaming" but the joy that your thought has brought you is a roadmap leading you to the life you are meant to have.

We call the fourth means of angelic communication "claircognizance" or "clear knowing". Men are frequently claircognizant, and may not even realize they naturally receive detailed and accurate information from the angels. You can ask a claircognizant a question on almost any topic in the world. Within minutes, such a one will give you an accurate answer, completely supported by facts and figures. You might say: "How did you know that?" and the one will answer: "I don't know! A few minutes ago, I didn't know that information."

A claircognizant knows, without knowing how he/she knows. Consequently, they may doubt the validity of their knowingness. This is a mistake, because when divine wisdom enters our mind, it is a gift we can use to improve our life, and to serve the world.

We all have access to all four channels of communication. Usually, we have one primary means of receiving angelic guidance and one secondary or lesser channel of communication. With practice, you can become adept at receiving messages in all four ways. In the beginning of speaking to your angels, though, most people concentrate upon their natural means of communication.

Naturally visually oriented people will want to pay attention to their mental visions. If you tend to focus upon sounds, then listen for inner or outer words, voices, and auditory messages. If you tend to be a touchy-feely type, your emotions and bodily sensations are the instruments which relay divine guidance to you. And if you are intellectually inclined, or a person who constantly searches for hidden meanings in situations, then you'll want to monitor your thoughts for those heavenly moments of "knowingness" which bring you certainty in guiding your actions.

To better cement the idea of our angels' constant presence, working on our behalf, let's return to a few more personal encounters of the very helpful kind.

This next story has been excerpted from the www.wirenot.net/X/Stories/Angel/Angel%20W-Z/WhoStopTheCar.html Internet website, written by Yvonne Ezzell:

[Quoting]

WHO STOPPED THE CAR?

I had to return my brother's car to him one raining day. I asked my sister to go with me, but she refused. This made me extremely mad, so I left the house driving like a mad-woman.

I made a left turn onto a side-street and was to stop for a stop sign, but in my anger I slowed down and was trying to make the right turn. My foot was off the gas, but not on the brakes. When I tried to turn the wheel, it felt like someone had hold of it from the left. My first thought was "Who had the wheel?" The car came to a complete stop. My foot was not on anything—either the brake or the gas. From the side of my eye I saw a car zoom past, going way over the speed limit.

If I had pulled out, I would not be here today. At that same second, my car wheel loosened and I made the turn. I was not mad anymore. I still don't know who that was, but I do know they saved my life.

[End quoting]

In the mid-1990s, I, Rick Martin, had to drive to Fresno for a court hearing. I was tired on the return trip. The road I was on ran into the road which was the onramp to the freeway. What I was not aware of, at the time, was that the road was a two-lane road with no stop-signs, and people traveled on that road at high speeds on their way onto the highway.

Stopping in the left lane, ready to turn onto the freeway onramp, I just casually glanced to my right to see if there was any oncoming traffic. I had actually made the turn by the time I realized that not only was there oncoming traffic, but a car was about to hit me!

Someone grabbed my wheel and forcibly turned it to the left at that instant in time. I was now safely on the shoulder of the road. Also, at that same instant, the car behind me over-corrected to the right, hit a pole going 40-50 miles an hour and rolled over, leaving a semi-conscious, bloodied woman inside the vehicle.

I had a cellular phone, so the sheriff and an ambulance were there in record time. The woman was taken away on a stretcher in the ambulance—alive, but seriously injured.

The next morning in meditation I was told, in very clear language within my mind: "We interceded yesterday, and you will never know how close you came."

No one has to convince me about angels. I've had too many experiences to confirm their existence!

This next provocative example was written by Sheila Buchanan, and is extracted from the <http://angels-online.com/indexheroes.html> Internet website:

[Quoting]

THE FORK IN THE ROAD

I have been traveling the same road to school and work for the past 2 years. At one point in the road it forks; I always take the left fork.

One morning, for some reason, I took the right fork without even realizing it. I was almost halfway up the road before I had to ask myself why I took this way; I never had before. After traveling a few more miles, I saw an elderly gentleman on the side of the road walking toward the small town ahead. He was in his early to mid eighties. I never even thought twice before I stopped to offer him a ride.

Like I said, I travel a lot on roads where, at any time, an animal might cross in front of you, so I was surprised when this gentleman appeared out of nowhere, in the ditch, and was walking toward the road. He got into my car. (I'm traveling alone and I know it's not the smartest thing to do.)

I was never nervous or even the least worried about him. I introduced myself and stuck my hand out to shake his. He only said "my name is Dan" and, when he shook my hand, he only shook the fingers; our palms never touched.

The only way I can describe him is as an old rancher. His hands were like leather, all tan and rough to look at, but soft to touch. He looked as if he had lived a real hard life. His clothes were old and worn, but they were clean.

He did not say much, just that he was looking for somewhere to get some breakfast. I told him that there was a small town right up ahead and he could get something there.

When we reached the town, I stopped at the stop sign that is right beside the restaurant and told him that he could get something there or, if that was not what he wanted, I pointed out the other two small stores in the town.

I then said good-bye and made my turn to go on to work. When I looked back to see if he was okay, he was not there.

There is no way, walking as slow as he did, that he had time to get inside the restaurant. I went back that afternoon to see if anyone had seen him, but no one knew who I was talking about.

I remember asking God, before I picked him up, once I realized I had taken the wrong road: "Why did I come this way; I never do?" After I let the gentleman out, I said: "God, I know why you sent me this way now." I'm not sure if he was an angel or the Lord Jesus himself, but I do know that I have never felt better about myself than I did that day.

[End quoting]

Often it is through these kinds of very personal encounters that we learn the greatest lessons about life. So was that a teacher-angel along the road, or simply an old man in need? Did he save her from a possible calamity, had she taken the other fork in the road, her usual route to work? Regardless, the good feeling deep within her being is the most important clue as to the true nature of the incident.

It is time to return to the Larger Picture again, and this time place that in the context of an even Larger Picture of growth and expansion which is being assisted from the angelic realms. This next item in the mosaic is a channeled message from the 1961 book Secret Of The Andes by "Brother Philip", republished in 1976 by David Singer:

[Quoting]

ARCHANGEL MICHAEL

For a moment, if you will, go back with me to a remote age of antiquity, far greater than we could comprehend in terms of Earth years, and picture in your mind a great spiraling mass of violet-blue flame rising upward leading man on to ever-expanding grandeur in the Universe of our Father.

Remember what Jesus has said: "I know of no other Great Spirit beyond the Father. He is the Ancient of Days. I know, beloved ones, of no other beyond Him, yet I know that there are others beyond Him. I believe they exist."

What is this hierarchy of Gods, of Creators, in the Omniverse? I wish to emphasize this so that you may understand the terminology. It is true, as some of you have suggested, God the Father is the Father that Jesus speaks of. He is a Creator-God, the Creator-God of all ancient mythology and legend. He is the God—God the Father—Thought Incarnate on the Star Sun Sirius. But there are Gods beyond Him of magnificence beyond comprehension.

There are worlds in space where man is nothing but ever-changing color and hue, worlds of fantastic iridescence and glowing beauty, where one form mingles with the other, always one, always changing. There are worlds where man becomes only a tone as a tinkling bell, where life is only a kaleidoscope of Nature, worlds that we cannot even begin to comprehend, that would make God the Father—Thought Incarnate on Sirius—appear as a grain of sand on a lonely beach.

Yet above all of this in the Omniverse itself is the ALL, the PERFECT ONE, the INFINITE FATHER, the ALL CREATOR, the SELF-CREATED ONE, and we call HIM in our Order simply EVERNESS.

What is behind this plan now unfolding upon the Earth? There is a greater plan beyond—even beyond the migration from this Solar System, as we gave you before, and the answer to that is that we are being called from out of the depths of night in space to serve those who cry out to us.

What is the purpose of the schoolroom of Earth? What means all the tears, sorrow, death, misery, anguish? For personal development, yes, but what else? What is the grander plan? Only that a world will become a cinder through an atomic war? No! The lesson to be learned is that Spirit may come to know Itself, that man might be freed from the blight of the great adultery.

One day on your Earth shall come a blinding flash of Light. All the old shall pass away, burned as chaff on the altar of truth. Only the “gems” will remain, the “gems” that can withstand the Eternal Flame.

The Earth is a school for gods. Man—the small Harvest of man upon the Earth—man who has lost the vestiges of the human—there are those on Earth today. It is written, not that the Harvest is great; or is it? Yes, it is written thus: and the laborers few. The Harvest is great according to the laborers, but from the total of the Earth’s population, the Harvest is small.

It has taken millions of years since man has been upon the Earth to bring about this one small concentrated drop of life to evolve in the crucible of time.

The Earth is a classroom for godhood—not Mars, nor Venus, nor Jupiter, nor magnificent Saturn, nor spiritual Neptune, Pluto, nor Mercury, nor even the Sun and its many bodies. The lotus rises from the slime of Earth. And now there is a single bloom. The Father looks down from blue of sky and gold of Sun and sees a single pure lotus opening from the slime, and shortly He reaches down to pluck it and to take it home again.

Therefore you and your fellow men everywhere are being conditioned for the Great Transmutation. And then we march on to other universes and worlds that call for our help.

When man achieves his graduation day and wins his godhood, the work begins. Over countless millions of years man has risen from animal to become angel again! Think of the lives and the intrigues, the battles, and the loves that have gone to produce one drop of the eternal elixir!

Let us lose ourselves in this ever expanding army, a living thing that shall, one great dawn, shine forth as a golden glow over all the Earth. Those who run to the rocks will find no shelter. No bomb-proof shelter will give adequate safety. No cavern is deep enough, no mountaintop high enough, for this is the day of the Great Transmutation, when all elements shall be changed. Not only are you being prepared for other atmospheres, but you are now changing dimensions. You are leaving the world, the kingdom of the third dimension. You are entering the dimension of understanding. Accept that which the Father has for you.

The physical, as it is developed, is only to serve for a brief time. Work as one, for even though you know it not, you stand at this moment before the Throne of God the Father.

Someday we shall together look back upon our Solar System and see it explode like a star in the farthest corner of the Father’s realm, because when it has served its purpose it disintegrates in thought.

In truth we are an army. There are corners of the Omniverse where there is no Light, only darkness, and even an army can only appear as a small pinpoint of candlelight. But remember the great truth that no matter how vast the darkness, no matter how vast the night, one small candle flame holds back that great darkness. In its insignificance it is invincible because it is Light.

Then, as a tiny candle flame, we shall burst forth into an area that has never before known Light and shall bring, even as the workers brought to ancient Egypt, the Light, through Akhenaton. The people had never seen it before. Some it blinded, for it was too bright. They did not, as today, understand because of its blinding Light. It was a thing to be shunned, to fear. And many fell back into the comfort of darkness.

Man is afraid of dark? We say, no; this is not true! Man is afraid of Light. He wishes once again to be in the darkness of the womb where there is no light, for there alone he feels safety, warmth, and life. It takes courage to go into the Light—not the dark.

[End quoting]

[I, Rick Martin, would like to take a moment here to honor Sister Thedra for her years of service to God as a publisher and a “receiver”. She informed me privately, in the mid-1980s, that this book was, in fact, her work, which had been taken from her in South America and published by the person called Brother Philip “out of proper historical sequence”. This is not meant to be a libelous statement; I am merely recounting what was told to me by a once lucid channel, prior to her physical death.]

So now we have a better picture of the Larger Picture’s Larger Picture in which man is progressing toward “godhood”. Only one step in that progression is schoolroom Earth, and yet that step is a most important one. With that thought in mind, let us again return to The Talmud Of Immanuel for a most profound lesson that is not among the narratives offered in the standard biblical accounts:

[Quoting]

JMMANUEL’S FAREWELL

1. They went to the mountain to which Immanuel had directed them.

2. When they had gathered there, he said to them, quoting: Behold, I will talk to you one last time; then I will leave and never return.

3. My path leads me to India where many of this human race also dwell, because they left this land to live there.

4. My mission leads me to them and to the human race that was born there.

5. My path there will be long, because I have yet to bring my old teachings, newly presented, to many countries, likewise on the shores of the great black waters to the north of here.

6. Before I leave you, I will give you my last instruction of the teaching as follows:

7. If people live according to the Laws of Creation, they live correctly in truth, but here is the final goal:

8. Everything human in people has to die, but everything creative in them has to rise and embrace Creation.

9. Consider the universe as the place where Creation lives in infinity.

10. Everything that people possess has its origin in Creation; therefore it belongs to Creation.

11. People shall change their entire spiritual lives and perfect them, so that they will become one with Creation.

12. Whatever people do, they shall do it with the awareness of the presence of the Creation.

13. But they shall never try to force truth onto another because it would only be half its worth.

14. First, people shall watch their own progress in consciousness and spirit so as to produce creative harmony within themselves.

15. No greater darkness rules in people than ignorance and lack of wisdom.

16. The victory of humanity in its greatness consists of destroying and removing each power opposing the creative spirit, so that the creative spirit may win.

17. People should develop their power to judge good and evil and to understand correctly all things, so that they may be wise and fair and follow the laws.

18. It is necessary to understand what is real and unreal, what is valuable and not valuable, what is of Creation and not of Creation.

19. People have to become a universal oneness, so that they become one with Creation.

20. Make your lives equal to the laws of Nature, then you will live according to the laws of Creation.

21. No matter how great the suffering of people, the power of Creation in them to conquer all that is evil is immeasurably greater.

22. If people live only in their consciousness as humans, they are inaccessibly far from their spirits, from Creation, and hence its laws.

23. The greater people's dedication is to the Laws of Creation, the deeper shall be the peace within themselves.

24. People's happiness consists in seeking and finding the truth, so that they may gather knowledge and wisdom and think and act in accord with Creation.

25. Only through the conditions of human life can they develop and use their creative powers in consciousness and spirit.

26. People obtain experience in the use of their powers and capabilities only by trying daily to unfold them.

27. So long as people do not become one with Creation, they will never be able to rise above death and near-death, since fear of the unknown is in them; and only when they can fully recognize the perfection and unity of Creation can they slowly gain eminence.

28. Instead of being guided by instincts and impulses, people should live according to knowledge and wisdom so that they may live justly according to the laws and commandments.

29. People shall not lose their way in the forest of limitations, but shall expand their consciousness and seek and find knowledge, logic and truth, and from it learn wisdom.

30. So that they may come closer to their lives' goal and recognize the creative principle in all things.

31. Thousands of Lights will guide them on their paths, if they watch and follow them.

32. People will attain all their knowledge and wisdom, if they seriously strive for perfection.

33. The laws serve all those who are willing to seek truth in unlimited measure and to learn wisdom from it—

34. inasmuch as they master within themselves all possible dimensions, develop their spiritual powers higher and higher, and in so doing perfect themselves.

35. People should try not to dwell upon their physical misery, but upon the reality of the spirit and the existence of Creation.

36. There is a constant restlessness in people, because they have a premonition that Creation is their fate and destination.

37. They may be great, wise, and good, yet that is not sufficient, because they can always become greater, wiser, and better.

38. There may not be any limits to love, peace, and joy, because the present has to be constantly exceeded.

39. Truly, I say to you: A love that is unlimited, lasting, and infallible is without conditions and pure and will burn in its fire all that is unclean and evil,

40. for such a love is the love of Creation, and hence its laws, for which humanity has been predestined since the beginning of time.

41. Since this is the final goal of humanity, people must take care that this must and shall be so, for this is their destiny.

42. But as yet people do not understand the wisdom of this teaching, so it is being adulterated everywhere on Earth.

43. In their ignorance people falsify it in various ways and forms so that it becomes diffused and unintelligible.

44. But in two thousand years it will be taught anew and unfalsified, when people have become reasonable and knowledgeable, and a new age foretells great upheavals.

45. It can be read in the stars that the people of the new era will be great revolutionaries. Therefore, a few special selected people, the new proclaimers of my teaching, will preach it unfalsified and with great courage.

46. But you, go and prepare the way for my teaching and make all peoples its disciples.

47. However, beware of false teachings, which you might allow to arise because of your ignorance, since some of you are inclined in that way.

48. Teach them to follow everything that I have commanded you, so that you do not falsify my teaching.

49. After he talked to them that way, a thundering came from the sky, and a great light descended.

50. The light landed on the ground not far from them, and it had a metallic glitter in the sunshine.

51. Immanuel no longer spoke, but went away to the metallic light and entered into it.

52. Then a haze arose all around it. Once again, a thundering occurred and the light ascended back into the sky.

53. And the disciples secretly returned to Jerusalem and announced to like-minded people what had happened.

[End quoting]

Two points to call to your attention from the above are: first, of course, verse 44; we are surely in the time referred to therein. And then, verse 31 alludes to the angelic helpers who are here to assist us with this all-important step in our celestial growth.

Before moving on to the next two important writings, let's take just a moment to remember who Sananda and Sanat Kumara are. In WISDOM OF THE RAYS: The Masters Teach, Vol. 1, we read:

[Quoting]

From the One White Light that is Aton (God), there is first the division of that complete energy into the two Primary Rays of Creation. These are the Golden Ray and the Silver Ray, which are sometimes likened, respectively, to the energies of "the heart" and "the head".

The Golden Ray is often equated with the Christed energy, which is most familiarly manifest in that Master Teacher we know as Esu "Jesus" Immanuel Sananda.

The Silver Ray is known as Sanat Kumara, reverently known to many Native Americans as Grandfather, or Tonkashila (in the language of the Lakota).

Your Destiny Is Growing Toward The Infinite

Esu “Jesus” Sananda
June 7, 1997

Good morning, my scribe. Thank you for sitting this day. There is great desire coming forth from many for understanding of who they are and why they have chosen this path at this time. I am Esu Immanuel “Jesus” Sananda come in the Radiant golden-white Light of Creator Source.

It has all been written prior and you ones would be wise to review your past lessons (our discourses on these various subjects). There are many new readers and participants awakening at this time and many who simply need a gentle reminder of these lessons.

Let us begin with WHO you are. You, the non-physical YOU, are an infinite thought projection of the One who created you (God!). You are the product of His desire. You are, in effect, Desire manifest in uniqueness of purpose.

In the creating of YOU, you were given, in balance, all that you need in perfect proportions so that you could fulfill the purpose of your being. This is to say that you were each given part of Creator’s Light Essence in perfect proportions that will allow for your own uniqueness to manifest. No two were given the exact same proportions of the various aspects of Creator’s Infinite Spectral Range.

This is NOT to say that some are better than others. It is simply stating that all are unique in purpose and yet come from One Source.

God is infinite creativity. You are each a product of His creativity manifest in the form of Light Essence. Please keep in mind that we are still referring to the INFINITE you, NOT the physical body that many erroneously perceive as being the entity of themselves. You each are electromagnetic (LIGHT) thought projections of Creator and you carry His “genetic” signature within your being. This is to say that you are created in His image—LIGHT! YOU ARE GOD MANIFEST!

You carry within you ALL of the infinite creative potential of the One who created you. This leads us to the subject of WHY you are there.

You each wish to explore the various aspects of your being and test your own uniqueness in your own unique way. One major aspect of Creator’s desire is to expand and grow. You are part of His desire to do so, and when you grow individually, He is growing alongside of you.

As a “genetic” subset of The One Whole, you must first come into understanding of the impact of that which you are capable of manifesting. You have INFINITE potential within. Potential is the same for each—infinite!

Each individual is at a different level of understanding of HOW to responsibly direct and control this infinite potential. There have been structured various schoolrooms so that ones can come into detailed understanding of the various aspects of harnessing and controlling this infinite creative potential.

The physical (third dimension) is but one, small, yet important, classroom or laboratory in which to explore. You will find yourselves surrounded by ones facing similar challenges upon any one level of experiencing.

Each is efforting to understand, and thus unlock, the doors of the mind that will lead to ever greater and greater understanding and ability to utilize this INFINITE potential. Each will do so in a unique manner and approach according to who they are and the purpose that God has projected forth into their being. No two will have the exact same path in reaching the answers that unlock this potential, and in the searching comes the creativity of experience.

Now I wish to speak about a certain subset of all those experiencing here on Earth-Shan at this time of the Great Transition. And here I mean those who we of the Hosts refer to as Ground Crew.

Most of you who are Ground Crew have chosen to come into the physical to explore during a time of great shift in planetary awareness. This shift will present unique opportunities for you each to experience in conditions most favorable to forward growth and realizations that will help you to unlock doors that were closed and bolted by YOU, out of fear and/or overwhelm, long ago.

This does not mean that you will somehow grow and expand by default. It simply means that the opportunity is there and that you have all the tools you will need to RECOGNIZE and OVERCOME your current limitations.

Many of you have left behind talents and abilities so that you would have a “real” challenge, and so that you would not be easily distracted by the attention that your talents would bring. This is to say that many of you are experiencing without the benefit of your whole self so that you will “fit in” and so that you would be more focused on your personal growth in very specific areas.

If that were not enough, you have also chosen to take on the responsibility of assisting your younger brothers through a turbulent time—as they are, for the most part, resistant to change. You are, in effect, part of the team that is fulfilling God’s promise to send forth His Hosts and to spread The Word to any and all who will hear and hopefully listen.

Many of our Ground Crew are under severe attack at this time. Many are dropping out and not keeping up with the messages that will educate them about how to survive the upcoming Planetary Transition. Many are going through a cleansing period that will cause them to confront the very demons which caused them to stumble in the past. These are indeed trying, yet quite valuable, opportunities to grow past the fears and move forward into understanding and knowing.

Be thankful for ALL of your challenges, for even the smallest of annoyances will provide you with insights about the self-imposed limitations that you have placed upon yourselves. Take time to look at and analyze even these smallest of annoyances, for when you truly understand what is causing the annoyance within you, you will no longer manifest the need for the annoyance and it will be gone from your experience. This is not to say that ALL annoyances and challenges will be gone. It is to say that great value and insights may be gleaned from understanding even the smallest of bothers.

You shall be finding that the challenges you experience from here on out will continue to grow, and you will have to keep up with the ever intensifying pressures of survival—both mentally and physically. If you find yourself in an overwhelmed state, then I, Sananda, suggest that you call upon The Light for balance and guidance.

For some of you, the challenge of focusing a thought is quite difficult, and many feel as though they are simply not connecting with the inner Light Source.

I will here offer a suggestion that will help you to focus upon The Light. This is NOT in any way a necessary thing to do, but it can be quite helpful: Light a white candle. White because it symbolizes purity. The flame represents energy and it produces a natural white light—and it will dance around with a life of its own.

See the flame and know that, with each flicker, the darkness is expelled from your space. Know that all you have to do is look at the light from the candle, and it will reaffirm your Light shielding and support your mental intention that the darkness be gone from your space. This is but a helpful suggestion to any who feel that they are having difficulty clearing, or keeping cleared, their space.

Allow for the challenges of this life’s experiences to present themselves to you. Know that you need each in order to fulfill your goals and manifest the true joy that comes from inner personal growth.

Remember, please: YOU are the Lightworkers who are manifesting God’s promise to the world—even if “all” you do at the present moment is quietly read that which is offered.

There shall come a time in this life experience when you will be inspired to offer that which will quell the confusion of your neighbors when their world and reality are being shattered.

Right now, persistence and patience are the keys to success because “sequence of events” (not the ticking of a clock) dictates progression and unfoldment of this Planetary Transition event. For many, that which is about to manifest in your physical experience will indeed SEEM to come upon them “as a thief in the night”, for these ones continue to sleep in their state of ignorance and illusion.

I am Esu Immanuel Sananda, One with Creator Source, come as promised. In Light and in Love, blessings to you all. Salu!

Clearly we are in a time of great challenges wherein we must not only recognize the help available from the angelic realms, but remember to ask for that help so that we, in turn, can help others who may be overwhelmed by unfolding events. There is a subtle shift in perspective here which causes us to sense the responsibility of our part in the “bucket brigade”—that we, in turn, are being called upon to act as “angels” toward those who may not be as far along the growth path.

In the Larger Picture, a “continuum of help” exists—as each more experienced level helps the less experienced level. This idea is further expanded upon in the next message, which also comes from WISDOM OF THE RAYS: The Masters Teach, Vol. II:

Time To Grow Into The Cosmic Brotherhood

Sanat Kumara
May 23, 1998

Good afternoon, my scribe. It is I, Sanat Kumara, come in the Light frequency of the Silver Ray of Creation. You know me well. Many there in the physical, especially among your Native American peoples, associate me with the label “Grandfather”. Again, as stated many times prior, a label is for you in the physical, so that you can have a mental association with which to relate. You will, one day, begin to recognize ones more by their unique energy pattern than by anything else.

I am asked to speak at this time about your position as a planet and a species in relationship to your universal brothers. Your planet Earth-Shan is but one of billions of inhabited planets with sentient life. [Editor's note: Several years ago Commander Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn said there were approximately 178 billion inhabited planets just in the Milky Way galaxy.] Your species has grown to a point of spiritual and intellectual (a subset of the spiritual aspect) competence wherein you will be in need of conscious awareness of your place in the universe and the responsibility of maintaining and holding that place.

This is to say that your world is fast approaching a point of conscious awakening to a Greater Reality and a Greater Truth. Your elder brothers from elsewhere in the cosmos have come to assist you, both in your growth as a species, and as co-creators within the laws of Creator Source.

This is a most unique time in your planet's evolution in which to be experiencing! There will be MASSIVE change as ones will be caused to confront the inner lies and misperceptions that they have held onto for so long.

There will be, at first, great confusion among the masses. They will, for the most part, be caught off-guard, and thus be psychologically unprepared for the implications associated with this awakening.

This is where you who are of Ground Crew will be called upon to assist those who will be desperately seeking to understand. You will have to deal with great emotional anxiety. This anxiety will have an enormous impact on ALL levels of your planetary experience.

Eventually, as the masses come to accept the greater reality of their true place in the universe, the confusion will give way to a greater peace than your world has ever known. As your species is ready, your world will be gradually brought “up to speed” with respect to other universal intergalactic societies. This will be a very deliberate and calculated rate which is determined by the ability of your species to first comprehend the true functioning of space beyond the limits of your solar system, and then adapt to the universal laws that govern same.

This is as much a matter of UN-learning many present lies as it is a matter of learning new truths. I speak here not only of scientific progress, for great beings in ALL areas of understanding have frequently been gifted (sent) to your planet—only to be “removed” by those who would maintain control over you through deception.

Your learned brothers from elsewhere are well equipped to handle the planetary transformation and integration that is rapidly picking up speed. They will be giving much more guidance on how best to overcome the many fears and superstitious beliefs that the masses now hold onto as truth, which must be confronted and cleansed away.

Fundamentally this situation is no different than when you ones volunteer to participate in, say, the Peace Corps mission to assist a primitive, usually isolated, group of people in some remote corner of your own planet. Many fears and superstitions must be confronted and replaced with truth—whether about basic health and body hygiene or how your airplane and radio work.

You of Ground Crew will need these very lessons so that ones will recognize that this awakening has been coming for some time, and that there is truly nothing to fear and only greater understanding and growth to be gained.

These will be challenging times for you ones to face! You will witness many stories that will try to convince you-the-people that the “alien invaders” mean to do you harm. These stories will only serve to expose the true criminals for who they are. Mainstream religious leaders and politicians will be the greatest offenders and will effort greatly to hold onto their control over you-the-masses.

As the Time of Truth (in terms of sequential events) draws ever nearer, there will be greater and greater efforts made to persuade the masses that these so-called “invaders” mean to destroy you-the-people of the Earth. Some of the events planned by your “elite” controllers will appear so real in presentation, due to their technological sophistication (by public knowledge standards), that many will fall victim to the lies engineered by such vivid stagings.

There are likely to be MILLIONS of people sacrificed by your “united one-world government” in order to convince those remaining that the deception is the truth. There will be a call to defend your planet from these “evil invaders”.

At the same time, however, there will be overwhelming evidence which will show that these higher-evolved beings mean you NO HARM. For instance, ones will be rescued from annihilation (as disasters from both natural and man-made sources become more violent and widespread) and ones will testify to the facts of what happened.

Also, ones among your “elite” scientific communities will finally step forward and testify to the fact that great assistance has been given by your elder brothers from elsewhere in the cosmos, over the past 50+ years, in shutting down secret experiments that, due to ignorance, got out of control and would have otherwise destroyed your planet.

Moreover, the electronic “mind-numbing” devices will be deactivated and ones will begin to come out of the “fog” of mental manipulation. From this will come a clearer ability to perceive the reality of your situation.

There will be great speakers and community leaders stepping forward to speak out and quell the fears of the masses. There will be great need for ones to vent their confusions and confront the fact that they had bought into great lies without much (if any) questioning. Ones will be seeking to understand what is really real and what is truly their place in the “grander” scheme of life. The barbaric, fear-based religions will fall, as ones realize that they have been manipulated and “sold” lies in order to insure their obedience.

Truth will be know in all aspects of social, scientific, and spiritual arenas of concern. The Truth will be your path to liberation—both as an individual and as a planetary society.

You will find that your elder brothers believe very much in the existence of God and, furthermore, that they FULLY integrate spiritual ethics into ALL of their scientific and social research and subsequent developments. This results in a much more perfectly balanced and responsible societal structure than you on Earth presently experience—or can even imagine at this point in time.

Your world will eventually realize that these more advanced ones have eradicated the primal ego concerns to hoard knowledge (power, control, etc.) and have thus achieved true abundance and absolute knowledge. The Law of Giving is a way of life for these ones. Sharing their gifts only helps them to explore and experience more of the infinite variations of Life, and thus more fully appreciate the perfection of both Creator and The Creation.

These are truly wondrous times in which to be alive! But perhaps, more importantly, these are wondrous times in which to survive.

We of the Hosts have been sent to help prepare you ones who will hear the call so that you can best prepare selves both mentally and physically for the chaos that is coming. This is to say that, for instance, if you are still living in areas we have warned are quite unsafe, and you insist upon your way, we shall honor your choice.

But, be aware that if you transition out of the physical, you will have to watch as a spectator instead of as a player. We only can offer our advice and reasoning; you must choose to accept or reject, as you will.

Our hope is that you will learn to trust your own inner Guidance, and thus create the conditions for your own survival and subsequent growth. We are here to assist you in maximizing your growth potential. You can help us to help YOU by efforting to recognize your own inner Connection and Potential. This has been THE important theme of so many of our lessons thus far.

You live in perhaps the most unique time that your planet will ever experience—COMING OUT OF IGNORANCE (DARKNESS) AND INTO KNOWLEDGE (LIGHT). Would it not be wise to take full advantage of this exquisite learning environment?!

I am Sanat Kumara, an elder (more learned) aspect of Creator’s infinite potential. I am what you are and will become. I am your future and

I have walked the path that you are now on. Go within and find these finer aspects of YOUR being, and you will recognize the Truth I speak.

In the Light of Creator Source, ADONAI.

[End quoting]

The entirety of the Great Transformation under way is important to understand in order to really appreciate what is behind so many of the angelic interactions with this world. This is a coordinated effort of tremendous magnitude and even greater love and, as Grandfather sums it up so well above: “We are here to assist you in maximizing your growth potential.” After all, as any one is helped in growth, so grows all of Creation.

CLOSING REMARKS

It doesn’t take a genius to see that this world is a precious creation of God, and we are in-progress representatives of that perfection.

Yes, there is evil in the world. Yes, darkness does exist. But so, too, there is Light in the world; so, too, there is Goodness.

Our angels serve as Messengers, as Guides, as Protectors—all in service to Creator and the Creation. And as we move higher in frequency during our planetary transition upward through the dimensional octaves, so too we come closer to God, and closer to the conscious awareness of the presence of our angelic helpers. Let us pause and give thanks for their (mostly unrecognized) help and love that is so freely offered.

As well, let us take a few moments to recognize and appreciate God’s Hosts, who come bearing words of hope, and love, and promise.

It is easy to be skeptical. It is even easier to be angry these days, with such turmoil and rude behavior the norm on the evening news. It is far more difficult to be of good cheer and filled with gratitude at the opportunity to be of service for the betterment of mankind during this challenging time in our planet’s history.

“Random acts of kindness” should be the norm, not the exception. “Paying it forward” should be an idea who’s time has come, not just a Hollywood concept.

We are dealt lessons and forced to make decisions based upon challenging choices, choices which DO determine the future outcome of this “work in progress”. With that in mind, lend a hand, get to work, do a good deed, give praise, be grateful, and most of all, be kind to one another (after all, that IS the golden rule)—for in the end, we are all in this thing together.

And let us remember to call upon the angelic realms for the help that is constantly and lovingly available along the road—if we just ask—for, indeed, the call always compels the answer.

Coca-Cola/CIA/Tribune Drama

In Federal Chicago Courts

Editor's note: Our Native American brothers and sisters have long been teaching us that "all is connected to all" in terms of our place in the universe. But it's a big shift in attention between comprehending vast spiritual matters of our overall destiny, and dealing with the in-your-face darkness running rampant upon this planet at this time.

Sherman Skolnick has his own very practical way of extending the "all is connected" theme to illustrate the more sordid matters of our modern world. The following is a good example of just such connectedness between matters that are both large and small on the world stage. The important issue to keep in mind as you digest the specifics of the following outlay is its extrapolation to the general—that is, what he describes here for this specific case happens everywhere, all the time these days. And therein lies the most powerful teaching value of this narrative.

PART ONE BACKGROUND AND PLAYERS

This series is going to deal with the following:

- * Cocaine and Coca-Cola;
- * Coca-Cola and the espionage/mafia cartel;
- * Coca-Cola's reputed spy apparatus inside their enemy's camp in an important unpublicized blockbuster court case against the soda pop monster;
- * Malignant, if not corrupt influence on the courts;
- * Coca-Cola as "Big Brother" and the Project Echelon worldwide spy machine.

From the beginning, Coca-Cola always had a trace of cocaine. Early in the 20th Century it became part of a now forgotten prosecution of the soda-bubble-water drink.

Over the years, doctors treating stomach ailments quietly used a mixture containing Coca-Cola syrup base. Of course, NOT used by doctors, who knew the score, was the base for Pepsi-Cola, Royal Crown Cola, or for that matter, any of the other fizz drinks. Savvy sorts, when they ran short of Drano, knew to pour Coca-Cola down their home plumbing. The acids in Coke cleared the plumbing almost as good as the high-priced hardware store stuff.

Nutritionists raised their eyebrows. What does Coca-Cola do to the human plumbing?

Coke advertised with scenes of sports stars, speed-boat enthusiasts, and such to give the impression that Coke adds to a vibrant, healthy life. Yet Coke rightfully cannot make any nutrition claims. At least that is what their critics swear by and swear at.

Hey, how come Drano and other pipe-uncloggers do not also advertise with speed boat pictures, sports stars, and such?

Some years ago, I interviewed, on tape, a top official of the firm that makes the secret Coca-Cola base. That is Stepan Chemical, headquartered in the north suburb of Chicago, Northfield, and with plants elsewhere.

They are the largest importer in the western world of coca leaves, used for Coke's base. A by-product, as admitted by the Stepan boss, is cocaine—sold by them to the pharmaceutical industry.

Does any of it also slip by as contraband?

In the 1970s, some alternative journalists began heckling cocaine-linked Stepan Chemical. He said he was aware of the criticism of Stepan regarding cocaine. He could not go into it too far, he said, because of reasons of "national security".

Or did he really mean "Stepan security"?

The bosses of Stepan have always been close to the Daley family that, since the mid-1950s with just a short hiatus, runs Chicago's city hall machine.

Early on in their history, the Coca-Cola Company assisted the U.S. in espionage. When the company set up bottling plants and distribution facilities in a new country, sent in were spy operatives. The place to hang their hat was the offices and plants, worldwide, of the much ballyhooed drink. The cocaine trace made it addictive. So did the sugar content, according to some nutritionists.

With the U.S. Senate subcommittee hearings on Iran-Contra late in the 1980s, the CIA/Coca-Cola link was dealt with. In Nicaragua, for example, those with CIA, when the Senate subcommittee asked, where with local offices of the Coca-Cola Company. By the end of the 20th Century, Coke bought about a billion dollars a year in advertisements in the monopoly press—even more when you add up their so-called "independent" subsidiaries.

Coke reportedly uses worldwide, mafia-type strong-arms to assure distribution and wreck competitors—such as making soda pop competitors' refrigerator units in stores disappear overnight. In some places, it is the traditional Sicilian and Italian mafia. In other places, it is former Soviet Secret Police agents, the KGB, like in the U.S. and current Russia, called the mafiya. Elsewhere used, reportedly, are the numerous Japanese underworld, the Yakuza.

Feeding on lush revenues from Coke ads, the press whores are not about to run news items or documentaries pointing out the reportedly close link between the Coca-Cola Company, covert operations of the American CIA, and the criminal cartel.

A key player, reportedly combining covert operations and the soda pop, was Roberto Goizueta. A Cuban, he started with the firm at their Havana offices in 1954. From 1980 to about the time of his death in 1997, Goizueta was at the helm of the spy-pop witches brew, operating in most every place on the globe. Through stock options he became a billionaire.

Goizueta's father was a Cuban sugar plantation dictator. Cuba was the major source of cane sugar used in the cola drink.

Because of the ferment for change, needed was a new front-man in Cuba. Batista, and the mafia, and the wealthy criminal families sucking the sugar-blood out of Cuba, had overplayed their hand. So the American CIA, with the help of their reputed Atlanta-based adjunct, the Coca-Cola Company, installed their darling, Fidel Castro, a popular hero.

When, like Frankenstein's monster, he turned against his creators, they plotted to overthrow Castro and assassinate him. It was 1961—and it was called the "Bay of Pigs" operation.

The Coca-Cola Company and other old-time imperial firms having an entrenched interest to have Cuba as a puppet colony, participated with CIA. Aiding them was Claire Boothe Luce, wife of the boss of the Time-Life Magazine empire.

With the American CIA actually since 1959, through his espionage front, Zapata Petroleum, was George Herbert Walker Bush. He aided, as well, the aborted mission. One of

Out of official government office was Richard Milhous Nixon. In 1961, he was the overlord for the planned invasion.

Blamed for the aborted invasion planned actually by President Eisenhower, President John F. Kennedy said, as a punishment, he would scatter the CIA to the wind. CIA boss Allen Dulles, sacked by JFK, called him a "traitor". Some say the JFK threats against CIA led to the plot to assassinate him.

Some would simplify this story by pointing to Coke trying to change over greatly to a diet cola, as a way of breaking loose of filling the void once supplied by Cuban cane sugar, against which there was a U.S. embargo. By the end of the 20th Century, the major player in supplying the chemical sweeteners for non-Diet Coke, was Archer-Daniels-Midland. At the time of Watergate, the head of ADM was to have been prosecuted for secret participation in Nixon's covert operations slush fund. Dwayne Andreas was too useful to the American CIA for them to allow him to be jailed. Like the Coca-Cola Company in the past, by 1999 ADM had an interest in putting their claws on Cuba.

Through foreign subsidiaries, ADM had big investments in operating food refineries in Cuba to exploit their agriculture abundance. ADM was the principal player for the faked propaganda bombardment and orchestrated event to open up Cuba and drop the U.S. embargo. It was called the Elian Gonzalez affair.

Only one lesser-known publication dared spell out the ADM-Cuba-Elian Gonzalez link. In the spring of 2000, under a headline "How Did ADM Pull This Off?", the Massachusetts News started their blockbuster item with "What is Archer-Daniels-Midland and why does it want to build another food refinery in Cuba? Where does it get its power?" The article went on to lambast ADM: "The company is a speculator in and processor of corn and other grains around the world. It has tremendous influence on politicians AND THE MEDIA." (Emphasis added. Note that ADM sponsors many of the mass media's TV talk shows as well as PBS's Jim Lehrer News Hour.)

So, the Elian Gonzalez affair was just a smoke screen. The story quotes Forbes magazine for 2/7/00 and their headline: "ADM PREPARES FOR LIFTING OF CUBAN EMBARGO".

The story of ADM and the Coca-Cola Company and a corrupt Chicago federal judge will be in a later part of this series.

A major player in the Coca-Cola Company has been Warren Buffet. If you are naive and believe in fairy tales, then you believe he made his great fortune through crafty operation starting with a department store in Omaha. To heckle him, some of his critics pronounce his name French-style, phonetically, as Buffay.

Buffet became a major owner of Coke stock and held a position on their Board of Directors. Few, if any, dare even whisper that Buffet's fortune is reportedly based on operating companies that are money laundries and propaganda horns for the American CIA. The list would have to include CIA adjuncts such as the Wells Fargo Bank, helping CIA's Pacific Basin operations, and the CIA apologist, the Washington Post Company. (Read, if you can find it, Deborah Davis' book called Katherine The Great about the Washington Post and the CIA.)

To understand Warren Buffet, who mouths-off his wonders at universities training so-called would-be business stars, you would have to be a profound investigator, from mostly secret sources, on the worldwide dope trafficking by the American CIA. When you are knowledgeable on that, then, and only then, do you understand the financial buffoon, Warren Buffet.

Is it a mere coincidence that his purported nephew, Jimmy Buffet, and his rock concerts seem to be part of making dope use fashionable? His band, The Corral Reefers, is a word play for narcotics. At his concerts, there is reportedly massive trafficking and use of dope. And the local corrupted police have the badge of the three monkeys.

Some had misgivings about another purported relative of Warren Buffet, the once popular Art Bell, the middle-of-the-night talk-show host. Bell was broadcasted on hundreds of major wattage radio stations in major markets, never known to broadcast the truth about the Federal Reserve, or political assassinations, and a lot of other suppressed topics. With his reputed heavy intelligence agency background, was Bell's program just some more psychological warfare operations?

Late in the 20th Century, a strange series of events started targeting the Coca-Cola Company. Various European governments and the European Union began attacking Coke:

- That Coke's products in Europe are contaminated, such as in Belgium and Poland, among others.

- That the Coca-Cola Company uses monopoly tactics to injure competitors, such as in Italy.

- Dawn raids on Coke's offices and closing down their plants, grabbing up records and accusing the Coca-Cola Company of making people sick with their products.

Is there a simple, though incomplete, unpublicized explanation for this epidemic of attacks on the Coca-Cola Company?

The French CIA accused Microsoft of being a spy operation and proprietary adjunct of the super-secret U.S. National Security Agency, the signal intelligence spooks. Further, France and other European countries are accusing the Coca-Cola Company of being, like Microsoft, an adjunct and private company proprietary of the American CIA.

Privatizing some of CIA's operations makes it impossible to get possibly incriminating records, if at all, through invoking the U.S. Freedom of Information Act. You cannot force government disclosure, for example, of CIA's private company proprietary adjunct, Wackenhut, an alter ego for CIA with more employees and operations than CIA itself. (Spy magazine, 9/92.)

Further, France and other European countries are accusing Coke of using some of their methods and satellite operations to assist and as a cover for Project Echelon, the super "Big Brother" gobbling up most everyone's private details and tracking, through key words, what most everyone communicates with anyone else in the world.

Raiding Coke's European plants and offices—claiming anti-trust violations and poisoning the populace—is just another way of sending the Atlanta-based spy/soda-spitting rattlesnake the message: We do not like American spies and vipers.

PART TWO

COCA-COLA'S REPUTED SPIES AND THE CORRUPT FEDERAL WITNESS PROTECTION PROGRAM

First, a short lesson on court corruption.

How do a series of secretly related court cases get onto the docket of one judge? As a case is in the process of being filed in the federal district court clerk's office, the case, under the rules, is supposed to be assigned by random selection; "blindman's buff" they used to call it. But, after studying and investigating court corruption for over 40 years, I know the term to be used is RANDOM MAGIC.

One of the first things we probe when we are on the trail of a tainted or suspicious case is: how did THIS particular case get on THAT judge's docket?

We know from long experience that corruption starts with the assignment of cases. Another tell-tale sign is when THAT judge uses JUDICIAL PERJURY to "fix" the case in favor of a certain litigant. A judge under a malign, if not corrupt influence inserts false so-called "facts" plucked out of the sky and not in the court evidence to justify the decision.

In simplistic terms, the undisputed court evidence shows it is DAY. Operating under a corrupt influence, the judge proclaims it is NIGHT, and applies case law regarding NIGHT to support the decision. Judges operate by case law, that is, by prior landmark rulings or statutes which cannot obviously be changed or sidestepped that easily. So the corrupted judge changes the "facts" and applies case law to fraudulent facts. That, in essence, is judicial perjury.

Not every case is the subject of malign influence. But often the important ones are. Over the years, when we suspected a judge was corrupt, we examined the rulings to see if there are judicial perjuries. An honest judge, mis-stating the undisputed facts, would quickly correct wrong statements. A crooked judge, even when confronted (cowardly lawyers are chicken), refuses.

Of the more than two dozen judges sitting on Chicago's U.S. District Court, one judge, by some witchcraft, has assigned to her a string of cases with apparent concealed links. That is judge Blanche M. Manning (312-435-7608).

Among these, she has assigned to her, by apparent RANDOM MAGIC, the case of Robert E. Kolody vs. Simon Marketing and the Coca-Cola Company, No. 97 C 190.

For a number of years Kolody planned to sue Coke for stealing his intellectual property, designs he made for them. Kolody's confidant, who befriended him over the years and insinuated himself into the matter for some 10 years, has been a local lawyer who was always sympathetic to Kolody's grievances against Coca-Cola and their adjunct, Simon Marketing.

When Kolody retained an out-of-state attorney from Arkansas to represent him in 1998, the rules required the designation of an additional lawyer as "local counsel". That trusted "local counsel" was Kolody's long-time confidant, Daniel V. Hanley (708-474-6633), of the Chicago suburb of Lansing, Illinois.

All of Kolody's legal strategies and plans, and those of his Arkansas lawyer, Dan Ivy, were discussed in confidence with Daniel V. Hanley. But strange things were happening. Coke's lawyers seemed to be able to "beat to the punch" Kolody and Dan Ivy—that is, heading off Kolody and Ivy's legal strategies which, of course, are confidential and not to be divulged by his "local counsel" Daniel V. Hanley.

And Judge Blanche M. Manning arrogantly committed judicial perjuries—which some common people call straight-out lies—about what this copyright case was all about. The Judge evidently knew that she did not have to be careful. She refused to wipe out her judicial perjuries when confronted by Dan Ivy.

As an electronic journalist, on May 18, 2000, I attended a hearing before Judge Manning when she failed to do anything about her judicial perjuries in the Coca-Cola case. Afterwards, elsewhere in the courthouse, in the presence of Ivy, I interviewed Daniel V. Hanley:

Skolnick: What sort of law work do you do, Mr. Hanley?

Daniel V. Hanley: General.

Skolnick: As you know, I do for many years now a cable TV show each week.

Hanley: Yes, I know.

Skolnick: Does Coca-Cola and their attorneys know the legal strategy of Robert Kolody and his attorney Dan Ivy here?

Hanley: Yes.

Skolnick: Really? How could they know?

Hanley: My sister is the media buyer for Coca-Cola.

Skolnick: What does she do?

Hanley: She has been with a New York firm and now is in Chicago.

Skolnick: What firm is she with?

Hanley: (Looked at Skolnick but did not answer.)

Skolnick: Do you think putting Bob here on my TV program about Coca-Cola would do any good?

Hanley: No.

Skolnick: So your sister understands all about this case?

Hanley: Yes.

Skolnick: Did you hear what Hanley volunteered as a statement? (Kolody had come over to the table and heard the portion, he said, of the colloquy where Daniel V. Hanley said his sister is media buyer for Coca-Cola.)

Dan Ivy: Yes, and we are shocked.

Skolnick: Well, this needs further investigation now that he volunteered this statement.

After another court hearing on July 6, 2000, when again Judge Manning failed to take back her judicial perjuries, I attended in court and interviewed Hanley again, in the presence of Dan Ivy.

Skolnick: So, do you think putting Bob on my TV show will do some good?

Hanley: No. The time to put him on would have been two years ago at the time of the summary judgment. It's too late now.

The foregoing transcripts are contained in my signed Declaration attached to Kolody's Motion for the judge to wipe-out all her rulings of substance because of the fraud upon the court by the judge and Coca-Cola's spy in Kolody's camp for ten years. (Motion was filed 8/9/00 in No. 97 C 190.)

As I later discovered, Daniel V. Hanley's sister, Mary Hanley, is Associate Media Director (312-552-6368) of the huge worldwide advertising firm, DDB. (You can visit their website www.ddb.com and click on their world directory of personnel for Chicago and Mary Hanley.)

As I put in my Declaration in court: "The long-term custom, practice, and usage, in certain parts of the U.S., to purportedly purchase federal judgeships, has been a subject of investigations and commentaries by Skolnick and his closest associates from 1966 to the present date. Skolnick has such a commentary on his www.skolnicksreport.com website. Knowledgeable sources have informed Skolnick that the upwards of one million dollars to purportedly purchase the judgeship for Blanche M. Manning came from William F. Cellini via U.S. Senator Carol Moseley-Braun. Law enforcement personnel contend to Skolnick that Cellini, heavily active in gambling casinos, is reportedly a key player in the crime cartel."

More details from my court Declaration:

"Skolnick, jointly with some of his associates in court reform, has been investigating the circumstances of a case pending before Judge Manning USA vs. Joseph Jerome Miedzianowski, et al., defendants, No. 98 CR 923, U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division. The circumstances show: (a) judge Manning, many times without notice, conducted closed-door and secret proceedings in the case; (b) ordered the censoring, by redacting of court and other transcripts; (c) Chicago Tribune Company petitioned to intervene in the case as of right, for among other purposes, for access to sealed judicial records and transcripts of proceedings; (d) Chicago Tribune apparently never publicly disclosed their objections to the secret proceedings in the case. Some references to this situation are contained in the case in No.98 CR 923, among other items, docket items No. 174, 175, 176, 180, 182, 186, 192....

"Informed sources contend that this situation is due, in part, to matters actually or bordering on so-called 'national security', in that involved in the trafficking of dope into Chicago from Florida and elsewhere was the use of dope couriers or 'mules' as they are known, of persons, some of them women, who also did work for the espionage agencies....

"Daniel V. Hanley has also been the attorney for Danny Harkenrider, who owns and operates Shannon's Landing, an Irish Pub, located with the property of the Chicago suburban airport in Lansing, Illinois. The place has been a reputed center for dope trafficking, including through airplanes. Nothing is done about this by the usual dope enforcement authorities. FBI Division Five, Counter-Intelligence, has informed the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration and other state and federal agencies to take no action against the dope traffic. The excuse being that the FBI purportedly is tracking clandestine IRS activities through the airport and the said Pub—activities to raise funds for the IRS and gun-smuggling through the dope traffic. Harkenrider has had purported immunity in these acts and doings in that his sister, Mary Yokich, was at one time on the third level from the top of the U.S. Justice Department, engaged in special investigations including involved in the Oklahoma City bombings. Some contend the Justice Department and the FBI, to avoid embarrassing details coming out, suppressed details of the tragedy. Mary Yokich's father-in-law is head of the powerful United Auto Workers union which in the past has, through international affiliates, assisted the American CIA in covert operations against unions deemed unfriendly to American corporate interests worldwide.”

It is clear that Judge Manning is busy covering up high-level corrupt government officials implicated in the dope traffic through the Chicago Police as in the Miedzianowski case. Another case assigned to Judge Manning by RANDOM MAGIC, is the case of USA vs. John Serpico, et al., No.99 CR 570. The defendants are labor bosses charged with racketeering, frauds and swindles, bank fraud, among other things. Through her apparent cover-ups, Judge Manning is keeping out of the federal court record that Serpico has a business partner who is a top official of the Federal Witness Protection Program. Some claim that these gangster-like connections have caused several supposedly protected witnesses to be murdered by inside complicity. Thus high-level corrupt federal officials, including IRS officials in Chicago, are kept from being fingered because the witnesses against them are being murdered INSIDE THE FEDERAL WITNESS PROTECTION PROGRAM.

Well-informed sources contend that one of the reasons Daniel V. Hanley volunteered the statement mentioned is that Hanley and his client, Harkenrider, are reportedly in the Federal Witness Protection Program, or being considered to be taken in under the criteria set forth in the U.S. Justice Department Manual under the Witness Security Reform Act of 1984 jointly with other laws.

Sources contend that Hanley and Harkenrider, because of their activities at the Irish Pub, at the Lansing, Illinois Airport, are being threatened from all sides (a) by the IRA not to co-operate with FBI Counter-Intelligence, Division Five, as protected witnesses; (b) by their knowledge that Judge Manning is keeping out of the federal court record, in several of her cases, the corrupt operation of the Federal Witness Protection Program, and that Hanley and Harkenrider cannot expect to be actually protected as witnesses; (c) by the Coca-Cola Company, in that they have had an entrenched spy in the camp of a major copyright case, where Robert E. Kolody is suing Coca-Cola and their marketing adjunct, Simon Marketing, now merged with a firm called Cryk; (d) by various corporate interests whose planes apparently convey dope in and out of the Lansing, Illinois airport with impunity, with state and federal authorities playing the part of the three monkeys; (e) and threatened by the Drug Enforcement Administration agents who often occupy a table at Shannon's Landing and also play the part of the three monkeys.

It is perhaps ironic that the only non-threatening type that Hanley could confess to is Sherman H. Skolnick, a long-known, independent-minded court reformer and cable-TV talk-show moderator/producer. Much more will follow about Chicago Federal District Judge Blanche M. Manning and the highly corrupt Federal Witness Protection Program involved in a string of cases she is covering up. Stay tuned.

PART THREE CONNECTING THE DOTS

This series is dealing with the type of harsh realities uncovered by our research and investigation group over 4 arduous decades of our work.

1. Sometimes whole groups of court cases are assigned, not by random selection, but “random magic”, intentionally to one or more judges as part of a “big fix”. And involved is a malign, if not corrupt, influence upon the judge. Knowing who it is who bought the chair for the judge is one type of influence. Straight out bribery, another. And the major corruption, as we have repeatedly shown, is not in the state courts, but the big-bucks federal courts. We have been showing, as an example, a group of cases assigned to Chicago U.S. District Judge Blanche M. Manning. We have more details on her. And she is not the only one; just an example of the corrupted federal judiciary.

2. Worldwide, major enterprises are secret adjuncts of the American CIA. Privatizing the spy agency avoids Freedom of Information disclosures. One example is Wackenhut. An example dealt with here is the Coca-Cola Company.

3. Government agencies are supposedly set up to protect witnesses from harm in very sensitive cases. For instance, the Federal Witness Protection Program. But they seem to have been penetrated by criminal interests, so that key witnesses, who finger corruption of top IRS and DEA officials, are NOT protected, but terrorized and, on occasion, snuffed out. As we have specified, judge Manning is covering up this situation in the case of USA vs. John Serpico et al., No. 99 CR 570. Serpico, a union purported criminal boss, is reportedly a business partner with a top official of the Federal Witness Protection Program.

4. There are places that operate reportedly as a criminal immunity zone. Anything goes. The state and federal authorities play the part of the three monkeys. One such that seems to fit that description reportedly is a business on the property of the Lansing, Illinois airport, a suburb of Chicago. Called Shannon's Landing (708-895-6919), it is an Irish pub.

Who seems to use that place? Corrupt top IRS officials blackmailing their way into all kinds of deals. (Visit our website series on the crooked IRS bosses and their ocean-going money laundry boat called “California Rose”.)

Dope traffic through the airplanes there and such is used reportedly to raise funds for gun-smuggling for purposes of the Irish Republican Army, the IRA. Agents of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency often sit at that pub and hear and see “nothing”. The owner of the pub, Danny Harkenrider, is reportedly himself in the Federal Witness Protection Program or being considered under the criteria for such. Another one in that program reportedly being considered for such is a purported lawyer (he does not seem to practice much law), Daniel V. Hanley, of Lansing, Illinois (708-474-6633).

Hanley is a purported spy inside the camp of a fellow, Robert E. Kolody, who sued Coke for theft of storyboards and designs—that is, his intellectual property. Apparently threatened from all sides, Hanley, as the supposed “local counsel” for Kolody, confessed and volunteered to me, in the presence of witnesses, that Kolody's court opponent, the Coca-Cola Company, gets to know his confidential legal strategies through Hanley's sister, Mary Hanley, who is a media buyer for Coca-Cola. She is with a huge worldwide advertising agency in Chicago, DDB (312-552-6368).

5. Federal judgeships, like state judgeships, are bought and sold. A known reputed criminal type bought judge Blanche M. Manning the federal judge's bench and chair she occupies in the U.S. District Court in Chicago. (Visit our website for our story on Buying Judgeships.) A million dollars or more was laid out.

6. A major dope trafficking case, by “random magic”, was assigned to judge Manning. She covered up the involvement of “mules”, dope couriers, some of them women, who also do espionage for the American CIA. (USA vs. Joseph Jerome Miedzianowski et al., No. 98 CR 923.)

The Chicago Tribune are fakers. As shown in the court record, they are privately blackmailing judge Manning, lambasting her for holding, without notice or formalities, secret proceedings, censoring court transcripts and papers. Why does the WORLD'S GREEDIEST NEWSPAPER remain silent about all this in print or on their TV station in Chicago, Channel 9, WGN-TV, or on their radio horn, WGN Radio?

7. In an extremely important anti-trust conspiracy case assigned to her, again by “random magic”, judge Manning tried to go easy on top officials found guilty by a jury—top officials, that is, of the worldwide farm products refinery, Archer-Daniels-Midland.

ADM is a super-duper advertiser in the monopoly press and controls numerous TV talk shows and such. They have, as their puppet, the “Jim Lehrer News Hour” on PBS. And ADM is big with supposedly “non-commercial” radio stations and NPR. Since a Rockefeller holds the key position with NPR, we call them National Petroleum Radio. ADM, like Coca-Cola years ago, is trying to put a grab on Cuba's agriculture by forcing the U.S. to drop

By the way, the whole Elian Gonzalez Affair, played out on the ADM-dominated monopoly press, was to soften-up the American know-nothings for ADM's scheme of big investments in Cuba in food refineries to take advantage of Cuba's agriculture abundance. Working on the other side of this propaganda trick reportedly was Jose Basulto, reportedly tied to the criminal combine that includes the family of George Herbert Walker Bush and his criminally-linked, oil-soaked sons. And linked to the American CIA.

The case of the ADM officials is: USA vs. Michael D. Andreas, Terrance S. Wilson, and Mark E. Whitacre. Michael is the son of the long-time ADM dictator Dwayne Andreas, who should have gone to jail in the Watergate Affair. The government whistle-blower, Whitacre, himself an ADM official, wore a wire, and aided the FBI in setting up clandestine video and audio recording of the monopoly crimes. He was done-in apparently with the connivance—here it comes again—of the Federal Witness Protection Program. It is case No. 96 CR 762.

After a jury verdict finding the defendants guilty, judge Manning nevertheless gave a light sentence to Andreas and Wilson, and a more severe jail sentence to the whistle-blower, Whitacre, to scare such finger-pointers to shut-up in the future or be dropped down the chute by the "criminal combine" running the Federal Witness Protection Program. And as mentioned, judge Manning in various cases is covering up the criminals supposedly dedicated to protecting government witnesses, actually persecuting and terrorizing key government witnesses. If that does not work, well, snuffing out witnesses is also the answer. Whitacre rots in jail.

In June, 2000, the banker-judges on the federal appeals court in Chicago did their own blackmail job on judge Manning. They publicly ran over her in the case of Andreas and Wilson. They want to be sure she stays shut on the corrupted Federal Witness Protection Program in the several cases put on her docket by "random magic". The appeals judges, primarily tied to the Rockefeller interests and not ADM, slapped her down, saying she gave too light of jail sentences to Andreas and Wilson, and sent it back for her to fix it up. Whitacre was not part of the appeal and is left as a thrown-in-the-garbage whistle-blower.

ADM supplies the corn and other sweeteners to the Coca-Cola company. So you see the common link to the cases on judge Manning's docket. ADM is a spy apparatus themselves, just like Coke.

In 1989, ADM wanted to put an armlock on the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. They were countered by the independent-minded young "pirates" who, as speculators, were running the places. ADM arranged to "buy" the federal prosecutor's office to frame-up 46 of these "pirates" on measly five-dollar discrepancy matters. In an unusual procedure, ADM supplied to the federal government prosecutors, undercover spies trained by and for ADM in commodity and other dealing. ADM's undercover provocateurs got "evidence" of the five dollar matters which was and is a common, accepted practice on the exchanges, not considered a crime at all. The federal prosecutors, practically on ADM's payroll instead of Uncle Sam's, destroyed the 46 young people quicker than shooting them.

In 1992, I was sitting in my wheelchair in the front of the front row of the packed courtroom of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago. Before the oral presentation of the appeals, I tried to tell the wives of some of the Soybean Ten that the three-judge panel to hear the appeal was headed by a conflict of interest. That was Federal Appeals judge Richard D. Cudahy. According to his mandatory financial disclosure, he is the richest judge in North America and owns and operates the Patrick Cudahy Trust, which is a speculation instrument in the commodity industry.

Judge Cudahy upheld the severe jail sentences of the soybean traders.

The relatives of the doomed speculators had hired, for about a million dollars, Alan Dershowitz, to argue their appeal. Before the hearing, when I tried to warn the relatives, they just insulted me: "Who the hell are you, Mr. Skolnick?" I answered: "I am just a voice for justice in the wilderness; that's all."

Hey, maybe you are floored by all these details. Maybe I should not tell you that the Russian mafiya plays a part in some of judge Manning's crooked decisions. Or that Harkenrider is purportedly in with them. More coming. Stay tuned.

PART 4 ENTER MORE PLAYERS

Is the media monster, the Tribune Company, a reputed blackmailer of the Coca-Cola Company?

Here is more that is boiling and bubbling out of that witches brew of a scandal implicating Coca-Cola. For background to this story, you should visit our website story about the Chicago Tribune linked to the criminal cartel, at least from 1910 to date, including the Trib using Al Capone as a labor consultant in 1930 to beat back a strike against the Tribune; and then again, in 1986, using gangster goons with attack dogs against the Trib's own workers in a labor strike.

With a charter for their Canadian pulp from the King of England more than 100 years ago, and large ownership currently by the Queen of England and her dope traffickers, the Tribune Company are no angels. Neither are the Coca-Cola Company—as an adjunct worldwide of the American CIA.

The one who got in the middle between the Tribune Company and Coca-Cola is Chicago U.S. District judge Blanche M. Manning. In a theft-of-intellectual-property case pending against Coca-Cola, judge Manning has issued a series of "judicial perjuries", as some call them, to corruptly favor Coke. (Robert E. Kolody vs. Simon Marketing and the Coca-Cola Company, 97 C 190.)

Plain-spoken folks call such things straight-out lies by the judge. In August 2000, judge Manning was confronted with a situation involving a spy infiltrating the camp of Coke's court opponent, Kolody, thus becoming privy to Kolody's confidential legal strategies against Coke. How did this happen, as identified in the Court record?

The situation resulted in a Motion for Relief Because of Fraud Upon the Court, filed 8/9/00. The term "fraud upon the court" is a profound principle of law that frightens cowardly members of the bar and corrupt members of the bench. It requires that the rulings on matters of substance by a judge acting under a malign, if not corrupt, influence, be expunged from the court record.

When I run into savvy cynics in or near courthouses, they just cackle: "Skolnick, you have often documented such problems. How can there be a fraud upon the District Court in places like Chicago, a court that is a long-known fraud itself?"

To try to get around Kolody's Motion for Relief Because of Fraud Upon the Court, judge Manning issued a decision giving the Motion a false label, calling it a Motion to Disqualify the Judge. There is no such thing in the Motion. But this is typical of judges operating under a malign, if not corrupt, influence.

And falsely calling the Motion by that name, judge Manning said Kolody did not properly invoke the federal statutes for disqualifying a judge. So the judge said Kolody's Motion is no good. Any one examining the court record could see the judge is a plain rotten liar.

In another case on judge Manning's docket, the Tribune Company has been blackmailing the judge. In a moment you will understand why. It is a case of a dope-trafficking gang, Chicago-Florida, involving Chicago police and dope "mules" or couriers, actually many of them women also working for the American CIA.

The Tribune filed a petition in the case saying they should be allowed to intervene as of right. Why? Because, says the Tribune, judge Manning is conducting, without notice or legal formality, secret court proceedings. And judge Manning is censoring court documents and transcripts, by redacting them, and similar secret methods. Judge Manning's apparent purpose? To cover up the dope trafficking showing complicity by corrupt top-level IRS officials, and the kinky U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency, and the corrupted FBI, among others. (Visit our website series on corrupt IRS brass and their ocean-going money-laundry boat.)

The dope trafficking case is USA vs. Joseph Jerome Miedzianowski, et al., No. 98 CR 923, U.S. District Court, Chicago.

According to advertising agency sources, the Tribune Company, as a media empire, has a beef against the Coca-Cola Company which is being corruptly favored by judge Manning with her paper tricks. (Kolody vs. Simon Marketing and the Coca-Cola Company, No. 97 C 190.)

The Tribune Company is sore at Coke because Coke's media buyer, Mary Hanley, reportedly is not favoring Trib and their raft of newspapers, TV, and radio stations and such, with the proper amount of advertising bucks. Get this straight: the Tribune, no crusaders against corrupt federal judges, does not wish to assist Kolody, but rather to strong-arm Coke.

Just after the Fraud Upon the Court Motion was filed, Mary Hanley's boss, the monstrous DDB advertising octopus, announces, in the Chicago Tribune, that Mary Hanley has been promoted to Senior Vice President and is group media director at DDB Chicago. (Chicago Tribune, George Lazarus' column, 8/15/00.) It appears that DDB is playing the part of press agent, to try to get the stink off the mess.

And guess what? To further get away from the ruckus, Coca-Cola's media buyer, Mary Hanley, identified as such by her lawyer-brother, just at that point, is leaving the U.S. for Ireland.

By the way, reportedly arranging such propaganda is an apparatus we call the Banquet Committee, suddenly honoring someone, such as person of the year and such, to counter a scandal. More later.

We have, by the way, been commenting for some 40 years about media units blackmailing slow-to-comply would-be advertisers. The late George Seldes, a crusading journalist, wrote about this type of blackmailing in his book Tell The Truth And Run. Since 1991, on our public-access cable TV program in Chicago, we have spelled out numerous examples of pressfakers using blackmail to strong-arm ads. That is, they threaten to run negative stories about a corporation if they fail to buy plenty of ads.

In simple terms, the Tribune Company wants the Coca-Cola Company to throw more ad bucks its way. And twisting judge Manning's crooked arm (maybe even Mary Hanley's arm) is the way to start the finger pointing leading to loosening up Coke's billion-dollar-a-year advertising bankroll. (Some years ago, we showed how a local TV station in Chicago, Channel 5, WMAQ-TV, an NBC unit, did a series scandalizing Sears, Roebuck & Co., basically because Sears was holding back ad bucks.)

And get this angle: The Miedzianowski case secretly involves the American CIA, details covered up by judge Manning. The background of many of the Tribune Company's correspondents and such is that they come out of U.S. military intelligence, the CIA's competitor. So the Tribune Company has a number of reasons to privately blackmail Chicago U.S. District judge Blanche M. Manning.

Sarcastic sorts crow that if Coke does not bubble up with more ads for the Tribune Company—well, Tribune may order any Coke machines to suddenly disappear from Trib's premises. Or sternly order Tribune employees to drink Royal Crown Cola instead. NOT Pepsi-Cola, falsely described as a "competitor" of Coke, yet Coke and Pepsi are run and owned by the same folks. Ha ha. Stories like this take the fizz out of the soda monster. Stay tuned.

PART FIVE

THE BLACKMAIL MACHINE ROLLS ON

It was set to be a crucial hearing in the media-ignored Coca-Cola case in Chicago's federal district court. U.S. district judge Blanche M. Manning was determined NOT to hear in open court on August 22, 2000, that Coca-Cola had a reputed spy in the camp of their opponent, Robert E. Kolody, who was suing Coke for theft of his storyboards and designs. In law, his claim is called theft of intellectual property.

The monopoly press, beholden to major advertiser Coca-Cola, has purposely evaded reporting on this case. Kolody's out-of-state attorney, Dan Ivy, had on August 9 bravely filed a Motion demanding the judge expunge all her rulings favoring Coke, since the reputed spy reportedly conveyed confidential legal strategies of Kolody to his opponent, Coke. It is called Fraud Upon the Court, an unusual procedure that makes most of those of the bench and the bar plenty nervous. Kolody's required "local counsel", Daniel V. Hanley, the reputed spy, in the presence of witnesses, had confessed to me that Coca-Cola knew Kolody's court strategies because Hanley's sister is media buyer for Coca-Cola.

The court-filed Motion with my signed Declaration attached, among other things, pointed out:

1. That power-broker and gambling casino overlord, WILLIAM F. CELLINI, reportedly paid one million dollars to buy in 1994 the federal court judgeship for Blanche M. Manning. The pay-off was reportedly made through then-U.S. senator Carol Moseley-Braun. (Braun lost the re-election in 1998 because of growing scandals she could not explain away. As to "Buying a Judgeship", visit my website.) Cellini reportedly is linked to the nationwide criminal cartel.

2. My Declaration transcribed two interviews, done in the presence of witnesses, of Daniel V. Hanley.

3. That the Tribune Company, parent of the Chicago Tribune, and their media empire, have been blackmailing judge Manning by seeking to intervene, as of right they claimed, without publicity, in another one of judge Manning's cases and to point out that the judge engaged in secret proceedings without notice, and censored and redacted court records, as part of an apparent cover-up. As later determined, the Tribune Company wanted to pressure judge Manning, and Coke's media buyer, MARY HANLEY, so Tribune would get more advertising bucks from Coca-Cola. With the merger with the Los Angeles Times, Tribune Company got more heavily in debt. Getting a big share of Coke's billion dollars a year advertising slush fund would help Tribune Company and their banks.

Prior to the show-down August 22 hearing, judge Manning jumped the gun and rejected the Fraud Upon the Court Motion, out of hand. The judge issued a ruling loaded with what Dan Ivy, later on August 22, described in court to her face as her "judicial perjuries". Identified by Dan Ivy were how, to try to cover up and evade the Fraud Upon the Court involving the judge herself, that she straight out lied. The judge falsely described the Motion as one to disqualify herself. No such thing in the Motion. Ivy confronted the judge with a string of her lies. The judge resisted allowing the witnesses against the reputed spy to be heard. The witnesses were all present in the courtroom.

Notice the time-line: prior to the key hearing, Daniel V. Hanley informed Kolody that Hanley's sister, Coke media buyer Mary Hanley, is going out of the country, to Ireland. Would she be available as a witness? Her testimony could scandalize her company, DDB advertising agency, in matters that involve both Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Cola.

Prior to the key hearing, in a business column on 8/15/00 in the Chicago Tribune, it is announced that Mary Hanley of DDB Chicago has been elected Senior Vice President and is a group media director.

By the way, as Coke's media buyer, Mary Hanley has tremendous clout as to who in the mass media get part of Coke's billion dollars a year ad bucks.

After resisting hearing the witnesses, judge Manning suddenly leaves the bench, presumably to get instructions from "higher ups". In the recess, six federal security patrol officers enter the courtroom. An excuse supposedly is that the judge will briefly divert a few minutes to sentence a jail-bird, in an orange prison jumpsuit, brought in through a side door. After the brief diversion, however, the federal police do not leave.

Judge Manning then tries to intimidate me, demanding I roll my wheelchair to the rear of the courtroom. I told her I am an electronic journalist and wish to be upfront to observe and hear good. One of the federal police stands up and started over to me, to forcibly remove me. Under threat, I rolled over to sit right near one of the federals with his intercom in his ear.

Suddenly the judge changes her mind and the witnesses were called, such as me. I was asked what I do. Looking right at judge Manning, I told her I investigate crooked judges for the purpose of putting them in jail. Pointing to the reputed spy for Coca-Cola who confessed to me in the presence of others, I detailed what was said. The reputed spy did not, however, appear to deny my interviews with him about his sister.

In the Kolody case, the two defendants are the Coca-Cola Company and their marketing adjunct, Simon Marketing. Simon's alleged attorney was asked why she did not inform the court that Simon had merged and is now part of Cyrk, Inc. The attorney, Jacqueline A. Criswell (law firm of Tressler, Soderstrom, Maloney & Priess, 312-627-4000) told judge Manning that she did not know of the merger.

Apparently not adequately revealed in the court record is that Criswell does NOT represent Simon Marketing, but rather, the insurance carrier under an errors and omission policy carried by many corporations. And the name of the insurance company has not been disclosed in the court record. Also, Cyrk has reportedly failed to inform the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission of the Kolody suit as required by SEC regulations.

From all the known facts, it appears that there may be a scam underway to rip off the insurance carrier. No great surprise. Illinois and Texas are havens for pirate insurance companies and havens for massive insurance frauds, because of crooked state insurance regulators. Coke appears to be fraudulently shifting the multi-million-dollar damage claim against them, for theft of intellectual property, so their former marketing adjunct, Simon, would take the blame, to be underwritten by the insurance company.

Coca-Cola's advertising agency, DDB, may be part of a huge price-fixing and market-tampering mess. Advertising agencies become privy to tremendous financial and political secrets of their clients—such as the market demographics, data on profiling would-be customers, price trends, political trends that affect marketing products, problems needed to be “fixed” and judges and others necessary to be corrupted for the benefit of their clients, where the product sells the best so as to put a related business unit right nearby, point-of-purchase strategies, etc. Closely scrutinizing DDB's website is helpful (www.ddb.com).

DDB, once called Needham, has been trying to stay low-key about the fact that they represent Pepsi-Cola at the same time they represent their alleged “competitor” Coca-Cola. That sort of an arrangement is both unethical and may well be a violation of the U.S. Anti-Trust laws. The purpose is to freeze-out smaller companies like Royal Crown Cola and others, with Pepsi and Coke together controlling the prices among themselves, dividing up markets among themselves, setting the wholesale price per-case of soda pop in such a way as to screw smaller firms, and then jacking up the price for themselves, and similar federal price-fixing and market-fixing law violations. An open secret, never mentioned in the monopoly press, is that Coke and Pepsi are substantially owned and operated by the same people.

Two days after the key hearing on Coke's reputed spy, the Chicago Tribune continues their “blackmail machine”. The apparent purpose is not to help Robert E. Kolody fight the injustice inflicted on him by judge Manning, but rather, for the Tribune Company to continue to shake down Coke's advertising agency, DDB, to get more ad bucks for the Tribune empire of numerous print-media newspapers, TV stations, radio stations, magazines, and a great number of advertising-sponsored websites.

The Trib blackmail story was on their front page for 8/24/00. The Tribune announced a matter that had so far been kept secret: That there had been a huge Illinois State contract swindle prosecution that actually involved top officials of then-Illinois Governor Jim Edgar (1991-1999): “The list of those linked by prosecutors to the scandal but not charged included Michael Belletire, Edgar's deputy chief of staff and later head of the ILLINOIS GAMING BOARD; JANIS CELLINI, Edgar's patronage chief AND SISTER OF SPRINGFIELD POWER BROKER WILLIAM CELLINI...” (Emphasis added.)

Notice the tie-in to the Coca-Cola case. A gambling casino kingpin, reputedly part of the nationwide crime cartel, William F. Cellini, reportedly bought the judgeship for Blanche M. Manning sitting on the Coca-Cola case.

One of those reportedly covering up dirty business in gambling casinos for Cellini, who later became head of the Illinois Gambling Board, is now named as having been an unindicted co-conspirator. That is, the prosecutor, splitting hairs because of being corrupted or otherwise influenced, left him off the hook. And then the Tribune names William F. Cellini's sister, Janis Cellini, as one who somehow escaped being actually prosecuted and jailed.

Do you suppose that William F. Cellini and the Coca-Cola gang and their ad bucks controller DDB, and Mary Hanley, media buyer for Coca-Cola, along with judge Manning, got the message? See to it, they are told, that the Tribune Company gets their “cut” of the Coke billion dollars a year ad bucks, or else more judicial dirt and Cellini scandals will be published.

So what is next? The WORLD'S GREEDIEST NEWSPAPER suddenly and belatedly finding out that there is an insurance scam reportedly implicating a marketing adjunct of Coca-Cola? Or that the DDB advertising agency is concealing an apparent horrendous price-fixing mess involving both Pepsi and Coke? Stay tuned.

PART SIX ANATOMY OF THE BIG COURT FIX

One of the hardest things to understand, for poorly informed folks, is that the law and the facts are not the controlling factors in important cases in court. Mind you, not every case is corrupted or “fixed”. Too often, however, the big ones show signs there has been a malign, if not corrupt, influence on the judge or judges involved.

Our court reform group, targeting court corruption, has been active for four decades. We know what to look for. The assignment of cases, is, to us, a key sign.

We have been writing and commenting, and did a one-hour cable TV program, on the corruption in the case against the Coca-Cola Company, in Chicago's notorious federal district court. With no exceptions, every judgeship in the place has been bought and sold over the years.

The case against Coca-Cola was brought in January, 1997, by a Nebraska attorney, John DeCamp, with long prior experience with the American CIA. (The plaintiff, Robert E. Kolody, found it difficult to get a local attorney.) DeCamp was in a position to understand plenty. He was in a position to know that this important case in Chicago, involving claims against the soda pop monster for theft of intellectual property, storyboards, and designs, would be difficult to continue. Any plaintiff's attorney might get chewed up and spit out, especially by Coca-Cola, a worldwide adjunct and proprietary operation of the American CIA.

By the corrupt process of “random magic”, instead of random selection, the Coca-Cola case was assigned to Chicago U.S. district judge Blanche M. Manning. And the road to reportedly blackmailing her, to favor Coca-Cola, was already built. Running on that road was waste hauler John Christopher, who had a criminal past with reputed ties to organized crime. He agreed to be an FBI “mole” and to wear a “wire” to target some of Chicago's City Officials, known as “the best that money can buy”. The FBI/U.S. Justice Department project was dubbed “Silver Shovel”.

Screwing the residents in their own districts with poisonous waste, various city council Aldermen took apparent pay-offs or reportedly extorted pay-offs from Christopher, so he could illegally dump huge waste loads, such as left-over construction junk, in their neighborhoods. This was primarily or exclusively in poor Black areas, with an empty lot or two; areas without financial or political clout. By the way, after the FBI dust had settled, the U.S. Government did NOT quickly offer to haul away all the toxic mess that Christopher unloaded, often right near populated inner-city areas.

“Silver Shovel” was a headlined scandal in the local press, starting about January, 1996. By the time the Coca-Cola case got started, a year later, City of Chicago Commissioner of Water, John Bolden, was targeted for federal criminal prosecution in “Silver Shovel”. His and the soda pop case were both pending before judge Manning. Commissioner Bolden’s defense attorney, James Montgomery, was reportedly a close crony of judge Manning. It was obvious to savvy sorts what might happen. Montgomery reportedly had ties of some sort over the years with Nevada gambling casino gangsters. Reportedly part of the crime cartel and a big-time owner of gambling casinos, William F. Cellini reportedly had bought the federal judgeship for Manning, paying some one million dollars through then U.S. Senator Carol Moseley-Braun (D-IL).

John DeCamp, in a position reportedly to understand a few things about Coca-Cola and the CIA and the Chicago federal judges, withdrew from the newly started case against Coke in July 1997. A few weeks later there started the federal criminal trial of USA vs. John Bolden. Same judge.

Anyone knowing a lot about court knows that even trials by jury can be “fixed” or sabotaged by the trial judge. Such as, by the judge keeping out key evidence as being “inadmissible”, by manipulating the dates and circumstances of the jury procedures. By slanting the court procedures against the prosecutors and in favor of the criminal defendant. By scheduling the jury under peculiar circumstances.

In September 1997, the jury in the Bolden case came back with a split verdict. Guilty on tax evasion, wherein Bolden could get, at most, six months in prison. They acquitted Bolden on the more serious charges of extortion.

John Bolden was a bigshot making as much as $90,000 a year as Commissioner of Water for the City of Chicago. (And perhaps much more as pay-offs to influence his official position.) He was a big fish.

The team that helped put together the charges against Bolden were and are livid. Why? They contend that judge Manning, to go easy on Water Commissioner Bolden, got a “financial benefit” that some might construe as a bribe. The team, in plain language, grumbles loud enough for others to hear that U.S. District judge Blanche M. Manning is a crook, whose chair reportedly was bought for her by a crook, and that she belongs in prison, along with the one who bought her the judgeship.

To understand this story fully, you have to understand the realities of political and financial power. Those who put together criminal charges are most often NOT concerned about bribes to judges in CIVIL cases. So, if judge Manning had been bribed or corruptly influenced or blackmailed in the CIVIL case, the one against Coca-Cola, well, the team is NOT concerned.

In the Water Commissioner’s case, judge Manning made the same mistake, however, as Chicago Federal Appeals Judge Otto Kerner, Jr., in 1969. He had reportedly taken a huge bribe in a CIVIL case, involving a five-million-dollar claim regarding a pet food company. The matter, however, that instigated the federal criminal charges against Judge Kerner was that he had been corrupted to turn loose the Silver Hi-Jacking Gang, an important federal CRIMINAL case.

A federal judge is a fool to counter the prosecutors in a federal criminal case. A federal judge who takes bribes or financial benefits or is corruptly influenced or blackmailed in a CIVIL case most likely stays peacefully and quietly on the bench until he or she retires or croaks.

The other, some two dozen, U.S. district judges who sit with judge Manning in the federal courthouse in Chicago are just as corrupt as Manning. EXCEPT, they do not screw or sabotage CRIMINAL cases. (This is not a blanket generality. I could detail their crimes as well, one by one.)

Judge Kerner learned the hard way the number-one unwritten law that applies to crooked judges: YOU DO NOT SCREW AROUND WITH CRIMINAL CASES, only civil cases.

Our group, by the way, was instrumental in getting Kerner put in prison. He was the highest ranking sitting federal judge to be sent to jail for bribery in U.S. history. Also sent to jail with him, by our work, was his crony, the former Director of the Illinois Department of Revenue, the highest Illinois state tax collector, Theodore J. Isaacs.

When I publicly accused Kerner, he tried to get a fellow judge to jail me for contempt of court. Kerner held a press conference and all the local media carried his statement calling me a “liar”. But get this: he died an ex-convict. So who was lying after all?

Here are a few questions to think about:

1. Were and are Coca-Cola’s hotshot Chicago lawyers in a position to know that judge Manning may be in big trouble and subject to blackmail, such as reportedly by Coke’s lawyers, because of her role in the Water Commissioner’s case? Coca-Cola’s attorneys include Ms. Laura Beth Miller (of Brinks, Hofer, Gilson & Lione, 312-321-4715).

2. Why is nothing done about Simon

Marketing, a marketing adjunct of Coca-Cola and also defendant with them? The one in court that purports to represent Simon Marketing, reportedly actually represents the insurance carrier. Are they committing a fraud upon the court? Simon Marketing merged with Cyrk, Inc., not shown in the court record. Purporting to represent Simon Marketing is Jacqueline A. Criswell (312-627-4000), of Tressler, Soderstrom, Maloney & Priess.

3. Why did judge Manning have six federal police in her courtroom, to intimidate me, when I testified at a hearing as to my investigations with respect to judge Manning and the Coca-Cola case?

4. The other judges in the federal courthouse with judge Manning know better than to sabotage or corruptly screw up the prosecutors in a federal criminal case. How is it that she does not realize she is on the road to possible disaster? Did she flunk-out of Crooked Judge 101? The other crooked judges in her courthouse have all passed the test. They are each as corrupt as her, but know how to survive as a corrupt judge.

Cynics claim that the school for training corrupt judges how to survive is financed, in part, by gambling casino loot. Wise bookies are refusing bets, however, on judge Manning, a judicial school drop-out.

Do we know who actually runs such a school? You betcha. Stay tuned.

PART SEVEN SUMMARIZING THE REAL-LIFE DRAMA—AND WAS IT MURDER?

ROBERT E. KOLODY: For upwards of ten years a local lawyer he trusted, DANIEL V. HANLEY, reportedly elicited from Kolody details of his legal strategy plans. Kolody contends that the Coca-Cola Company and their marketing adjunct, Simon Marketing, stole Kolody’s intellectual property, being storyboards and designs. Kolody had difficulty getting a Chicago-area attorney to pursue his claims. Since 1997, Kolody’s case has been in the U.S. District Court in Chicago, No. 97 C 190.

In February 1999, Kolody retained Dan Ivy, an outspoken attorney from Arkansas. As required under the local federal rules in Chicago, Ivy designated Hanley as “local counsel”, meaning Hanley has to be informed of all proposed court filings and procedures.

SHERMAN H. SKOLNICK: As a long-time court reformer and TV show moderator/producer, I began investigating the Coca-Cola case.

TRIBUNE COMPANY: As the parent firm of the Tribune media empire, the Tribune Company owns the Chicago Tribune, the Los Angeles Times, and other newspapers around the country, as well as numerous radio and TV stations. Tribune Company is reportedly trying to strong-arm Coca-Cola for more advertising dollars, by reportedly leaning on DDB. But Tribune has not been interested in publicizing the Kolody suit against Coca-Cola.

U.S. CHICAGO DISTRICT JUDGE BLANCHE M. MANNING: The Tribune, without publicity in their newspapers, radio, and TV, has sought to intervene in one of judge Manning's criminal cases to accuse her of secret proceedings and other unlawful acts and doings. The apparent purpose? To blackmail the judge and put pressure on Coca-Cola and DDB for more ad bucks, to relieve the Tribune's huge debt overhang caused by merging with the Los Angeles Times.

In a series of court-filed Motions by Kolody, he documents how judge Manning has been stuffing the court records with "judicial perjuries"—straight-out lies used to justify arbitrary and corrupt rulings favoring Coca-Cola.

GEORGE LAZARUS: As the Chicago Tribune's long-time, widely-read columnist on marketing and advertising, Lazarus on 8/15/00 runs an item: "Mary Hanley, a group media director of DDB Chicago, was elected a senior VP of the agency" and includes a picture of her.

MARY HANLEY: Selected to be a top official of DDB Advertising, she is reportedly unavailable to be a witness at an important hearing in Kolody's case. Her brother, DANIEL V. HANLEY, tells Kolody and Skolnick, in a conference call, that Mary Hanley is leaving the country for Ireland. Later, Hanley tells them she will be back in 15 days. (Is there a link to the IRA? See previous parts of this series.)

While Kolody is listening on the phone, Skolnick interviews JILL ZEMANSKI, private secretary of Mary Hanley. Jill confirms that Mary Hanley represents Coca-Cola Company.

THE HEARING ON AUGUST 22, 2000: Informed by attorney Ivy that there are in court, present, two witnesses, Skolnick and Kolody, prepared to testify that judge Manning is committing a fraud upon her own court in the Coca-Cola case, judge Manning brings into the courtroom SIX FEDERAL POLICE to menace and intimidate Skolnick sitting in his wheelchair.

The purpose of the hearing? For judge Manning to hear and consider whether she herself has committed a fraud upon her own court through the judge falsifying the facts and filling the court records with her "judicial perjuries". The judge does NOT seem to understand that such a hearing, with her presiding, is outlawed by Anglo-Saxon law—that is, for a person TO SIT AS A JUDGE IN THEIR OWN CASE.

Ivy tells the Judge that the remedy he and his client Kolody seek is for the judge to expunge from the court records all of judge Manning's rulings favoring the Coca-Cola Company and Simon Marketing. Judge Manning said she will take the matter of her own fraud upon the court and instances brought-up of newly discovered evidence "under advisement". (The foregoing is shown in the Report of the Proceedings of her Court for 8/22/00.)

Following the hearing, the Broadsides cable TV program sends an envoy to Tribune columnist GEORGE LAZARUS, informing him about what is happening in court as to the Coca-Cola Company, Mary Hanley, and DDB advertising. He expresses an interest that he is going to follow-up the matter for his column. (Or, are his bosses at the Tribune intending to over-rule him and pursue their reported blackmailing of DDB, judge Manning, Coca-Cola, and others, to shake-down more ad bucks for the Tribune Company?)

In a court order dated 8/29/00, judge Manning issues a nine-page ruling with more of her falsified facts and "judicial perjuries", contending she finds that she has NOT committed a fraud upon her own court. (An obvious ruling by someone sitting as a judge in their own case.) As to some of the prior rulings, Ivy files a Notice of Appeal on August 31, 2000.

Among the issues involved in the case against Coca-Cola is that: (1) the Coca-Cola Company allowed their copyright to lapse and it is now owned by Kolody as shown by documents of the U.S. Copyright Office; (2) that Coca-Cola has, with respect to this litigation, committed a fraud by not reporting it to the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission that regulates listed stock such as that of Coke.

Several weeks into the works was a story published in the much-watched Tempo Section of the Chicago Tribune, usually published on a Thursday. Published on Thursday, September 7, 2000 was a lengthy Tempo story about various other soda pop companies. In quoting a seller of a flavored foreign pop called Tarhun: "People believe Tarhun is good for you and Coke is bad for you." Then further quoting the seller: "For instance, have you ever seen what happens when you put a chicken liver in a glass of Coke?" In so doing, the Tribune was taking a swipe at Coke to reportedly shake them and DDB down for more ad bucks.

While they were commenting, the Tribune could have added that Coca-Cola can be a substitute for Drano to clear out your home plumbing.

The very next day, Friday, September 8, 2000, player George Lazarus was found dead on the commuter train he took each day to the Tribune offices. In a lengthy story on Saturday, September 9, 2000, a sort of obituary, headlined "Veteran Business Columnist George Lazarus Dies", the Tribune stated: "His daily column, put together through an indomitable force of will for 39 years, all but 11 of them at the Tribune, was practically Holy Writ for executives in the marketing and advertising business in Chicago."

Then the Tribune adds this strange sort of cynical humor: "'WE WERE SURE HE WAS HIDING IN OUR RESTROOMS' said DDB WORLDWIDE CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER KEITH REINHARD. 'MANY TIMES, WE COULDN'T FIGURE OUT HOW HE GOT THE STORY.'" (Emphasis added.) Did someone plant that item in that obituary to take the glare of possible foul play off of themselves and DDB and the Tribune and all the matters discussed in this series?

The Tribune story stated: "A Metro [commuter train] employee found him Friday morning, slumped in his seat on his way to work, his customary collection of morning newspapers still in his lap. He had died on his morning commute from his Flossmoor home to his office downtown."

Some of his buddies, however, have confided to us that they are convinced that George Lazarus was murdered. One media honcho, poorly informed and naive, said: "Was he shot with a gun?" That's a foolish question in the current era of political assassination. (Evidently he never read the reports by CIA to Congressional intelligence committees about cyanide pistols and potassium killer devices.)

Did the Tribune want their own reporter DEAD? There is the unsolved crime from about 1930, involving a Tribune reporter, Jake Lingle, who was shaking down mobsters and others to hush up stories. He was bumped off by being shot in a public place. (It may be a small item, but Lazarus lived among the numerous hoodlums in the south suburb of Flossmoor.)

So you thought that mass-media reporters are only knocked off in Mexico? Ha, ha. Lazarus was reportedly pursuing some of the issues raised by our series. Was the highly corrupt U.S. Justice Department going to finally take an interest that Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Cola are owned and operated by substantially the same people? That they are a price-fixing monopoly designed to wreck other smaller soft drink beverage firms like Royal Crown Cola. And that DDB advertising represents both of the two major soda pop companies, Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Cola.

So how many more are they going to have to assassinate to cover up the Coca-Cola espionage and corruption scandals? Stay tuned.

[Since 1958, Mr. Skolnick has been a court reformer. A Short History Of Secret Human Biological Experiments

Editor's note: The anonymous author who assembled the following "litany of sins" against a largely unsuspecting public deserves a great hand of applause. That there are, in secret places, dark ones of high technical accomplishment but low conscience and morality is amply displayed as the list below unfolds.

In many ways this list is quite conservative. It neither goes back far enough to include, say, the very suspicious 1918 "influenza" outbreak which killed well over 20 million people, nor does it cover the outrageously bizarre non-biological aspects of some of the super-twisted experimental programs that do get mentioned herein, such as MK-ULTRA. (Our Front Page story in last month's issue of The SPECTRUM began to examine those hard-to-believe areas.) Actually, some of those non-biological, electromagnetically moderated, mind-control aspects make the biological shenanigans seem relatively tame by comparison.

To expand upon this list means to turn to such as the exceptional investigative work of Eustace Mullins and his classic book Murder By Injection, or Dr. Len Horowitz, as chronicled in his astonishing books, especially EMERGING VIRUSES: AIDS & Ebola—Nature, Accident, Or Intentional? (These are available from Wisdom Books & Press, noted elsewhere in this newspaper.) Regular readers of this newspaper are quite familiar with Dr. Horowitz's regular contributions as an investigator and researcher who does not hesitate to name names and tell it like it is!

But first consider the following. Without this 66-year list to put a very sinister effort into perspective, it would be nearly impossible for any decent person to accept that any one of these items actually occurred, much less all of them! But they did—and will continue until we finally put a stop to such clandestine madness. Again ask yourself the question: "How could we go so wrong?" in considering how our higher educational system could

1931: Dr. Cornelius Rhoads, under the auspices of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Investigations, infects human subjects with cancer cells. He later goes on to establish the U.S. Army Biological Warfare facilities in Maryland, Utah, and Panama, and is named to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. While there, he begins a series of radiation exposure experiments on American soldiers and civilian hospital patients.

1932: The Tuskegee Syphilis Study begins. 200 Black men diagnosed with syphilis are never told of their illness, are denied treatment, and instead are used as human guinea pigs in order to follow the progression and symptoms of the disease. They all subsequently die from syphilis, their families never told that they could have been treated.

1935: The Pellagra Incident. After millions of individuals die from Pellagra over a span of two decades, the U.S. Public Health Service finally acts to stem the disease. The director of the agency admits they had known for at least 20 years that Pellagra is caused by a niacin deficiency, but failed to act since most of the deaths occurred within poverty-stricken Black populations.

1940: Four hundred prisoners in Chicago are infected with Malaria in order to study the effects of new and experimental drugs to combat the disease. Nazi doctors later on trial at Nuremberg cite this American study to defend their own actions during the Holocaust.

1942: Chemical Warfare Services begins mustard gas experiments on approximately 4,000 servicemen. The experiments continue until 1945 and made use of Seventh Day Adventists who chose to become human guinea pigs rather than serve on active duty.

1943: In response to Japan's full-scale germ-warfare program, the U.S. begins research on biological weapons at Fort Detrick, MD.

1944: U.S. Navy uses human subjects to test gas masks and clothing. Individuals were locked in a gas chamber and exposed to mustard gas and lewisite.

1945: Project Paperclip is initiated. The U.S. State Department, Army Intelligence, and the CIA recruit Nazi scientists and offer them immunity and secret identities in exchange for work on top-secret government projects in the United States.

1945: "Program F" is implemented by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). This is the most extensive U.S. study of the health effects of fluoride, which was the key chemical component in atomic bomb production. One of the most toxic chemicals known to man, fluoride, it is found, causes marked adverse effects to the central nervous system—but much of the information is squelched in the name of "national security" because of fear that lawsuits would undermine full-scale production of atomic bombs.

1946: Patients in VA hospitals are used as guinea pigs for medical experiments. In order to allay suspicions, the order is given to change the word "experiments" to "investigations" or "observations" whenever reporting a medical study performed in one of the nation's veterans' hospitals.

1947: Colonel E.E. Kirkpatrick of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission issues a secret document (Document 07075001, January 8, 1947) stating that the agency will begin administering intravenous doses of radioactive substances to human subjects.

1947: The CIA begins its study of LSD as a potential weapon for use by American intelligence. Human subjects (both civilian and military) are used with and without their knowledge.

1950: Department of Defense begins plans to detonate nuclear weapons in desert areas and monitor downwind residents for medical problems and mortality rates.

1950: In an experiment to determine how susceptible an American city would be to biological attack, the U.S. Navy sprays a cloud of bacteria from ships over San Francisco. Monitoring devices are situated throughout the city in order to test the extent of infection. Many residents become ill with pneumonia-like symptoms.

1951: Department of Defense begins open-air tests using disease-producing bacteria and viruses. Tests last through 1969 and there is concern that people in the surrounding areas have been exposed.

1953: U.S. military releases clouds of zinc cadmium sulfide gas over Winnipeg, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Fort Wayne, the Monocacy River Valley in Maryland, and Leesburg, Virginia.

Their intent is to determine how efficiently they could disperse chemical agents.

1953: Joint Army-Navy-CIA experiments are conducted in which tens of thousands of people in New York and San Francisco are exposed to the airborne germs Serratia Marcescens and Bacillus Glogigii.

1953: CIA initiates Project MK-ULTRA. This is an eleven-year research program designed to produce and test drugs and biological agents that would be used for mind control and behavior modification. Six of the subprojects involved testing the agents on unwitting human beings.

1955: The CIA, in an experiment to test its ability to infect human populations with biological agents, releases a bacteria drawn from the Army's Biological Warfare Arsenal over Tampa Bay, FL.

1955: Army Chemical Corps continues LSD research, studying its potential use as a chemical incapacitating agent. More than 1,000 Americans participate in the tests, which continue until 1958.

1956: U.S. military releases mosquitos infected with Yellow Fever over Savannah, GA and Avon Park, FL. Following each test, Army agents posing as public health officials test victims for effects.

1958: LSD is tested on 95 volunteers at the Army's Chemical Warfare Laboratories for its effect on intelligence.

1960: The Army Assistant Chief-of-Staff for Intelligence (ACSI) authorizes field testing of LSD in Europe and the Far East. Testing of the European population is code-named "Project Third Chance" while testing of the Asian population is code-named "Project Derby Hat".

1965: CIA and Department of Defense begin Project MK-SEARCH, a program to develop a capability to manipulate human behavior through the use of mind-altering drugs.

1965: Prisoners at the Holmesburg State Prison in Philadelphia are subjected to dioxin, the highly toxic chemical component of Agent Orange, used in Viet Nam. The men are later studied for development of cancer, which indicates that Agent Orange had been a suspected carcinogen all along.

1966: CIA initiates Project MK-OFTEN, a program to test the toxicological effects of certain drugs on humans and animals.

1966: U.S. Army dispenses Bacillus Subtilis, variant niger, throughout the New York City subway system. More than a million civilians are exposed when army scientists drop lightbulbs filled with the bacteria onto ventilation grates.

1967: CIA and Department of Defense implement Project MK-NAOMI, successor to MK-ULTRA, designed to maintain, stockpile, and test biological and chemical weapons.

1968: CIA experiments with the possibility of poisoning drinking water by injecting chemicals into the water supply of the FDA in Washington, D.C.

1969: Dr. Robert MacMahan of the Department of Defense requests from Congress $10 million to develop, within 5 to 10 years, a synthetic biological agent to which no natural immunity exists.

1970: Funding for the synthetic biological agent is obtained under H.R. 15090. The project, under the supervision of the CIA, is carried out by the Special Operations Division at Fort Detrick, the Army's top-secret biological weapons facility. Speculation is raised that molecular biology techniques are used to produce AIDS-like retroviruses.

1970: United States intensifies its development of "ethnic weapons" (Military Review, November 1970) designed to selectively target and eliminate specific ethnic groups who are susceptible due to genetic differences and variations in DNA.

1975: The virus section of Fort Detrick's Center for Biological Warfare Research is renamed the Fredrick Cancer Research Facilities and placed under the supervision of the National Cancer Institute (NCI). It is here that a special virus cancer program is initiated by the U.S. Navy, purportedly to develop cancer-causing viruses. It is also here that retrovirologists isolate a virus to which no immunity exists. It is later named HTLV (Human T-cell Leukemia Virus).

1977: Senate hearings on Health and Scientific Research confirm that 239 populated areas had been contaminated with biological agents between 1949 and 1969. Some of the areas included San Francisco, Washington, D.C., Key West, Panama City, Minneapolis, and St. Louis.

1978: Experimental Hepatitis-B vaccine trials, conducted by the CDC, begin in New York, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. Ads for research subjects specifically ask for promiscuous homosexual men.

1981: First cases of AIDS are confirmed in homosexual men in New York, Los Angeles, and San Francisco—triggering speculation that AIDS may have been introduced via the Hepatitis-B vaccine.

1985: According to the journal Science (227:173-177), HTLV and VISNA, a fatal sheep virus, are very similar, indicating a close taxonomic and evolutionary relationship.

1986: According to the Proceedings Of The National Academy Of Sciences (83:4007-4011), HIV and VISNA are highly similar and share all structural elements, except for a small segment which is nearly identical to HTLV. This leads to speculation that HTLV and VISNA may have been linked to produce a new retrovirus to which no natural immunity exists.

1986: A report to Congress reveals that the U.S. Government's current generation of biological agents includes: modified viruses, naturally occurring toxins, and agents that are altered through genetic engineering to change immunological character and prevent treatment by all existing vaccines.

1987: Department of Defense admits that, despite a treaty banning research and development of biological agents, it continues to operate research facilities at 127 facilities and universities around the nation.

1990: More than 1500 six-month-old Black and Hispanic babies in Los Angeles are given an "experimental" measles vaccine that had never been licensed for use in the United States. CDC later admits that parents were never informed that the vaccine being injected into their children was experimental.

1994: With a technique called "gene tracking" Dr. Garth Nicolson at the MD Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, TX discovers that many returning Desert Storm veterans are infected with an altered strain of Mycoplasma Incognitus, a microbe commonly used in the production of biological weapons. Incorporated into its molecular structure is 40 percent of the HIV protein coat, indicating that it had been man-made.

1994: Senator John D. Rockefeller issues a report revealing that for at least 50 years the Department of Defense has used hundreds of thousands of military personnel in human experiments and for intentional exposure to dangerous substances. Materials included mustard and nerve gas, ionizing radiation, psychochemicals, hallucinogens, and drugs used during the Gulf War.

1995: U.S. Government admits that it had offered Japanese war criminals and scientists who had performed human medical experiments salaries and immunity from prosecution in exchange for data on biological warfare research.

1995: Dr. Garth Nicolson uncovers evidence that the biological agents used during the Gulf War had been manufactured in Houston, TX and Boca Raton, FL and tested on prisoners in the Texas Department of Corrections.

1997: Eighty-eight members of Congress sign a letter demanding an investigation into bioweapons use and Gulf War Syndrome.

[Editor's note: And then, at the very least we could add, starting in 1998, the mysterious yet bold and persistent "chemtrails" sprayings over our heads which have sent many people, especially the elderly, to hospital emergency rooms or the morgue. So far nobody, of the likely culprits, is publicly claiming responsibility for this project which, according to the available evidence, seems to have both biological and electromagnetic agendas.]

An Overview Of The Illuminati

Editor's note: There is a great deal of material circulating around concerning the super-secret, elite fraternity known as the "Illuminati" which is closer to being well-engineered disinformation than Truth. But every once in awhile something appears which is worth sharing, which suggests a strong flavor of "insider" credibility.

According to credible and daring research works such as Dr. John Coleman's excellent and very comprehensive volume called CONSPIRATORS' HIERARCHY: The Story Of The Committee Of 300, the group known as the Illuminati are "just" one of the organizations of the wealthy, so-called "elite" families who strive to be in control of this planet through a dizzying array of institutions. And yet the Illuminati are historically perhaps the oldest and most dominant group, something like the "board of directors" of a large, multi-faceted corporation.

The following is excerpted from the par-discuss@tje.net Internet website and is from a 12-chapter book which claims to have been written by a former Illuminati programmer who titles the work Breaking The Chain: Breaking Free Of Cult Programming. The objective here is not to present that entire outlay, but rather, give a sense of how such super-secret societies can operate right in our midst and yet remain mostly camouflaged from view—unless you know what to look for.

10/20/00 NEWS DESK SPECIAL REPORT

CHAPTER ONE: AN OVERVIEW OF THE ILLUMINATI

By "Svali"

In order to comprehend Illuminati cult programming, it is necessary to first understand something of the structure and philosophy of the organization. The Illuminati are a group of people who follow a philosophy known as "Illuminism" or "Enlightenment".

Although named only several hundred years ago, they trace their historical roots to the early "mystery" religions of Egypt, Babylon, and even Mesopotamia. Out of these ancient religions (which were practiced secretly over many centuries) there arose esoteric groups which maintained the traditions, continued to practice the rites, and reflected the enculturation inherited from the original groups.

Over the centuries, these groups operated openly in some countries, but covertly where their practices were opposed by Christianity or certain other religions. Some of the groups which evolved from these ancient roots were the Order of the Knights Templar, Rosicrucianism, Baphetomism, and Druidic cults. Modern-day Illuminism has developed from these groups; the original Illuministic leaders extracted what they deemed the best practices of each root religion, and combined them into principles which were then organized according to specific guidelines.

Modern day Illuminism is funded by the wealthy, but practiced in all social strata. Having originated from the German branch of Rosicrucianism, expanded into England, then arrived in America with the first settlers, it is a philosophy whose tenets have continued to spread throughout the world.

The Illuminati have three main branches: the Germanic (which oversees the others), the British (which handles finances) and the French/Russian. All three are represented in both the United States and Canada, as well as every other country in the world.

HOW THE ILLUMINATI ARE ORGANIZED IN THE UNITED STATES

The Illuminati have groups in every major city of the United States. They originally entered the U.S. through Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and from there spread across the U.S. There are 18 cities across the U.S. which are considered major "power centers" for Illuminati power and/or influence. These include:

Washington, DC and the surrounding areas; Albany, NY; Pittsburgh, PA; the "golden triangle" of the Winston-Salem/Raleigh/Durham, NC area; Minneapolis, MN; Ann Arbor, MI; Wichita, KS; Phoenix, AZ; Portland, OR; Flagstaff, AZ; Seattle, WA; Houston, TX; Los Angeles, CA and surrounding areas; Atlanta, GA; New Orleans, LA, Springfield, MS. Other cities are important to the Illuminati, as well, but these cities funnel money for them, conduct research, and often regional councils sit within them.

HIERARCHY OF THE ILLUMINATI

The Illuminati have organized their society along extremely hierarchical, or stratified, levels.

The Illuminati have divided the United States into 7 geographical regions. Each region has its own regional council, composed of 13 members, with an advisory board of 3 elders to each one. These regions interact for purposes of finances, personnel, teaching, etc.

Beneath each regional council is a local council. This is a council of 13 members, the head of whom sits on the regional council and gives it information about the local groups underneath his leadership. The local council will also have an advisory council of 3.

A local leadership council in a large metropolitan area might look like this:

- Head of local council (reports to regional council);
- Two intermediaries (report all activities under leader to him);
- Four administrators (oversee finances, administer, set up group activities);
- Six head trainers (over trainers in local groups, teach other trainers).

Underneath the above leadership council will be six people designated as informers or intermediaries, who go to the local group meetings, interact with local group leaders, and report to the leadership council.

The levels below the leadership council are known as the anarchical levels.

Underneath the intermediate level is the local group level. It will look like this:

Local "sister groups" will vary in number, according to the size of the city, or cities, in the area. A large metropolitan area may have anywhere from ten to twenty seven groups.

Each sister group will be headed up by:

A high priest and priestess; this job is rotated every 3 years, to allow different people within the group to take on leadership roles. Each group will also have different members, with specific roles/jobs within the group.

One thing that I would like to emphasize is the fact that the Illuminati today are generational. Its members are born into the group, which is highly organized, as described above. The set-up discussed above is representative, with minor variations, of most major metropolitan regions of the United States. Smaller population centers will be organized under similar guidelines, but will be umbrellaed together with several cities within the region to create the local leadership council.

HOW THE ILLUMINATI MAKE MONEY

The Illuminati are involved in many areas of making money, as they need continued financing to survive. There are several illegal enterprises that they are involved in, as well as legal ones.

Drug running: The Illuminati linked up with the Mafia and the Columbians, years ago, to help each other out with bringing drugs into the United States. They also provide couriers for taking drugs and money out of the States. The Illuminists are generally wealthy businessmen, who have four layers of people underneath them. The fourth layer down actually has contact with the people in the drug industry. They never identify themselves as Illuminists; only as people interested in investing with a guaranteed profit, and are highly secretive. In return, the local groups supply people willing to be couriers of money or drugs, or people willing to help cover for the local operations.

Pornography: The Illuminati are linked in many cities with pornography, prostitution, child prostitution, and White slavery sales. Again, several layers are present, as a buffer, between the true “management” and those either engaged in the activities, or in paying for/funding and eventually being paid for the activities. Children are often supplied from the local cult groups, and taught to be child prostitutes (and later, adult prostitutes); they are photographed and filmed in every type of pornography available, including “snuff films” and violent films.

Gun running: The Illuminati and other groups are also involved in international gun sales and shipments. The Illuminists have well trained couriers who will cross international and state lines. These couriers are highly secretive, and will not reveal their sources, on pain of suicide or assassination. These people are accountable to others above them, with two more “buffer layers” of people above these, before the person in the Illuminati with money, who helps fund this, is found.

Buying access codes for military computers: The Illuminati will have people from all strata of civilian life trained to go and make pickups near or on military bases. A typical person used might be the innocent looking wife of a military person, a local businessman, or even a college student. There is a contact inside the base, also a dissociative Illuminist, who brings the information to the outside contact. Occasionally, the contact person is paid with money, information, or goods. The military computer codes are changed on random schedules; the Illuminati have at least 5 or 6 contacts on each major base, who alert them when the codes are getting ready to change, on pain of death. The Illuminists like having access to military computers, because that will gain them entrance to closed files the world over.

Hiring and selling assassinations: This is done worldwide, more in Europe than in the States. These people are paid big money to do either a private or political assassination. The money is paid either to the assassin, or to the trainer; usually they both divide the fee. The assassin is offered protection in another country for awhile, until the trail runs cold. If the kill is done in Europe, they may be sent to the Far East or the U.S., and vice versa if the kill is done in the U.S. The Illuminati have a wide arena of places and false identities to hide these people, unless for some reason they want the assassin disposed of as well. Then he/she is caught and immediately executed.

Mercenaries/military trainers: Guess who gets paid money to come in and train paramilitary groups? Who has training camps all over the states of Montana, Nevada, and North Dakota? Who occasionally will offer their expertise in return for a large financial reward? They never advertise themselves as Illuminati, unless the group is known to be sympathetic to their cause. Instead, these are tough, cold, brutal military trainers who offer to teach these groups in return for money, or even better, a promise to affiliate with their group in return (loyalty in return for knowledge). More and more paramilitary groups have been brought into the Illuminati this way, without their full knowledge of who and what the group really is. This gives the Illuminists a way to monitor these groups (their trainers report on them and their activities), and it can be useful to have trained military groups that they can call on someday.

Banking: The original Illuminists were bankers, and they have highly trained financiers to organize their money, and funnel the above illicit funds into more “respectable” front groups/organizations. They will also start benevolent charities, community organizations, etc., as fronts, and funnel the money from a broad base into these groups. The Illuminati particularly pride themselves on their money making and manipulation skills, and their ability to cover their paper trails expertly through layer after layer. All banking trails eventually will lead to Belgium, the Illuminati financial center for the world. These are some of the major money making enterprises that the Illuminati are engaged in. They have a lot of financial resources backing their enterprises, which means that in reality they can engage the best lawyers, accountants, etc., to help cover their trail as well.

CHAPTER TWO

JOBS IN THE ILLUMINATI (OR, WHY THEY SPEND ALL THAT TIME TRAINING PEOPLE)

To understand generational programming, it helps to understand WHY the cult goes to the amount of trouble that it does to place programming into people. Training represents time and effort, and no one—especially a cult member—will spend that amount of energy unless there will be a return on the investment. This will be a simple overview of some of the more common jobs in the cult. It is not meant to be exhaustive, or in any way considered to be complete.

The cult has a very organized hierarchy of jobs. Like any large organization, in order to run smoothly, it needs people who are well trained in their jobs—so well trained that they can do their tasks without even thinking about them. To maintain secrecy, this group must also have people completely dedicated to not revealing their roles in the cult—even under threat of death or punishment. The cult wants members who are completely loyal to the group and its tenets, who never question the orders they are given. These qualities in group members ensure the continuance of the cult, and that its secrets are never revealed to the outside world.

The following is a sampling of some jobs in the cult (not listed in order of priority).

Informers: These people are trained to observe details and conversations with photographic recall. They are trained to report to their local cult leader or hierarchy, or trainer, and will download large amounts of information under hypnotic trance. Detailed knowledge of conversations or even documents can often be retrieved in this manner. They are often used as “plants” to gather information in both governmental settings, and within the cult meetings.

Breeders: These people are often chosen from childhood to have and breed children. They may be chosen according to bloodlines, or given in arranged marriages or cult alliances, to “elevate” the children. A parent will often sell the services of a child, as a breeder, to the local cult leader in return for favors or status. These children are rarely used as a sacrifice; usually they are given to others in the cult to adopt or raise, but the breeder is told that any child born to her was “sacrificed” to prevent her looking for the child. Occasionally, in anarchical cults, a local leader or parent will have a child as the result of an incestuous liaison. Such a child is given away or killed, but the mother will be told the child was given away to a distant branch, and must be given up.

Prostitutes: Prostitutes can be a male or female of any age. They are trained from earliest childhood to give sexual favors to one or more adults in return for payment to the child’s parents or their local cult group. Occasionally, the prostitute may be given to a member of the cult on a temporary basis, as a “reward” for a job well done. Child prostitution is a big business for the cult, and training very, very young children in this role is taken very seriously. Child prostitutes are also used to blackmail political figures or leadership outside the cult.

Pornography: A child used in pornography (which may include bestiality) can also be of any age or sex. Child pornography is also big business in the cult, and includes snuff films. Children are trained in this role from preschool on, often with the help or approval of the child's parents. The parents are paid or given favors by the cult in return for selling their child or allowing their child to be trained in this area.

Media personnel: These are very bright, verbal people. They will be sent to journalism school and will work for local or regional media upon graduation. These individuals have many contacts within the organization as well as the outside world. They write books and articles sympathetic to the Illuministic viewpoint without ever revealing their true affiliation. They will tend to do biased research in their articles, favoring only one viewpoint, such as denying the existence of DID or ritual abuse. For instance, they will interview only psychiatrists/psychologists sympathetic to this viewpoint and will skew data to present a convincing picture to the general public. If necessary, they will outright lie or make up data to support their viewpoint. There are members of groups whose people have been purposely trained to try and help formulate public opinion on the nonexistence of the cult (i.e., cults don't exist; no rational person would believe this "mass hysteria"). The Illuminists believe that to control the media is to control the thinking of the masses. For this reason, they take training media personnel quite seriously.

Helpers at rituals: Cleaners clean up meticulously after rituals. They will scour the site after a ceremony, rake the area, etc. They are taught this job from preschool years on. Preparers set up tables, cloths, candles, and paraphernalia quickly and efficiently. This job is learned from infancy on.

Readers read from the Book of Illumination or local group archives; they also keep copies of sacred literature in a safe vault and are trained in ancient languages. Readers are valued for their clear speaking voices and ability to dramatize important passages and bring them to life.

Cutters are taught to dissect animal or human sacrifices (they are also known as the "slicers and dicers" of the cult). They can do a kill quickly, emotionlessly, and efficiently. They are trained from early childhood on.

Chanters sing, sway, or lead choruses of sacred songs on high holy occasions.

High priest/priestess: The person who holds this job is changed every few years in most groups, although it may be held longer in smaller, more rural groups. These people administrate and lead their local cult group as well as coordinate jobs within the cult, give assignments, and pass on meeting dates given from the local hierarchy or leadership council. They also will activate the local group's telephone tree, evaluate their local group members for job performance, and lead in all spiritual activities. They report to the local or regional leadership council over their group.

Trainers: These people teach local group members their assigned jobs and monitor the performance of these jobs at local group meetings or after an assigned task. These people report to the high priest/priestess over their group, as well as to the local head trainer on leadership council.

Punishers: These are the people who brutally punish/discipline members caught breaking rules or acting outside of or above their authority. They are universally despised by other cult members, although they will be praised for a job well done by the local high priest or priestess. Usually physically strong, they will employ any method deemed necessary to prevent a recurrence of the undesired behavior. Punishment may be public or private, depending upon the severity of the infraction. Each local group has several punishers.

Trackers: These people will track down and keep an eye on members who attempt to leave their local group. They are taught to use dogs, guns, taser, and all necessary tracking techniques. They are also adept at using the Internet to monitor a person's activities. They will track credit card use, checks written, and employ other methods to find a missing person.

Teachers: These people teach group classes to children to indoctrinate cult philosophy, languages, and specialized areas of endeavor.

Child care: These people care for very young children when the adults are at local group meetings. Usually care is for young infants only. After age two, children are routinely engaged in some form of group activity led by trainers of the youngest children.

Infant child-care workers are usually quiet and coldly efficient.

Couriers: These members run guns, money, drugs, or illegal artifacts across state or national lines. Usually they are people who are young and single without outside accountability. They are trained in the use of firearms to get out of difficult situations. They must be reliable and able to get past any anticipated barriers.

Commanding officers: These people oversee military training in the local groups and help ensure the smooth running of these exercises. They will delegate jobs to those ranking under them and are responsible to the local leadership council. The council will have at least one member on it representing the military branch of the Illuminati. In addition, there are many military-related jobs beneath the commanding officers.

Behavioral scientists: These individuals often oversee the training in local and regional groups. These students of human behavior are intensely involved in data collection and human experimentation in the name of the pursuit of knowledge of human behavior in the scientific realm. They are almost universally cold, methodical, impersonal people and will employ any methods to study trauma and its effects on the human personality. Their main interest centers around implementing programming and cult control in the most efficient and lasting manner.

There are many other jobs inside the cult. The cult spends quite a bit of its time getting people to do these jobs for them for FREE, which is why they PROGRAM people to believe they are doing their "family" and the world a service. The reality, of course, is that the individual is being abused and taken advantage of by the cult.

Be Thankful For Your Planet's Great Gift Of Compassion

11/3/00 HATONN

Good afternoon, my scribe. It is I, Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn, come in the Radiant Light of The One Light, Creator Source. Be still, my friend, for there are ones who wish to stop this communication cycle. Persist and know that We of the Higher Lighted Realms can neutralize the psychic and electronic attacks. Always keep The Light about you, and ask for Assistance whenever the thought crosses your mind to do so.

Great chains of events are currently unfolding which will impact the lives of all ones on your planet. These events are orchestrated so that the twisted "dreams" of a few will be realized, while literally enslaving the rest of those who remain in the physical.

These events will NOT come off as the would-be slavemasters intend. As with all such ill-gotten plans, they lack balance, and thus cause great inner emotional stirrings in the ones they intend to victimize. This emotional energy often results in a great resurgence of inner connection to Source, and thus summons forth great Unseen Forces that will literally dissolve the illusion perpetuated by these ones who have sold their souls for the IDEA of power—never once realizing that they themselves are being used, let alone set up for great karmic strife.

Many of you ones, including my scribe, wish to have more specific details as to what is planned. Dear ones, look around you and ask yourselves: "Can this world continue going down its current path without 'something' breaking?"

The economic markets around the world are quite fragile. Your population growth has hardly begun to slow, despite the many attempts to unleash massive plagues, such as AIDS, or sterilization efforts through inoculation and such.

These things do not work because the Will of man is greater than any man-made device of mass destruction. When the Will of man is clearly focused and centered around Creator God, many "miracles" can and are manifested within the physical realm.

For example, this means that for every man-made plague there will also always be generated (through Inspiration) many possible ways to counter such assaults. Put generally, in response to any such emotionally charged challenges, there will ALWAYS be ones who are Inspired to take actions which will lead to the discovery of a balancing solution.

God works on ALL levels of science, as well as religious philosophy. There are many ones on your planet who have come to balance their "karmic scales" by applying their unique gifts toward the goal of breaking the cycles of destruction that your planetary mass consciousness seems to fall for, time and time again.

Great strides are being made at all levels of "conventional" science that are causing great concerns for those who wish to keep certain technologies out of the "public" sector. Why would those who control your governments of the world wish to keep secret the many discoveries of ones such as Nikola Tesla, who came forth to give your world energy sources that would not disrupt the natural ecological balance of your planet? (Fossil fuels not only pollute the air and water supplies, but they are disrupting the natural electrolytic functioning of your planetary orb when you deplete them. Think of these oil deposits as part of an electrolytic capacitor, and you may find insight concerning the natural reason they exist in the first place.)

Your general understanding of your planetary physiology is quite unsophisticated, and though many of you take for granted the orb upon which you live, she is quite alive and has a consciousness. Her will is similar to your own, and she wishes to be healthy and in a state of balance. Her calls are NOT being ignored!

Due to the severe abuse of your planet, there will come a time when the mass majority will need to be relocated to other "school rooms" while she is given opportunity and time to heal. There will always be caretakers assigned—both physical and non-physical—who will put forth great healing energies toward your planet, as they nurse her back to a balanced state of health.

Her challenges are great and she knows that she is providing a service (environment) to you ones so that you may have the opportunity to learn and grow, but this does not mean she will necessarily go the way of Maldek (the remnants of which is the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter).

At present there is little solace being offered to her from the burden she carries. However, great energies are being sent to her and, though the constant attacks are relentless, she is being stabilized to a great extent with the help of many a Lightworker from the Inter-Galactic Federation Of Sovereign Planets. We have many ones stationed in craft, all about your planet, supplying assistance to her. These efforts are designed to relieve the pressures slowly, so as to allow for less destructive shifts in your planet's crustal plates and waters.

Why is this being done? Because your planetary orb has asked that it be this way, for she realizes the general state of ignorance of your species. She has great compassion as a being who wishes to see you each have the greatest opportunity possible to wake up and move out of your various states of ignorance—and back into a state of balance, a state of en-Light-ened awareness of ALL life, and an appreciation for the interconnectedness we ALL share.

Does this mean that the massive "Earth Changes" have been averted? No. It means they have been delayed and, to some degree, lessened in severity in probability space, according to our probability models.

There are a great number of variables which affect the stability of your planet. Not the least of these are the artificial stresses caused by man's tinkering with the etheric forces (through scalar technology) that modify the "bio-rhythms" of your planet—something like the effects of an artificial pacemaker implanted into someone's heart. These energies, if better understood, COULD be used to help stabilize your planet. But this idea is hardly a concern of those who control and otherwise dictate the application of such technologies.

Be thankful for the stable time you now have, for it is truly a byproduct of a magnificent being's compassion for Life. As your Native American brothers and sisters have long taught, take time to thank Mother Earth for her gift of this exquisite learning environment.

Many are asking such questions as: "When will the Earth Changes come?" and "When will the great economic collapses happen?" and "When will the extraterrestrials make their presence known?" and "How much longer will this 'dancing on the edge' continue?"

To these questions, and ones like them, I will only say that IT WILL NEVER BE THE WAY YOU ONES THINK IT WILL BE.

Many of you ones want prophecy so that you can sit back and wait and do nothing, or so that you can know how much time you have left to “play in the sandbox” before you have to take seriously the suggestions long offered through such as these messages. These “wrong reasons for asking”—coupled with the fact that there are a great number of variables (both physical and non-physical) affecting the actual physical manifestation of such changes so that the exact timing of such events is constantly shifting—make such prophecy nearly impossible. One missed communication, one “hunch” NOT acted upon, can dramatically shift the playing field in terms of which sequence of events is next appropriate.

We of the Lighted Realms are in no hurry for any sort of cataclysmic event, for it would only shorten the opportunities available to you ones. Thus we tend to focus our energies toward balancing out any given circumstances so as to allow for the greatest possible growth and awakening among your general population.

Does it make any real difference which candidate gets elected for the office of President of the United States? No, not really. The candidate has, long ago, been selected, and the presidential race is simply being used as a means of distracting those of the older generations who still think that there is some sort of meaning in participating in such political happenings. The younger generations have not, for the most part, been educated in the basic functioning of the government—let alone the Constitution—and therefore they can’t make heads or tails out of the whole mess, and thus tend to look at such as presidential elections as nothing more than a popularity contest—not unlike voting for the next Miss America.

Be not in despair over anything that happens, for even the seemingly worst of events will have a positive “backlash” for those who can remember to stay centered and keep Creator Source (God) within their daily plans for life and living. With all great “tragedy” that befalls large numbers of a populace, there comes a resurgence of basic fundamental principles of living. This means ideas such as “ALL ones are important” and “TOGETHER survival of any situation IS POSSIBLE” become the basic philosophical building blocks from which balance and stability can be regained.

Those who refuse to carry their fair share of the “load” simply will not “eat” (partake of the rewards of another’s work). This means that those who are used to being waited upon by servants and such will have to either learn to contribute or they will be left to find another parasitic host to “infect”.

You each have great gifts to share with your world. Some of you have taken great strides toward recognizing and strengthening your gifts and have cultivated great inner personal rewards as a result. Others of you have become so distracted with the whole physical game that you have difficulty seeing what gifts you have to offer and tend to “drift” from one idea to the next, always searching to find your “purpose”.

To you who feel the latter applies to you, I offer the following suggestion: Get still, call upon the Light of Creator Source (the One who created you), and ask for Assistance. Ask for clues that will help you to see your strengths. Ask for events to unfold in your life that will help you to use and strengthen your gifts, as well as develop those areas which you need to stretch in understanding.

There is not one upon your world who is without room to grow in several areas of understanding. Be thankful for the opportunities you now have, and be persistent in pursuing those avenues wherein INNER satisfaction results. Greatness is not determined by how many zeros you have in a bank account, or by any other external physical parameter. True greatness comes when YOU, as an individual, can recognize and see and appreciate Creator God in all ones and in all things. This higher perceptual level of awareness, when truly understood and felt, will spark within you great surges of Energy which will enable you to tap an Inner Strength that will literally allow you to walk through fire—if that be the obstacle between you and your chosen destination of achievement!

To TRULY love a person or thing means to be able to match frequency with it and resonate in harmony with same. In essence you become one with the object, through Creator God, and it can have no negative effect upon you.

Think long and hard upon the words of a great Teacher: “I and my Father (Creator God) are One.” Within this statement comes great insight into recognizing who you are and from where you come—and the key to unlocking the “mysteries” of the universe and MUCH, MUCH more.

Let us leave this here, for there are great pressures upon the one who sits and pens this message. Take not these opportunities to share for granted, for they are indeed precious.

I am Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn, and I leave you in the Lighted Radiance of The One Light, Creator of All That IS. May your journey never be without a good challenge, and may you find and exploit that which brings you inner balance and peace.

Much Love and Light to you ALL!

Salu. ☺
